COOLIDGE RENEWS PRAISE OF CONGRESS; EXPECTED TO STUMP

Stresses Harmony With the Legislators as Never Greater Than During His Term.

SEES MESSAGE FULFILLED

His Reiteration of Support Is Taken as Indication That He Will Enter Campaign.

PLANS VISIT TO VERMONT

He Will Go to Plymouth Home Next Week—Dodges Queries About "Big Fish."

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 9.—President Coolidge today significantly reiterated his praise of Congress, asserting that in its constructive legislation it had accepted the major recommendations contained in his message.

This came at the President's first conference with the correspondents held in the Executive offices on Lower St. Regis Lake here. It was taken as indicative of the President's intention to figure in a dignified way in the coming Fall campaign. The fact that he discussed again the action of the last Congress is accepted as showing that politics and his relations to the country are now occupying Mr. Coolidge's mind to the absorption of many other questions.

Those who heard the President today and know of the reports received by Republican leaders are convinced that President Coolidge is going to assume active part in the politics of his party. They say that he finds that Congress has regained its position as a representative body and shares with him the esteem of the voters in the East, while in the Middle West and in the Northwest it is stronger than the Administration, which has been reported to have lost strength on account of opposition to radical farm legislation.

President's Mind Far From Fishing.

This is the only explanation offered by those close to the President for this laudation of Congress, which came unsuggested while the correspondents waited in vain for the promised story of the President's first exploit in fishing here.

Showing evidence of an attack from mosquitoes, President Coolidge appeared in a none too formal mood on this his third day in his camp on Lake Osgood. He motored to the Executive office, accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, and walked quickly from his car to his office a short distance away.

He inspected his appointments in a neat cottage on the lakeside and ten minutes later began to answer questions propounded by the correspondents following the bi-weekly custom.

Interest centred on the fishing story. The questions submitted were ingenious and might have inspired a humorous answer. The President, however, was not so inclined. Doubt was expressed as to the national importance of his piscatorial experience and his utterance was laconically brief. The President let it be known that he always thought that it was not good manners to question a fishing story. He furnished no details as to weight and so the recital of his experiences while fishing must go unrecorded.

Singles Out Congress Leaders.

Passing quickly over questions of a national or international aspect, he lost some of his severity when at the conclusion of his talk he repeated that he was especially pleased with what Congress had done in the session just ended. He indicated that he did not desire to take all the glory for the constructive work of the session, and that while his major recommendations were accepted, Congress performed its function without dictation from him or subservience to his wishes.

Senator Curtis, the Republican leader of the Senate, who is seeking reelection, was singled out. In the President's opinion he deserved much credit for what he had done in a very difficult position. Mr. Curtis, the President thought, was a man of seasoned experience and vast knowledge of parliamentary law upon whom he had depended while Vice President.

In his management over the House, where the Radicals were kept out of committees as Republicans, the President feels that Speaker Longworth was equally successful.

While he had seen much of Representative Tilson, the Republican floor leader, who was directly in charge of House legislation, the President thought that Mr. Tilson had acted upon the advice and approval of Speaker Longworth who, because of the prompt disposal of legislation and its careful preparation, was entitled to praise.

President Coolidge does not see how Congress could have done better work, enacted any more constructive legislation and saved less time in useless debate. In his opinion, the expired Congress was one to be proud of.

The President also felt that there has never been a time when there was greater harmony between Congress and the Executive than during the legislative session just ended. He recalled that he had its support in all his major recommendations.

Following today's conference, friends of President Coolidge said that his second reference to Congress meant only one thing: That the President intended going to the country on its record and his achievements. They declared he was paving the way to enter the campaign by his frequent references to Congress and his own record and added that he would be actively in the campaign.

In praising Congress, President Coolidge

Col. Lindsley Will Fly Over Every European Route

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—Colonel Henry D. Lindsley, New York banker, who was the first National Commander of the American Legion, will have the unique experience of flying over every aerial service in Europe between now and September.

Colonel Lindsley has just arrived from Washington and is arranging with officials of the French Government to travel on every air route in Europe from Spain to Scandinavia and from Great Britain to Moscow.

The former Legion chief would not reveal the reason for this unusually close inspection of the European air services, but said he would return to Washington after completing the circuit.

FRENCH VETERANS APPEAL TO HERRICK

Vainly Beg His Approval of Debt Parade by Protesting Friendship for America.

TO LAY WREATHS AS TOKEN

Honors to Washington and Our War Heroes Move the Government to Be Lenient.

PARIS, July 9.—Officials of the French war veterans' associations called upon Ambassador Herrick this morning and begged him not to put an unfriendly interpretation upon the "silent march" of the nation's former soldiers to the statue of George Washington on Sunday in protest against the terms of the Berenger-Mellon debt agreement.

They remained with the Ambassador for several hours and assured him of the sincerity of their friendship for their former American comrades-in-arms, explaining that the monster demonstration was intended as an appeal to America for a reconsideration of the debt accord rather than an angry gesture against the American Government.

It is believed that the Ambassador was unable to accept this view of the parade and emphasized the fact that the plans for it had already been taken in the United States as a definite indication of resentment.

Tokens of Friendship for America.

The French veteran officials also informed the Ambassador that when they realized that the announcement of their demonstration had stirred up disapproval in America they had tried to call off the parade. This was impossible, they added, although an executive meeting was in session far into the night in the effort to induce the majority to abandon the demonstration.

Then the Government banned the parade, and its leaders became more determined than ever to go through with the demonstration.

As concrete proof of their assertions of friendship for America, the officials said that a statement would be issued coincident with Sunday's parade in which it would be set forth that the parade was held without any political idea in mind and without the least intention of displaying unfriendliness toward Americans.

It will then go on to say that the bond established between France and America through the War of Independence and forged anew in the late war is a precious inheritance to all who fought and that the parade is simply an appeal to friends in a time of dire need.

Before leaving, the veteran officials admitted the inaccuracy of certain statements in the posters which have been plastered all over France, especially the assertion that America had only consented to reduce the total of the French debt 5 per cent. As a matter of fact, the debt accord provides for a reduction of considerably more than 50 per cent.

Legion Leader Averse to Parade.

Edward Thorne, Commander of the American Legion in France, accompanied the Frenchmen to the embassy and told the Ambassador that the Legion had emphatically refused to take part in the demonstration, first because it was believed unfriendly to America, and, secondly, because the Legion felt sure it would do the French cause more harm than good.

HEAT KILLS THREE, MANY PROSTRATED; RAIN DUE TONIGHT

City Swelters in Sudden Wave, Which Sends Temperature Up to 91 Degrees.

ALL THE DEATHS AT CONEY

Crowds Are Permitted to Sleep on the Beach for the First Time This Season.

HOTTEST DAY OF THE YEAR

Resorts Are Filled With Those Seeking Relief—Humidity 83 at 8 In the Morning.

Three deaths and seven prostrations resulted yesterday in New York City from the heat which reached 91 degrees at 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon. This was 7 degrees hotter than the highest temperature previously recorded this year. The greatest humidity was 83 degrees at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The temperature fell off very slowly from its high mark during the evening. The heat may be as great today, according to the prediction, but it probably will be broken by showers this evening.

All of the deaths occurred at Coney Island, where the police estimated that between dawn and dark yesterday more than 600,000 had sought escape from the heat. The Boardwalk was filled to capacity nearly all day, and practically every inch of breathing space on the beaches and beneath the Boardwalk was occupied.

Crowds Sleep on Beaches.

Even when darkness fell the crowds continued to pour into Coney Island, Brighton Beach and Sheepshead Bay beach. The shores were so crowded at 8 o'clock that Captain James Gillen, in charge of the Coney Island police, ordered his men to permit sleeping on the beaches. This is the first time this season that out-of-door sleeping has been permitted there.

After the order was flashed about it was the usual sight to see a tired father, with an equally worn-out-looking mother and several children, trudging along the sands seeking a place where they might lie down. Extra policemen were assigned to prevent the beach sleepers from being robbed or molested.

The Dead.

Following are the deaths and prostrations:

GAVIN, BERNARD, 65, of 1,559 East Fifteenth Street, Brooklyn.

MURRAY, Mrs. Augusta, 63, of 434 Neptune Avenue, Brooklyn.

SADLER, JACOU, 78, of 3,222 Mermaid Avenue, Brooklyn.

The Prostrated.

CARLSON, GUSTAV, 359 Fifty-fourth Street, Brooklyn; working as a longshoreman at the foot of Fifty-seventh Street; taken to the Norwegian Hospital.

CLARK, RENEE, 25 years old, 24 City Hall Place; overcome at 31 Park Place; attended and sent home.

CUMMINS, IRVING, 19 years old, 106 West 143d Street; overcome at 48 West Thirty-ninth Street; attended and sent home.

DOMINCO, 26 years, 130 Monahan Street, Brooklyn; overcome at 114 West Twenty-fourth Street; attended and sent home.

MARCI, MARY, 34 years old, 595 Tinton Avenue, Bronx; overcome at 247 West Twenty-seventh Street; attended and sent home.

MURPHY, Mrs. BRIDGET, 38 years old, 48 Henry Street; overcome near Brooklyn Police Headquarters; treated and sent home.

POPPER, CHARLES, 49 years, 1,021 East Fourteenth Street, Brooklyn; overcome at Sixth Avenue and Twenty-first Street, Manhattan; attended and sent home.

Gavin had been suffering severely from the heat at his home in the morning. He decided to go to Coney Island to seek the cool ocean breezes. As he alighted from a surface car at West Thirty-fifth Street and Surf Avenue he collapsed. Dr. Zahn, who was summoned from Coney Island Hospital, found him dead.

Mrs. Murray died in her home from the heat.

Sadler also died in his home. Dr. Erinson of Coney Island Hospital reported the death due to the heat.

High temperatures were reported over most of the East by the Associated Press. The maximum temperature at Chicago was one degree higher than New York City. The mercury reached 98 in the shade at Springfield, Mass.

Discomfort from the heat was increased in New York by the great congestion of passengers on some transit lines because of the reduced transportation service.

Yesterday's high temperature was not unusual for this time of the year,

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—The French press reports that an agreement for the settlement of the French war debt to Britain has been reached and that it includes a "safeguarding" provision are largely confirmed here.

The British Treasury is chary in giving any details of the settlement until it is known whether M. Caillaux is firm in the saddle, but it is admitted that the French Finance Minister is expected here on Monday to settle the final details of the agreement and to sign it.

It is understood that the figure of £12,500,000, which the French Government last year agreed should constitute the amount of annual payments, is to be adhered to in principle, but early annuities will be on a much smaller scale. They will probably begin at £4,000,000 and increase by £2,000,000 a year.

"Satisfactory assurances have been given by France regarding the transfer question, so that undue pressure shall not be put in any year on the French exchange and also regarding the safeguarding question.

What is being said here on the latter point is that if Germany failed in her reparations payments, it could have no other effect than to diminish France's capacity to make immediate debt remittances, and that no harm can be done by recognizing this.

With regard to the transfer of debt remittances, it is pointed out that if the franc exchange broke badly there would be a more or less automatic suspension of transfer in any case.

It is not admitted that the safeguarding provision in the agreement is definite and as far-reaching as the clause which France wished inserted in her debt agreement with the United States.

Hylan Calls Strike a Plot For Increased Subway Fare

Former Mayor John F. Hylan said yesterday that the Interborough strike was "all a scheme to get an increased fare."

"Certain politicians and public officials are anxious to give the traction interests an increased fare, but they are anxious at the same time to provide themselves with an alibi," he said. "They want to introduce some changes into the situation to furnish new arguments for an increased fare. The inspiration came from large interests who gave a lot of money last year to get rid of me, after a certain big man in this State had said that I was a Greene County mule and that he couldn't move me.

"Smith and Olvany are desirous, in my opinion, of having an increased fare, but they want to be in a position to pretend to the public that they are not responsible for it. If an increased fare is put over the people may have to stand for it, but they won't do it gracefully. Smith is the big boss. The other fellows jump through the hoop every time he pushes the button."

HOOVER ASKS HELP TO AVOID AIR CHAOS

Appeals to Radio Broadcasters for Cooperation to Offset Breakdown of Regulation.

EXPECTS CONGRESS TO ACT

Will Not Assign Wave Lengths to Applicants, Following Attorney General's Ruling.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Admission that regulation of radio broadcasting by the Government has broken down and that stations are under no effective restriction as to wave length, power and time used was made today by Secretary Hoover after the experts of the Department of Commerce had completed a study of the opinion rendered yesterday by Acting Attorney General Donovan.

Examination of the opinion made it appear that the only power of the Government is to prevent sending stations from using wave lengths between 600 and 1,600 meters, the "band" reserved for the Government stations. Hereafter, if radio broadcasting stations make applications for wave lengths outside that band, the Department of Commerce must automatically issue the license.

Secretary Hoover, however, warned those who contemplate opening new stations which might cause interference and confusion in the air that they were proceeding entirely at their own risk and that there undoubtedly would be adopted early in the December session of Congress legislation which would give to the Government full power to "eliminate" confusion by such regulations as it felt necessary.

A special appeal was made by Secretary Hoover that American stations which are now in operation or may be opened should not trespass on wave lengths used by Canadian sending stations. He said that up to this time there had been complete cooperation with Canada, and he felt that it would be a serious offense if this situation were changed.

There are now about 530 American broadcasting stations in operation and 600 applications are on file at the Commerce Department for wave lengths for new stations. Secretary Hoover still is hopeful that voluntary cooperation within the industry will continue and that "chaos in the air," resulting from wholesale pirating of wave lengths, will be avoided.

As the situation now stands, the Department of Commerce probably will take no formal action until there is a chance to see how things work out in the industry itself. A meeting of representatives of the radio interests may be called, however, in an effort to encourage a continuance of voluntary cooperation, if the air conditions get very bad.

The last hope that a semblance of Government control might be retained was given up when the Department of Justice ruled that broadcasting was a transaction of bona fide commercial business, and that as a result the stations did not come under any of the provisions of the 1912 law which might make possible effective control.

In a statement prepared for Secretary Hoover the Commerce Department declared that "the most important feature of the opinion is in respect to the right to assign and authority to enforce or deny the use of particular wave lengths to individual stations." The question, it was held, was "the key to all regulation."

Since 1923, it was stated, the department had been making wave length assignments under a decision of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. A Chicago court later cast doubt on this authority.

"The Attorney General now likewise disagrees with the construction of the District Court of Appeals," the Department of Commerce statement added, "and advises that while under the law each applicant for a license must designate a definite wave length outside the band between 600 and 1,600 metres, yet he is at liberty to use other wave lengths at his will.

"The department will therefore, in accordance with the opinion, not assign wave lengths, but will merely recite on the face of the license the wave length selected by the applicants as the normal wave length of the station. Under the Attorney General's opinion no authority exists in the department or elsewhere to compel adherence to this wave length, and

EIGHTEEN VICTIMS TAKEN FROM S-51; ALL MET QUICK DEATH

They Drowned Almost Before the Wreck Hit Bottom, Investigators Say.

INQUIRY BOARD IN SESSION

Grounding In East River Also Being Investigated — Wilbur Praises the Entire Salvage Crew.

With the navy yard gates locked against all civilians yesterday morning, the work of removing the bodies from the hull of the submarine S-51 was started, and before night eighteen had been taken from the various compartments of the vessel to the morgue of the Navy Hospital.

Of these, twelve had been identified last night. They were:

FOSTER, FREDERICK DAVID, Lieutenant, 83 St. Mary's Avenue, Nutley, N. J., a graduate of the Naval Academy in the Class of 1922.

EGBERT, EDMUND WEBSTER, Ensign, whose parents lived at Mariners Harbor, S. I., but whose widow is living at 20 Murray Avenue, Annapolis.

EARLE, ALLAN CLIFFORD, engineman, first class, of Gloucester, Mass.

ELSER, HARRY DICK, coxswain, of 762 Jefferson Place, Columbus, Ohio.

HILTBOND, VALENTINE, chief torpedoman, of 21 Bayside Avenue, Newport, R. I.

JAMES, FRANKLIN P., chief motor machinists mate, Freeman Av., Stratford, Conn.

MARTIN, GEORGE HENRY, officers' cook, of 1,905 Federal Street, Philadelphia, a negro.

McCARTHY, JOHN JOSEPH, seaman first class, of 357 East Fifty-third Street, New York.

MIMS, FRANK LESTER, fireman third class, of 859 Liberty Street, Augusta, Ga.

THOMAS, CHARLES CARELL, fireman, second class, of 311 Missouri Street, El Paso, Texas.

TRIFFITT, STEPHEN HARTLEY, torpedoman, first class, 86 Lorraine Street, Pawtucket, R. I.

Hands Toward Control Valves.

Lieutenant Foster's body was found in the engine room lying across the port engine, his hands extended toward one of the control valves. One officer is always on watch in the engine room, and it is believed that the young Lieutenant, who had received his junior-grade stripes only a few months before his death, had been caught by the rushing waters as he attempted to close the valve. Six months before his death he had been married to Miss Katherine Lloyd of Nutley and just two weeks before his death he took his bride to New London and established his home there.

Ensign Egbert's body was found in the motor room. He was identified by his watch, which had stopped at 11:35, only a few minutes after the submarine had been rammed by the City of Rome. This mute testimony and other bits of evidence indicated to Lieut. Commander Edward Ellsberg, Morris G. Lenney, Captain of the S-50, the first man to enter the boat yesterday, and to Lieut. Commander William H. Pashley of the Navy Yard staff, that those who failed to escape by the conning tower hatch were drowned almost before the S-51 drove her prow into the bottom.

Hatches Opened With Torches.

It was about 10 o'clock yesterday morning when the last water was drained from the huge pocket in which the submarine was lashed and braced to an even keel. Already men were cracking the hatches with electric and acetylene torches. As they were opened over the various compartments, electric rotary air pumps were set going and a few minutes later Commanders Lenney and Pashley went down to make their technical examinations. What they found will not be made public until they testify before the Board of Inquiry which met yesterday and will continue its sessions indefinitely.

Shortly before noon Lieutenant Harold S. Patton of the S-50 and six members of her crew as well as Dewey G. Kile, one of the three survivors of the S-51, now attached to the S-49, went into the hull to open the lockers and salvage the personal belongings of the crew. At the same time four-

Gunmen Rob Mrs. Alfred Berolzheimer Of $10,000 in Jewelry in Her Summer Home

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 9.—Jewelry valued at $10,000 was stolen early today by three young men who invaded the Summer home of Alfred Berolzheimer, head of the Eagle Pencil Company, and at the point of pistols compelled Mrs. Berolzheimer to give up her jewelry. Mr. Berolzheimer was asleep and was unaware of the theft until aroused by his wife. The robbery is the third of its kind to occur in Westchester County in the past three months.

Telephone wires were cut by the thieves, who gained entrance to the house by means of a ladder to a second story window. Mrs. Berolzheimer was aroused by one of the thieves flashing a light in her eyes. In a low tone the man said: "Don't wake your husband and you won't be harmed. We've cut the wires, and we want all your jewelry and money."

Miss Anna Atchison, nurse of the Berolzheimer baby, was awakened by the thieves, who threatened her with a pistol and backed her into the nursery. A silk handkerchief was thrown over the flashlight used by one intruder so that the baby would not be roused, and as he kept watch over Miss Atchison another guarded Mrs. Berolzheimer, while the third ransacked the room.

A description of the robbers led the police to believe that the work was that of a band of professionals who time their raids about a month apart.

The Berolzheimers make their home at 399 Park Avenue, New York City, during the Winter, but spend the Summer at the home of the late Emil Berolzheimer of White Plains Road, this village. Mrs. Emil Berolzheimer, mother of Alfred Berolzheimer, sailed for Europe on Wednesday. She is a sister-in-law of Philip Berolzheimer, City Chamberlain of New York City under Mayor Hylan.

On June 8, the home of C. R. C. Steers in East Port Chester was entered and Mrs. Steers was compelled to open a wall safe and give up $10,000 worth of jewelry. On May 8, the home in Rye of F. W. Wheeler, head of the American Can Company, was entered and $30,000 worth of jewelry and cash taken from a wall safe which Mrs. Wheeler was compelled to open.

148 POWER MEN JOIN SUBWAY STRIKE; COMPANY SAYS IT CAN MEET EMERGENCY; BANTON TO INVESTIGATE NEW MOTORMEN

YESTERDAY'S STRIKE DEVELOPMENTS

More Strikers—148 out of 882 Interborough power house men joined the strikers. Company officials said that this would not affect maintenance of the system, but they feared sabotage.

Service—On main subway lines the Interborough maintained its gain of the last two days and extended its service to the east side Bronx terminal and to the Queens terminal.

Strikers Seek Allies—The three strike leaders conferred with representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes and of the American Federation of Labor with a view to affiliating their newly formed organization with both, but left the conference without making a formal application.

Accident Inquiries—District Attorney Banton began an investigation of the subway accident at South Ferry, alleged to have been caused by an inexperienced motorman, and suggested that the Transit Commission make a general investigation of reports that the Interborough is employing incompetent motormen.

PAUL D. CRAVATH AND WIFE SEPARATE

It Is Her Preference, Formal Announcement Says, and He Yields to Her Wishes.

SISTER WILL LIVE WITH HER

Daughter to Make Home With Father, Famous as Lawyer —Couple Wed in 1892.

After thirty-four years of married life Paul D. Cravath and his wife, Agnes Huntington Cravath, have agreed to separate, it was announced yesterday.

The announcement was contained in a joint statement issued by C. A. de Gersdorff, Mr. Cravath's law partner, and W. M. Sullivan, counsel for Mrs. Cravath. Rumors that the couple were about to separate had persisted for some time.

The statement follows:

"It is to be regretted that any publicity in connection with the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Cravath is necessary. There is nothing to say except that it is true that Mrs. Cravath has decided that she prefers to live apart from her husband, and Mr. Cravath, while regretting the separation, has yielded to Mrs. Cravath's wishes in that regard.

"Mrs. Cravath has taken an apartment at 910 Fifth Avenue, where she will reside. Mr. Cravath will continue to live at his present address in New York and at his country place at Locust Valley, L. I."

In answer to a question, Mr. de Gersdorff and Mr. Sullivan said a divorce was neither contemplated nor desired by either party.

It was announced that Mrs. Charles B. Lathrop, sister of Mrs. Cravath would live with her, and that Mrs. Cravan Larkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cravath, would make her home with her father on her return from Europe.

Mrs. Cravath before her marriage was an actress, known equally well on the light opera stage in England and America. The wedding took place at St. Thomas's Church this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Wesley Brown, rector, and was attended by about 400 guests.

Mr. Cravath was born in Berlin Heights, Ohio, on July 14, 1861. He was married on Nov. 15, 1892. He is an international lawyer and represented the United States Treasury Department at the Allied War Conference at Paris in 1917 and was a member of the advisory council of the American Mission to the Interallied Council on War Purchases and Finance in London and Paris in 1919. He prepared the principal brief for the American delegation to the Peace Conference on the question of German indemnity and was invited to the Spa

NEW BUCKNER RAID TO CLOSE 55 PLACES

Federal and Local Officers Carry on All-Night Drive In and Out of City.

THEATRE DISTRICT HIT HARD

Restaurants, Drug Stores and Clubs on List — Evidence Got by Mills's Men.

United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner launched his sixth and largest padlock drive soon after 9 o'clock last night. From that time until nearly dawn three squads of Assistant United States Attorneys, Deputy United States Marshals, prohibition agents and policemen served papers in padlock actions against as many of the fifty-five night clubs, restaurants, cabarets, inns and other resorts on their list as they could reach and enter.

Twenty-one of the places listed are in the theatrical district, twelve are in upper Manhattan and seventeen are downtown. Others are out of town.

Mr. Buckner said he acted upon evidence obtained by prohibition agents on the staff of Major Chester P. Mills, Prohibition Administrator for the New York District. A complaint was filed in the Federal Court yesterday against each place. Mr. Buckner gave full credit to Major Mills's men, who have been at work two months gathering the information upon which the complaints were based.

Says It Can Replace Employes and Maintain the Service if Machinery Is Unharmed.

TRANSIT BOARD PREPARES

Added Bus and Ferry Facilities Planned if Power Fails— It Might Affect B. M. T.

The Interborough strike, previously confined to motormen and switchmen, was extended early this morning to the company's power department. At least twenty-six men, employed in the company's sub-stations and two main power houses who were due to report at 1 A. M., did not do so, and 122 others on other shifts had pledged themselves to join the strikers during the day.

At 2 o'clock reports to the company's offices at 165 Broadway were to the effect that there had been no failure of power in any part of the system. Confidence was expressed by the management that the company would not only be able to manufacture and distribute sufficient power for the full operation of its subway and elevated lines, but would continue the supply of power to the B. M. T. lines in Manhattan and Queens, and the surface lines in those boroughs that depend upon it for power.

Formal announcement of the strike was made at 10:34 o'clock last night by James F. Walsh, head of Local No. 1 of the motive power branch of the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employes at a meeting in Unity Hall, 341 West Forty-seventh Street. The announcement followed a vote in which 102 power men, 76 of whom work from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M., and 26 of whom are on the shift from 1 A. M. to 9 A.M., pledged themselves to strike.

In addition, at a meeting during the forenoon, forty-six members of the local who work from 5 P. M. to 1 A. M. and who were on duty while the evening meeting was held pledged themselves to strike, as did twenty-four men who had the early morning shift, from 1 to 9 A. M.

At Least 148 Pledged to Strike.

As there was probably considerable duplication among the early morning workers, who were able to attend both meetings, the power men pledged to the strike numbered at least 148. This was something more than half the membership of Local No. 1, which has 246 members. It was only a comparatively small fraction of the entire number of employes in the motive power department, including the 319 employes in the West Forty-seventh Street power house and the 216 employes in the East Seventy-fourth Street power house. The total number of employes in the power department is 882.

Frank Hedley, President and General Manager of the Interborough company, when informed that some of the motive-power men had voted to strike, said:

"I stated earlier that we are fully prepared to keep a continuous power supply sufficient to operate the entire system on a full schedule."

Steps will be taken immediately by the company's management to fill the places vacated by the strikers, and special precautions have already been taken to guard the company's property and prevent any damage of the delicate electrical machinery. According to the company management, the power will continue and the operation of the road will be continued if the machinery is not damaged. Arrangements have been made to obtain skilled men from the big electrical manufacturing plants in Schenectady and Pittsburgh and for the first few tricks the work will be carried on by the foremen, who are not in the brotherhood organization, and the assistants who remain loyal.

Most of the members of Local No. 1 are employed in the company's twenty-four substations and have to do with the distribution of the electricity rather than with the generation of power.

Keeps Check on Power.

On receipt of the news of the extension of the strike to the power men Colonel W. C. Lancaster, chief engineer of the Transit Commission, joined Major Philip Mathews, its chief executive officer, at the commission's offices. Colonel Lancaster at once arranged to send his assistants to the main power houses so that he might be informed at once concerning any failure of power if that occurred.

Major Mathews, who was in touch with John F. Gilchrist, Chairman of the commission, by telephone, made arrangements to telephone Travis H.

Whitney, Vice President of the B. M. T., at the first sign of Interborough power difficulty, so that the Brooklyn company might arrange for a full supply of power to the limit of the capacity of its power houses to keep its Manhattan service running and, if necessary, to run additional surface cars and elevated and subway trains in Brooklyn. Major Mathews also conferred with Albert Goldman, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, and obtained the latter's promise to run additional cars on the city's line over Williamsburg Bridge.

Next to maintaining a service between Manhattan and Brooklyn the members of the Transit Commission are most concerned with trolley service. It would be possible, according to its engineers, to run the lines of the New York Railways and probably the Eighth, Ninth, and Fourth and Madison Avenue lines with power from the Edison Company, upon which the Interborough has the call. These lines now get their power from the Interborough. The Third Avenue system runs regularly on Edison power.

Strike Meeting Enthusiastic.

The evening meeting of the power men showed much more enthusiasm for the strike than did the morning meeting. Mr. Walsh charged the newspapers with unfairness and said he would write an appeal to Governor Smith, Mayor Walker and the Transit Commission stating the position of the men.

There were cheers when each group of men stood up at the request of Mr. Walsh and a particularly loud outburst of cheering when one group of twenty-five said they were employed in the two main power houses.

As at the morning meeting, Mr. Walsh received a vote of confidence as leader and received authority to use the funds of the local in the strike. He then announced that this would be the last meeting as a brotherhood local and that all the men had joined the Consolidated Railroad Workers, the organization formed by the subway motormen and switchmen to carry on the strike.

One member of Local No. 3 of the motive power branch of the Interborough Brotherhood was present as an observer. This representative of the employes in the East Seventy-fourth Street power house, where the electricity is generated, mostly for use on the elevated lines, did not commit himself.

Lavin Cheered by Men.

The meeting also was addressed by Edward P. Lavin, head of the Consolidated Railroad Workers and the leader of the striking motormen and switchmen. Mr. Lavin was greeted with cheers as he congratulated the men for joining the movement to get a wage increase and kill the Interborough brotherhood.

The striking subway motormen and switchmen had sent down a fleet of automobiles from their headquarters at the Manhattan Casino, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue, and the powermen left for there in an automobile parade and were received with cheers on their arrival.

Mr. Walsh was cheered loudly when he addressed the striking motormen and switchmen and pointed to the 102 motive-power men, who had entered with him as the latest recruits to the strike.

"The men of other locals are ready," he shouted. 'With the power men and the motermen and switchmen against it, I think the brotherhood is going out of business."

This brought cheers when he drew out his brotherhood local card and tore it in two and threw it on the floor.

"Here's one who is out of the brotherhood," he cried.

Mr. Walsh has taken a vow not to shave until the strike is won, and has already grown a crop of stubble.

"This is going to be the shortest strike on record," he said. "It's got to be. I want a shave by Monday, because I have a date then."

Says 1,700 Are In Union.

Mr. Walsh asserted that 1,700 men had already joined the Consolidated Railroad Workers, the strike organization that is fighting the brotherhood. He added that he knew because he had seen the rolls.

The meeting decided to increase the membership of the Strike Committee to six, to give three members to the motive-power men.

In a final address to the men, Mr. Walsh warned them not to injure the company's property and told them not to visit the substations, lest they be suspected.

He answered the assertion of the company management that power men quitting work might be prosecuted criminally by saying that he had legal advice on everything he had done.

A little after 12, fifteen automobiles, each bearing two motormen and two power men, left for the substations to get the men quitting work at 1 o'clock and bring them back to the hall. Mr. Walsh said these would number about seventy and that their accession would mean that practically all the members of Local No. 1 would be on strike.

Just after the automobiles had left the strike headquarters, thirty men, who said they were shopmen employed in the 180th Street yards in the Bronx, entered the hall and said they had come to join the strikers.

Power Men Leave Jobs.

According to Mr. Walsh, Local 1 has twenty-two men in each of the company's main power generating stations at West Fifty-ninth Street and East Seventy-fourth Street. There are three chief operators, three "first board" men, three "second board" men, three generator cleaners, eight wipers and two electro-mechanics. There are three operators and three rotary transformer tenders at each substation who are not members of the local.

At the West Fifty-ninth Street power house, three men quit work, and about the same number failed to take their jobs at the East Seventy-fourth Street power house. The men at the substations generally joined the strike, according to early indications and reports at strike headquarters, and most of the men who went off duty at 1 o'clock this morning generally went to strike headquarters in the automobiles provided for them and formally joined the Consolidated Railroad Workers if they had not previously done so.

The first group to report was the men going off duty from the substation at 143d Street and Broadway. Then came the men from the substations at 166th Street and River Avenue and 211th Street and Gunhill Road, both in the Bronx. The enthusiasm of the strikers was dampened slightly when it was reported that the men employed at the substation at 110th Street and Eighth Avenue refused to leave their jobs.

The success of the leaders in extending the scope of the strike rather weakened what seemed to be an overture toward peace earlier in the day. William Keegan, Assistant General Manager in charge of operation, received an inquiry from an intermediary supposed to represent the strike leaders concerning the terms on which they would be permitted to return to work. The reply was that the men could return only as members of the brotherhood. The strike leaders denied that they had caused any such inquiry to be made and said that if there had been one it was entirely without their authority.

The efforts of the strike leaders during the day centred on an attempt to get the power men to strike. At the morning meeting of the night shift workers of Local 1, which is composed of substation men, approximately 70 out of 75 stood up, when James F. Walsh, head of that local asked if they would strike. Approximately 24 of these were said to be workers on the shift beginning at 1 o'clock in the morning. Five of the men remained seated.

The company took unusual precautions, both to find men to replace those who might quit work and to prevent possible damage to the electrical machinery. It was explained that the members of Local 1 were employed in the power substations, where the electric current is transformed from alternating to direct and its voltage is stepped down. The men employed in the company's two main power houses, it was said, belong to separate locals and have not threatened to strike.

Disaffected Men Barred.

James L. Quackenbush, general counsel of the Interborough Company and spokesman for Frank Hedley, President and general manager, said the power men who had indicated their intention to strike would not be permitted to return to their jobs.

"They have not been discharged," he said. "The company does not wish to discharge a man for merely attending a meeting, but they will not be permitted to return to work on valuable machinery, which they might damage, as a measure of protection.

"We are not concerned about the absence of the men who may strike. What we are concerned with is possible damage to valuable machinery, which a man who knows how can put out of commission with a turn of the wrist."

Mr. Quackenbush also asserted that Mr. Walsh and the other power workers who threaten to strike would put themselves in danger of criminal prosecution if they did. He intimated that Mr. Walsh might already have render himself liable to prosecution by trying to get the men to quit work.

Mr. Quackenbush based his threat of criminal prosecution against power men who might strike on the following section of the penal law:

"A person, who wilfully and maliciously, either alone or in combination with others, breaks a contract of service or hiring, knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that the probable consequences of his so doing will be to endanger human life or to cause grievous bodily injury, or to expose valuable property to destruction or serious injury is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Sees Contract Broken.

The power men, through their representatives, of whom Mr. Walsh is one, agreed on June 30 with all the other representatives of locals on the General Committee of the Interborough Brotherhood for a renewal of the wage scale for one year. Mr. Quackenbush contended that a strike by them now would constitute a breach of that agreement.

"The actions of the strikers are getting perilously close to the confines of that statute," Mr. Quackenbush said. "In the strike ten years ago the legal department of this company obtained 730 convictions, and I know how it is done."

Mr. Quackenbush said he did not believe many of the substation power men would quit work. If they should, he said, the company would have men to fill their places.

"There are twenty-four substations," Mr. Quackenbush said. "Each substation employs a regular force of six men, two for each eight-hour shift, and a foreman. One man can do the work at a substation and the additional man is for an emergency. The foremen, with assistants that will remain loyal, can carry on the work for a time. There will be no difficulty in obtaining competent workers for this substation work. We can get plenty from Schenectady and Pittsburgh. Any technical school student can learn to do the work in a short time."

Ready in Case of a Tie-up.

The Transit Commission, through Major Philip Mathews, its chief executive officer, made arrangements for the continuation and extension of the emergency transportation service in case the power men should strike and the Interborough's entire supply of power shut off, although in making arrangements care was used to say that these were merely precautionary and that complete or even partial stoppage of the Interborough's power supply was hardly expected.

The B. M. T. subways in Manhattan and the connecting lines in Queens receive their power from the Interborough. Major Mathews learned by inquiry from officials of the B. M. T. Company that by running their powerhouses to capacity the company could supply enough power to run 50 per cent. of the normal number of trains through the Montague Street tunnel to Canal Street, Manhattan, 50 per cent. of the normal number of trains across the Williamsburg Bridge and through the Centre Street loop and 50 per cent. of the normal number of trains across Manhattan Bridge as far as Fourteenth Street.

In the event of a complete tie-up of Interborough power, the B. M. T. would make no attempt to run trains in Manhattan above Fourteenth Street and probably would have to abandon operation of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern subway and the Corona and Astoria branches in Queens.

L. Jensen, Deputy Superintendent of the New York Edison Company, said that up to 11 o'clock last night no request for emergency power for the Interborough had been forwarded to him.

"The Edison Company is ready to help," he said. "The company, however, cannot give all the necessary power, except at night. But if the men employed at the I. R. T. power stations to operate the stepping-up transformers go out it will be difficult to use the Edison Company's power, as it is of a lower voltage than that now used by the Interborough."

Tentative Plans Laid.

According to the tentative plans made by the Transit Commission, the Interborough would use its "tie-up" with the Edison Company to keep in operation the surface lines of the New York Railways Corporation, including, perhaps, the lines of the Eighth, Ninth and Fourth and Madison Avenue surface lines, which formerly were parts of the New York Railways system, and are now operated independently by Railways Corporation, which in turn buys it from the Interborough. The Third Avenue Railway Company does not get its power from the Interborough, and so would not be affected directly.

Because of the success of the Interborough in moving a considerable number of its subway trains since the beginning of the strike and maintaining practically normal service on its elevated lines, since the spread of the strike to a comparatively small number of elevated motormen and switchmen, much of the emergency transportation originally arranged by the Transit Commission and Albert Goldman, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, has not been used.

If there should be a complete failure of Interborough power neither its subways nor elevated lines could be operated. Major Mathews and Commissioner Goldman were busy during the day rearranging to have the so far unused emergency service ready for call. This will consist mostly of a greater use of interurban buses, many of which can be made available, and a more intensive use of the ferries.

All Affected Lines to Aid.

Officials of the Transit Commission were in consultation during the day with representatives of the other transit companies that would be affected by an Interborough power strike. The latter all promised to cooperate fully with the commission in an effort to give the greatest possible service.

Mr. Hedley's ultimatum, giving the strikers until Monday noon to return or forfeit their jobs, resulted in the return of one subway motorman and one subway switchman. The strikers evened the score by gaining one elevated motorman and one elevated switchman.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon reports to the company showed that there were 116 regular subway motormen and 475 new motormen available for duty, a total of 591, and 18 regular subway switchmen and 218 new switchmen, a total of 236. Since the preceding day 30 new motormen and 13 new switchmen had resigned or had been dismissed.

Outside efforts to settle the strike proved ineffective. The position of the Interborough management, as frequently expressed by Mr. Quackenbush, continued to be that the company could not arbitrate with the strikers so long as they remained as members of the newly organized Consolidated Railroad Workers, but that Mr. Hedley would see their committee if they should return to the Interborough Brotherhood.

John A. Moffett of the United States Department of Labor, who has been directed by his superiors at Washington to be ready to offer his services as conciliator if they were desired, said he had received his instructions too late to do more than make a flying trip to Manhattan from his home in Orange, N. J. Mr. Moffett said he spent about two hours studying subway conditions, and added that he would return today.

Confer With A. F. of L. Organizer.

The subway strikers made inquiries concerning possible affiliation with the American Federation of Labor when they held a conference with Hugh Frayne, General Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and James H. Coleman, General Organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Workers. The conference was held in the offices of Mr. Frayne, 1,452 Broadway.

Mr. Frayne designated Mr. Coleman, as representative of the constituent union of the American Federation of Labor which the subway strikers are seeking to join, to act as spokesman following the conference, and Mr. Coleman, in describing what had happened, said:

"We had Harry Bark, Joseph A. Phelan and Edward P. Lavin, head of the Consolidated Railroad Workers and a leader of the strike, representing the motormen and switchmen, and of James F. Walsh, President of Local No. 1 of the Interborough Power Department Employes; John J. Smith and Henry Rath, representing the power house employes.

"The purpose of the conference was: They wanted to know just how they could become affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. We advised with them about it and laid down the law and policy covering admission to the American Federation of Labor.

"They decided to go into a conference among themselves to discuss the situation and to come back to us at a later date with a decision as to whether they will affiliate or not."

I.R.T. Loss in Fares Increases; $42,135 on 3d Day of Strike

The Interborough's loss in fares on Thursday, the third day of the strike, was $42,135.95, as compared with $39,415.50 on Wednesday and $32,098.45 on Tuesday.

The subway lines carried 966,883 passengers, a decrease of 1,048,007 as compared with the first Thursday in July, 1925. The elevated lines carried 1,172,750 passengers, as compared with 967,462 a year ago, an increase of 202,288.

The net decrease in number of passengers and number of nickels taken in at the turnstiles and from the sales of tickets was 842,719.

SUBWAYS HOLD OWN; SERVICE EXTENDED

Hedley Reports That Operation Was 74%, While Elevated Ran on Normal Schedule.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company continued to give a practically normal service on its elevated lines yesterday. It about held its own in its subway service, when it is considered, as stated by Frank Hedley, President and general manager, that it had increased the scope of service to include the terminals in the Bronx and Queens, in fact everything west of Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn.

Between 6 and 7 o'clock, according to checks by inspectors of the Transit Commission, the elevated lines did considerably better than their usual schedule. During that hour on the Second, Third, Sixth and Ninth Avenue lines 127 trains were run, as compared with 95 trains called for by the regular schedule. This additional service, of course, was to accommodate the increased traffic thrown into the elevated lines by the more serious strike on the subways.

Only One Serious Delay.

Only one serious delay, due to operating difficulties with new motormen, was reported up to evening after the accident at South Ferry in the early morning.

The stalling of a northbound West Farms subway express two blocks south of the Jackson Avenue station in the Bronx tied up traffic north of 149th Street for nearly an hour and a half. The stalling of the train was reported to have been caused by a broken rheostat in a motor. The train, composed of ten cars well filled, had left the tunnel just north of the 149th Street station and was on the elevated structure when it came to a stop at Cauldwell Avenue.

Another ten-car train soon pulled up behind and two Second Avenue elevated trains scheduled to run as far as Freeman Street were also lined up behind. An emergency call was sent in to an I. R. T. powerhouse and the current on the line north of 149th Street was shut off. This halted both north and southbound traffic.

When northbound trains reached 149th Street they were emptied of their passengers and sent back downtown. This caused considerable congestion at the 149th Street station.

After the current had been shut off the passengers in the stalled trains were led by policemen and I. R. T. employes along the elevated structure to the Jackson Avenue station, where they descended to the street and started for their homes by automobile, trolley car and on foot.

Failure of many persons to reach home on time due to the tie-up caused numerous persons to call police stations in the Bronx to inquire if there had been a serious wreck on the subway. A report that there had been a serious wreck brought a large crowd to the street below the stalled trains.

The disabled motor was eventually repaired and service was resumed. The tie-up commenced at 4:40 o'clock and lasted almost until 6:20 o'clock.

District Attorney McGeehan of the Bronx and Major Philip Mathews, chief executive officer of the Transit Commission, made an investigation.

STATUS OF LEADERS ASKED BY STRIKERS

Brotherhood Sees Message to Hedley as Beginning of End—Bans Consolidated.

The Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Company Employes will deal with men who struck for better wages only as members of the brotherhood. They will not deal with them as the Consolidated Railroad Workers, said Patrick J. Connolly, President of the brotherhood, yesterday.

"When the strike is ended," he said, "and the men return to work, they must forget any organization but ours. Our answer to any one demanding recognition of the Consolidated will be, 'You will have to do your railroading somewhere else.'"

Mr. Connolly was notified yesterday afternoon by President Hedley's office that a message had been sent by the strikers to learn the status of the strike leaders. A dozen men were at brotherhood headquarters at the time, and Mr. Connolly called them into his office and told them of the matter. An attitude of confidence has been maintained at headquarters since the time the strike opened, and this news added considerably to the confidence, prompting President Connolly's statement. Discussion among the men immediately turned on the ending of the strike, it being the unanimous opinion that it would last only a few days more.

B. M. T. STOCK ADVANCES.

Shares Get More Stock Exchange Interest Than the Interborough.

Interest on the Stock Exchange yesterday centered on Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit rather than on Interborough Rapid Transit, which at the close of the day was unchanged. B. M. T. advanced from 63½ to 65, gaining in a market which was generally unsteady and in which losses outnumbered gains. The preferred shares of B. M. T. also advanced fractionally.

Trading in Interborough was about on the scale of the previous day—approximately 4,000 shares. The low price was 41⅝ and the high and last was 43, at which the stock was unchanged from the previous day.

The bonds of all local tractions were quiet and inactive, with only fractional fluctuations.

MOVE ANEW TO END THE TEXTILE STRIKE

Citizens' Committee Gets New Members—Weisbord Denies Charge of Communism.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., July 9.—The Citizens' Committee, formed to unite sentiment for the settlement of the textile strike, extended an open invitation today to all citizens of Passaic, Garfield and Wallington to join the organization. The support of civic, fraternal and patriotic organizations was especially sought.

"Since the first meeting of the committee on Tuesday the membership has doubled," said an announcement from the committee. "There is no class or social division in the memberships coming in. It includes barbers and bankers, attorneys and manufacturers, machinists and ministers of all denominations."

Albert Weisbord, leader of the strikers, issued another statement during the day in reply to the criticism of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor that the textile strike here was being conducted by Communists merely for the purpose of forwarding that movement. Weisbord asserted that the strike was being carried on for the sole purpose of getting better wages and working conditions for the textile workers and for the rights to organize.

The congregation of St. Peter and St. Paul's Polish National Church last night gave a vote of confidence to its rector, the Rev. John Wroblewski, who has been particularly active in favor of the strikers. A movement was started against him by a member of the parish and Bishop Francis Hodur came here last night to go over the case. The enemies of Father Wroblewski found themselves in a small minority. When a vote of confidence was taken, 151 were in favor and 10 against him.

BROTHERHOOD MEN DEFEND I. R. T.'S ACTS

Surrender to Strikers Would Wreck Company and Their Union, They Say.

ALL WANT INCREASE IN PAY

Impossibility of Getting It Now Conceded—Provision Made for Settling Disputes.

Officials of the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Company Employes asserted yesterday that the men who struck for higher wages sought the impossible. As one of thirty-four local unions composing the brotherhood, the latter broke away, these officials said, in the hope that they could get that which all locals wanted but which none considered possible of attainment. For the company to grant their demands for a better wage scale while thousands of men in the other unions stood by empty-handed would have been suicide for the I. R. T. and the death of the brotherhood, in the opinion of brotherhood leaders.

M. J. Mangan, Secretary, was asked what, in his opinion, would have happened had the company granted the striking motormen the wages they sought and failed to increase the pay of the 14,000 employes who did not strike.

"It would have meant the end of the brotherhood," he said. "The men are not satisfied with their wages and hope to obtain better wages sometime. But we had agreed to go on under existing conditions, and this one local broke away. Don't think for a moment that the rest of the men would have let that occur without an attempt all along the line to obtain more money. They never could have been convinced that the brotherhood, which could get them no better wages, was as effective as the single group such as the striking union, which could ballyhoo itself into a better wage scale.

Only One Way Out.

"There would have been a succession of demands for improved working conditions and higher wages, and any effort on the brotherhood's part to hold the men together under our arrangement with the company would have been futile. The company had no possible way of meeting their demands without being forced to meet a score of others; the brotherhood could not sanction the demand without being split. There was only one possible policy to follow. We opposed the demand and the company refused to grant it."

It also was said that the striking subway motormen and switchmen, numbering only 600, had acted selfishly in that they had jeopardized the return to 15,000 employes of the 5 per cent. in pay, or half of the 10 per cent. which the employes of the company relinquished voluntarily several years ago to help keep the company from bankruptcy, by demanding wage increases for themselves. The management of the company has promised to restore this 5 per cent. as soon as it has the money, and the great majority of the brotherhood men, it was said, believe that Frank Hedley, President of the company, will keep his frequently expressed promise to that effect at the earliest opportunity. The brotherhood, it was explained, was formed particularly to prevent differences between the company and its employes from reaching the point of a strike, and the constitution of the brotherhood was cited in proof of this assertion.

Brotherhood's Purposes.

The purposes of the brotherhood are set forth in the following preamble to its constitution:

"We, the employes of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, hereby declare and make known to the public and the public officials that we are fully competent to take up and adjust with our employers all questions as to rates of pay, hours of labor and any other working conditions that may hereafter arise.

"Uninterrupted transit service to the public, a complete understanding between employer and employe, the welfare of our families and the best possible conditions for our fellow-workers are the objects of this organization.

"To these objects this constitution is dedicated."

This desire of the members of the brotherhood to prevent any strike or cessation of service is further emphasized in Section 3 of the constitution, which reads:

"The objects of this organization shall be to cooperate with the company to promote the welfare of the members of the brotherhood in good standing and of the company by amicable adjustment of all questions as to wages and working conditions that may hereafter arise, but shall not include questions of efficiency or discipline of members."

The power and general government of the brotherhood is vested in a General Committee composed of delegates from each of the thirty-four locals, with one delegate for each 250 members of a local or additional part thereof of fifty or more.

Character of Membership.

Every Interborough employe, except those working in supervisory capacities or as clerks or secretaries, is in the brotherhood. Section 4 of the constitution on this point reads in part:

"Beginning Feb. 1, 1920, each newly appointed person who is eligible for membership in the brotherhood shall upon appointment and as a condition of employment agree to join the brotherhood and to accept its obligations. Such persons, however, shall only be eligible to become members of the brotherhood after having worked thirty days."

The powers of the General Committee, as provided by the constitution, are as follows:

"The General Committee shall be the supreme governing body of the brotherhood and shall have power to make any rules or regulations for the proper conduct of the brotherhood and to assess the members any amount considered necessary for the welfare of the brotherhood.

"The General Committee shall elect from among their members a President, a Vice President, a Second Vice President, a Treasurer, a Sergeant-at-Arms and an inside guard.

"The General Committee shall be vested with the power at all times to promote the welfare of the members of the brotherhood and of the company by the amicable adjustment of all questions as to the wages and working conditions that may arise from time to time. They shall have the power to appoint or elect such committees as may be advantageous to the General Committee or to any group of members of the brotherhood and may delegate to such committees any power within the restrictions and limitations of this constitution.

"The decision of the General Committee in all controversies between the brotherhood and the company shall be final."

Making of Agreement.

It was under the foregoing paragraphs that the General Committee reached an agreement with the Interborough management to renew the existing wage scales for another year. Edward P. Lavin, Marry Bark and Joseph A. Phelan, the delegates of Local No. 7 of the transportation department, comprising the subway motormen and switchmen, alone of the sixty-two delegates refused to accept this decision of the General Committee as final, as provided by the constitution; withdrew from the brotherhood and called the strike in an attempt to get more pay, which at the rates demanded by them—$1 an hour for motormen and 75 cents an hour for switchmen—has been estimated by the company to be an increase over their existing pay, averaging the rates now paid, of 25 per cent.

The constitution empowers the General Committee to remove any delegate of any local who is not acting in the best interests of the brotherhood upon charges to his local and provides that the General Committee may ask the local to select another man. It also provides a method by which any local may lay a grievance before the General Committee. It is alleged by the brotherhood officers and the Interborough management that the representatives of the subway motormen and switchmen should have followed this course and asked the permission of the General Committee to have their demand for increased pay considered by the company separately instead of withdrawing from the brotherhood, forming the Consolidated Railroad Workers, a new organization, and calling a strike.

Provision for Arbitration.

The constitution's provisions for arbitration between the brotherhood and the company are as follows:

"Section 8.—Whenever the General Committee, representing the brotherhood, or the entire brotherhood and the management, representing the company, are not able to settle any matter that may come between them, providing the brotherhood has used all the power vested in them by this condition, it is then the plain duty of the brotherhood and the management to submit the matter in dispute to a Board of Arbitration.

"Section 9.—The manner of appointing a Board of Arbitration shall be as follows: The brotherhood shall select one member of the board, the company shall select one member of the board and the two thus selected shall select the third member of the board.

"Section 10—In the event that the two arbitrators, selected as provided in Section 9 of this article, cannot agree on a third arbitrator within fifteen days, the third arbitrator shall be selected by a Justice of the Supreme Court in the City of New York. The decision of the Board of Arbitration shall be binding upon the brotherhood and upon the company. Discipline and efficiency shall not be subjected to arbitration.

Section 11—No person shall be eligible as the third arbitrator who is connected with the company, the brotherhood or any labor organization, or any person who has been previously rejected by either arbitrator."

The total number of employes in the brotherhood at the beginning of the strike was 12,494. There were, in additoin, 2,736 employes of the company not eligible to membership, making a grand total of employes of 15,230.

'BABY' READY TO CLAIM FUND GIVEN BY MORGAN

Virginia Burbidge to Use $5,000 Scholarship Received as an Infant for Study Abroad.

Seventeen and a half years ago the late J. P. Morgan, escorting a party of distinguished visitors over the Metropolitan Museum of Art at the opening of the German Art Exhibit, took particular notice of a baby carried in the arms of its mother, Mrs. William Burbidge, wife of an electrician employed at the museum.

A few days later the baby was elected to a Life Fellowship in the Museum at the behest of Mr. Morgan, the President, and yesterday the baby, Virginia Marie Burbidge, celebrated her eighteenth birthday by making plans for a two years' course of study in Rome and Paris, made possible by Mr. Morgan, who gave a $5,000 scholarship to her at the same time as the Fellowship, the scholarship to become effective on her eighteenth birthday.

Miss Burbidge, who lives with her parents at 658 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, has been aware for many years of the interest officials of the Metropolitan Museum have taken in her career. As a Life Fellow she has each year received invitations to the various functions at the museum and of late years has frequently attended the annual dinners and other affairs.

Miss Burbridge attended the parochial school of Our Lady of Good Counsel, and later St. John's Academy at Lewis and Willoughby Avenues, Brooklyn, where she took up painting and music. These studies she will continued uring her two years abroad.

She has already made plans to leave for Europe in September, accompanied by her mother.

WOMAN, ILL, DIES BY GAS.

Mrs. Russell in Note to Husband Complained of Suffering.

Failing health was said to be the cause of the suicide by gas of Mrs. Mae Russell in her home at 33-19 161st Street, Flushing, yesterday. Mrs. Russell, the wife of Walter J. Russell, a broker with offices at 15 Park Row, Manhattan, had been under a physician's care for several weeks. She was preparing to sail for Europe as soon as the doctor gave his approval.

Mrs. Russell's body was found by Miss Bertha Patterson, a trained nurse, who was unable to get into the house yesterday and summoned Patrolman Daniel Didio, who forced a door. Gas was pouring from open jets on the kitchen range. Didio called an ambulance from the Flushing Hospital. He was dazed by the fumes, but quickly responded to treatment and was able to go back to work. Mrs. Russell was dead when the ambulance surgeon arrived.

On the dining room table was this note: "Mr. Russell, 0831 Barclay: Can't stand suffering all the time."

FIRE IN PENNSYLVANIA SHOP.

$100,000 Damage Caused In Railroad Plant at Kearny, N. J.

KEARNY, N. J., July 9.—Fire caused damage estimated at $100,000 in the meadows shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad on the Harrison Turnpike here today.

Large lumber stores, machinery and several freight cars were destroyed. The three Kearny fire companies were hampered by low water pressure. The fire was discovered at 9 o'clock and was reported under control at 10:30 A. M.

Four railroad locomotives were used to take more than fifty freight cars from the danger zone. After the cars had been shoved on a siding the locomotives were used to raise water pressure for the firemen. The pressure was so low that no progress could be made until the locomotives were employed.

SOUTH FERRY TRAIN IS DERAILED AGAIN

Accident Is Second Within 24 Hours at Same Place—No One Is Injured.

BANTON ASKS INQUIRY

Wants Transit Board to Sift Charge That I. R. T. Is Hiring Green Motormen—Sees Peril to Life.

An empty Lexington Avenue subway train, rounding the loop between the South Ferry and Bowling Green stations early this morning derailed at almost exactly the same place that a derailmen of a more serious character occurred twenty-four hours previously.

No one was hurt and reporters were refused access to the subway tunnel by special policemen employed by the Interborough. Only the front truck of the front car jumped the track according to information received at the Interborough offices.

The Bowling Green station was closed and trains were turned back at the Wall Street station to keep the service going. At 2:30 the crew of a wrecking train had not succeeded in clearing the track.

The second accident within two days on the South Ferry loop is expected to lend point to a suggestion made yesterday by District Attorney Joab H. Banton to John F. Gilchrist, Chairman of the Transit Commission, that that body investigate reports that the Interborough is employing "green motormen" if the commission has the power. District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx has announced that he will make such an investigation.

Mr. Banton had received a report from Mr. Gilchrist on the derailment of a train shortly after midnight yesterday on the South Ferry loop of the Lexington Avenue subway and promised to apply this morning for a summons for the new motorman, William Kelly. The prosecutor said he considered the communication from Chairman Gilchrist as a complaint against the company under Section 63 of the Railroad law, but persons familiar with that law said later that it did not apply to trains underground and that it was doubtful whether action could be taken against the Interborough officials even if it were found that unqualified men were operating trains.

Says Lives Are Endangered.

Mr. Banton said that while he was having the law in relation to the matter looked up he felt it would be possible for the Transit Commission to proceed with a general inquiry into the qualifications of the motormen on the ground that inexperienced men were endangering the lives of subway riders.

The District Attorney said that if a summons were granted by the Magistrate in Tombs Court this morning he would request that a hearing in connection with the accident at the South Ferry loop be held in the Tombs Court on Monday.

He also announced he would vigorously prosecute two employes of the Interborough, alleged to be members of its strike "Entertainment Committee," who were released in $300 bail each by Magistrate Jesse Silberman in the Tombs Court in the forenoon, pending a hearing on July 15, on complaint of a newspaper reporter that they and others assaulted him on the Bowling Green subway station when he was gathering information about the derailment.

The Transit Board's Letter.

The Transit Commission's communication to the District Attorney reads July 9, 1926.

Hon. Joab H. Banton,
District Attorney,
137 Centre Street,
New York City.
Dear Sir:

We enclose herewith reports made by members of our staff who respect to the accident occurring early this morning in the loop south of the Bowling Green station of the east side Interborough subway. These reports show that the equipment was in proper condition. They also show that the motorman operating the train had never operated an electric train prior to Monday of this week. They show in detail what instruction he had in the operation of an electric train.

We are advised that there is no provision of law authorizing us to prescribe the qualifications of motormen. Section 63 of the Railroad law provides that any railroad company may employ a motorman if fit and competent, and a violation of this section is a misdemeanor. We are, therefore, sending this information to you for such action, if any, as you may care to take.

A delegation of newspaper reporters has called upon us and alleged that several of their number, while attempting to gather news with reference to the accident, had been assaulted by agents of the Interborough Company. They said:

"We feel that we are justified in formally asking you to offer every protection to newspaper men to prevent a recurence of this, so that they will not be wantonly assaulted by agents of the company when they are attempting to gather news in a legitimate and proper way."

This is obviously a matter within your jurisdiction or the jurisdiction of the Police Department. We are sending a copy of this letter to the Police Commissioner.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. GILCHRIST,
Chairman.

Police to Cooperate.

A copy of Mr. Gilchrist's letter also was sent to Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin, but up to the time Mr. McLaughlin left Police Headquarters it had not been received. He said the Police Department would cooperate in any investigation.

District Attorney Banton said:

"The only thing that concerns me is the charge that unfit and incompetent men have been allowed to man the trains in violation of Section 63 of the Railroad law. We will proceed as soon as we get all the papers together in that particular alleged violation, but I think it would be a good idea to have the Transit Commission inquire into the fitness of all motormen who are running the trains.

"The report to the commission would seem to show that the fault lay in having a green motorman. It is true the penalty provided by the law is only $500 and does not seem to include the operator of a train. But if they have a lot of green motormen operating the trains, the lives of our citizens are in jeopardy, and I have already told Clarence M. Lewis, counsel for the Transit Commission, so, and I have asked him if they did not have the power to investigate the whole situation.

"So far as the charge contained in Commissioner Gilchrist's letter is concerned, that seems to come down to the fact that a man who may not have had sufficient experience or training was placed in charge of a train on one of the most used lines of the subways, instead of on the least used, as the law says should be done."

Mr. Banton said that later he had conferred over the telephone with Mr. Gilchrist about the prosecutor's proposal that the qualifications of all the Interborough motormen be investigated and indicated that the commission was looking into the law to learn how far it could go in the matter.

McGeehan Threatens Arrests.

District Attorney McGeehan of the Bronx and several of his assistants made an unexpected visit to the Van Cortlandt Park train shed of the Interborough at 11:30 o'clock last night to get information on reports that inexperienced men were operating trains.

"I will cause the arrest of any man operating, and the men over him, if I find a violation of the Railroad law," he said. "I understand there are many green motormen operating trains, and tomorrow morning I will call for records of the Transit Commission to discover the qualifications of those motormen, hired since the beginning of the strike, to learn whether the law is being violated.

Those who held that the Transit Commission and the prosecutors would be powerless to take action under the State Railroad law cited that part of Section 63 which reads that "all applicants for positions as motormen or gripmen on any street surface railroad in this State shall be subjected to a thorough examination by the officers of the corporation as to their habits, physical ability and intelligence,' 'and the applicant must be made familiar with the work before he can be employed. They said the law does not apply to underground motormen.

Major Philip Mathews, chief executive officer of the Transit Commission, took charge of the investigation of yesterday's derailment on the South Ferry loop.

Kelly, the new motorman, at first refused to give any information about the accideent to Major Mathews. The latter called a policeman, and after Kelly had been led to the dispatcher's office on the Bowling Green station he admitted that he began to operate subway trains only last Monday. He had been accompanied on all trips up to Thursday afternoon by an instructor, Kelly said, but about ten hours before the accident the instructor "passed" him as a motorman, and thereafter he took the train out alone. Kelly insisted he was operating the train at about eight miles an hour when the accident happened.

Subsequent investigation is said to have revealed that Kelly had had no previous experience before his employment as a subway motorman. He was alleged to have admitted that his only railroad experience was as an "undercover" man for the Michigan Central Railroad. Since last August, he was reported to have said, he had been employed by the Tuxedo Holding Corporation, which operates dance halls in this city.

Newspaper Man Attacked.

Newspaper reporters and photographers were admitted to the Bowling Geen platform soon after the accident, but when they sought information they were referred to the company's officials. One telephoned to the company's night office for information, and soon after two automobiles, with sixteen men, drew up to the station. Some reporters using telephones in booths on the station were dragged out of the booths and the notes from which they were reading snatched out of their hands.

One of the sixteen acted as directing head in the attack on the reporters, which resulted in most of them being hurled up the stairs to the street. John Weisberger, a reporter for the City News Association, received lacerations on the right arm and wrist. He complained to two patrolmen. On his identification Ralph Voight of 67 West 108th Street, who said he was a company detective working under the personal direction of Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough, was taken to the Old Slip Station on an assault charge.

When the lieutenant was entertaining the camplaint, Thomas Francis, an investigator for the Interborough, entered, and was also arrested on Weisberger's complaint that he took part in the attack. The prisoners were arraigned in the Tombs Court, where they pleaded not guilty.

When Police Commissioner McLaughlin was informed of the attack on the newspaper reporters, he said: "I am absolutely opposed to having any outside agency employed in any labor trouble. The police are able to cope with any situation of the kind. They are always neutral wherever any labor trouble is involved. I do not approve of the employing of

BRIAND DEMAND WINS VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

Deputies, by 269 to 247, Give Cabinet Power to Press Financial Plans.

CAPITAL LEVY IS BEATEN

Government Faces Further Tests When Debt Deals Come Up for Action.

DAY IS SPENT IN DEBATE

Criticism Persists Until Final Vote Is Reached at 3:30 This Morning.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Saturday, July 10.—By a small majority of twenty-two, Premier Briand and Finance Minister Caillaux at 3:30 o'clock this morning won permission from the Chamber to seek the salvation of the franc in their own way, which is also largely the way of the experts' committee.

The vote on a question of confidence in the Government was 269 to 247.

It is not a victory of which any one can be proud, but then the Chamber is not just now the object of pride to the French people, judging from recent opinions here.

This vote gives the Government the right to proceed with the debt negotiations with London and to introduce a bill for the ratification of that agreement and the Washington accord.

As soon as the result was declared M. Caillaux tabled his bills for the delegation by Parliament of certain special powers to the Government for the reorganization of the taxation system of the country and the taking of measures necessary for the stabilization of the franc.

These proposals and the debt agreements will probably be discussed toward the end of this month after a short recess during the national holiday. It is when these measures come up for discussion that the real test of the Government's position will be made, for tonight's vote is indicative only of the general opinion that for the present it is impossible to find another Cabinet which will combine technical financial skill and courage with the parliamentary skill of M. Briand.

Defeat of Capital Levy.

An earlier vote rejecting a Socialist motion against all credits and loans and in favor of a capital levy was 324 to 203. That vote shows the negative power of the Chamber with which M. Caillaux has to deal. It represents the fear that Frenchmen have of foreign finance, and it was not without pathos that in the last hours of the debate the Finance Minister should have to spend his time explaining that in granting credits the Anglo-Saxon countries were perhaps seeking to help and not getting a "strangle hold" on the country which every speaker seemed to fear.

Following a prolonged session during the day the general debate on the financial policy of the Government came to such a chaotic indecision at 1 o'clock this morning that a suspension for half an hour was ordered so that the Deputies could clear their minds and get a party ticket on how they should vote.

For three days the debate has been going on and during its course only one thing has been obvious—the complete chaos of ideas as to which way safety lies and the refusal of the Chamber as a whole to follow the Government in the adoption of the experts' plans so long as there is any danger of the ratification of the American debt accord hampering France's freedom.

It has been round and round that question the whole debate has turned and the Government's refusal to come out with a clear answer has immensely complicated the situation. Speaker after speaker, from Leon Blum on the Left to Louis Marin on the Right has insisted there be no more foreign credits and no ratification of the debt agreement as it stands, and yet the whole policy of the Government is founded on the acceptance of the present accord, though it may nurse the hope of an easier interpretation.

The Chamber during these three days has seldom risen to the gravity of the hour. Seldom has there been such an exhibition of front stage oratory. Today it was field day for all those who had failed themselves when in office to tackle the fiscal problem or were ambitious to make a reputation by their handling of it.

It was Georges Bonnet, whose Ministry of the Budget lasted so short a time that it has almost been forgotten, who first tried to tell M. Caillaux what he should do. He began a long succession of criticisms on the pattern of many other speeches, all of which have served to prove the reproach hurled at the Chamber six months ago by M. Briand, that it could always find a negative majority and never one which could effect anything.

Maurice Bokanowski followed, clamoring for action and a decision, though perfectly aware that it was the votes of his group which would most probably prevent this Government or any other ever accomplishing anything.

M. Bokanowski is able and he does not suffer, according to opinion here, from the intellectual vanity of M. Bonnet and other speakers who took up the Chamber's time. Later Léon Blum and Andre Tardieu spoke, but not one Deputy had anything to say in favor of the Government's plans. All agreed on one thing, that they were not ready yet to vote ratification of the Washington debt accord.

Tardieu Defends Himself.

Safeguard and transfer clauses were demanded by every side of the House. Those who went so far as to recognize and admit that the debt must be paid were most emphatic that there must still be negotiations on he terms of payment. M. Tardieu, whose failure during Washington negotiations to get the debt question settled was yesterday bitterly criticized, was most concerned in defending himself, recalling how time after time during treaty negotiations the American delegation had met all his demands in the negotiations with a negative.

Toward France he argued that the United States had the same moral obligation as toward Belgium. That was demonstrated in the whole act and process of voting credits necessary to the continuation of the war. But the beginning of wisdom, it was Tardieu's argument, that there should be no more borrowing in the shape of bank credits or any other. Like M. Blum, M. Bokanowski, François Poncet and all the others, he contributed this negative suggestion to the debate.

It was rarely that it rose to any great height of seriousness commensurate with the issues at stake. M. Bokanowski touched that height for a few minutes and both the Right and the Left cheered him when he challenged the Government to declare that it would run no risk of an American mortgage on the country's resources and stated that it would be more honest to ask a vote for inflation pure and simple rather than for further credits, for it was towards inflation that the Government inevitably was bound.

In the front bench, side by side with M. Caillaux, with whom he held many whispered conclaves, M. Briand sat most of the time immobile, tapping only with his fingers on the desk. It was not from any love of power that he two weeks ago accepted the heavy task of government. His eighth and ninth Ministries have shown him how thankless that task can be.

Only once during the early part of the debate did he rise from his seat and that was to demand that an end be made to the debate this night.

"The whole country and the whole world is waiting," he said, "to know if France has a Government which can act in confidence, that has behind it a majority. If it is otherwise, then it is essential that another Government quickly take the place of this one."

Caillaux Pleads on Debts.

PARIS, Saturday, July 10 (AP).—"It is impossible to stabilize the currency," the Finance Minister said forcefully at the end of this morning's debate, "if we do not rid the financial situation of the inter-allied debt."

"We will ask Parliament to ratify the war debt agreements," said Finance Minister Caillaux, replying to an interpellation.

"I am now negotiating with London and I will introduce another bill soon," he added. "We are negotiating with Washington, we are seeking to ease the situation; that is clear and precise."

In a dramatic manner M. Caillaux exclaimed:

"It is impossible to stabilize the franc without foreign credits, and those who seek a solution for stabilization without going outside the country will have to find a new Finance Minister."

He denied that the recent changes in the Bank of France's personnel implied touching its gold reserve. He declared against consolidation of short-term bonds, against a capital levy and against new taxes, and pronounced himself against ceding the State monopolies. The plan submitted by the financial experts, he added, was the best offered as a whole.

Premier Briand then put the question of confidence squarely to the Deputies, and the Chamber started voting on the order of the day, presented by the Socialists, which embraces a capital levy.

GETS BROTHER REPRIEVE.

Young Girl Obtains Stay of Execution for Nebraska Slayer.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 9 (AP).—The determined fight of a 16-year-old girl to save her brother from the electric chair resulted today in a five-day reprieve for Donald Ringer, 19-year-old youth, sentenced to die today for the murder of an auto salesman in October, 1924.

Governor McMullen, after an all-night conference with defense attorneys, granted the reprieve at 3 o'clock this morning, upon the presentation of statements that Carl Moore, Ringer's alleged victim, was seen alive three days after the date he was supposed to have been murdered.

Ringer is the youngest person ever sentenced to death in Nebraska. The State Pardons Board declined Wednesday to hear his sister, Letas, plea for commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment. The girl then appealed to the Governor.

NIP POUND FORGERY PLOT.

Berlin Printers Give Orders for Fake Notes to British Envoy.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—Six Berlin printing firms are more than ever convinced that honesty is the best policy and they are exhibiting £50 Bank of England notes to prove their convictions.

A merchant of British West Africa sent letters to half a dozen printeries here asking quotations on large quantities of pound notes, which are used in this colony. To assure getting good-quality stuff, he sent each one a sample pound note with instructions to make the new ones exactly the same as the sample.

Then the six managers presented themselves to the British Ambassador and showed their letters. After Scotland Yard had completed its work the British Ambassador called the men to him and presented each with £50 as a reward for their services.

Besides wishing to import counterfeit money, the British merchant wanted to add insult to injury and instructed the printers to pack the money in accordions, which could enter the country without difficulty.

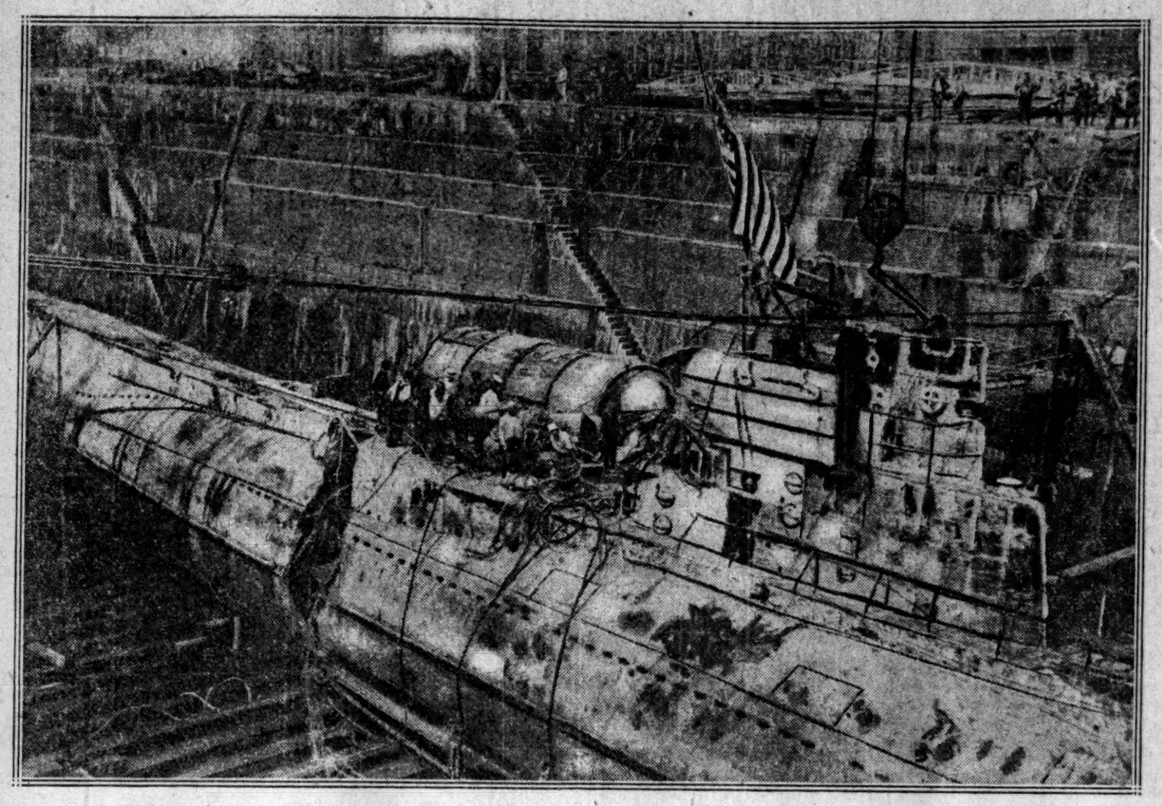
THE RAISED S-51, REVEALING THE HOLE IN HER SIDE.



The barnacled sides of the ill-fated submarine and the gaping hole made when she was rammed by the City of Rome exposed yesterday for the first time since she sank. Eighteen bodies were taken from the wreck in dry dock at the Navy Yard.

EIGHTEEN VICTIMS TAKEN FROM S-51

teen men from the naval hospital, led by Lieutenant Frank Ball and carrying stretchers, climbed down the hatches.

As the bodies were brought to the deck wrapped in white sheets they were placed on stretchers, lifted in a large box by cranes to waiting ambulances and, with a motorcycle escort of police, taken to the naval hospital four blocks away on Flushing Avenue.

Marines Salute the Dead.

There was no ceremony save the salutes of the marines stationed to keep the piers of the dock clear of all except those engaged in the work. Even navy yard employes were not permitted near the dry dock and the only witnesses until the arrival of Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur in the middle of the afternoon were a group of sailors and divers from the Falcon and other tugs in the salvage fleet.

Secretary Wilbur, who was on his way to inspect the Control Force at Newport, was met at the Pennsylvania Station by Admiral Plunkett. He went directly to the navy yard and was greeted at the gate by Captain E. J. King and Commander Ellsberg, whom he congratulated.

Late last night the hospital men came out of the submarine and said that they could find no more bodies. Further search will be made, but if no more bodies are found it means that at least six members of the ship's company escaped from the submarine only to drown after the boat went down. There were thirty-six on board, six officers and thirty enlisted men. Last Fall eight bodies were taken from the wreck and one found tangled in the radio antennae.

Lieutenant Rodney Dobson was seen by the three survivors on the bridge and was heard to call to the City of Rome for a rope. Other men were in the water, the survivors testified at the nearings of the board last Winter, but failed to keep afloat until the one boat lowered by the steamer could pick them up.

These matters will be taken up by the Board at its meetings next week.

Inside the submarine the hospital party worked under electric lights. Over their heads hung canvas air lines through which fresh air was pumped to them. All wore gas masks when they first climbed down the hatches, but later these were abandoned for the most part as the gases cleared.

The S-51 was built with five compartments separated by watertight doors. These doors open away from the control room amidships. Bodies were found in every compartment. Two were near the engines. Except for the main battery compartment into which the City of Rome thrust her prow, the interior of the submarine showed surprisingly little injury, although every lever and wheel was covered with slime.

Bodies in the Engine Room.

Behind the engine room, which is directly aft of the control, is the motor compartment, the power plant of the submarine when submerged. Here several bodies were found, some curled about the machinery as if they were caught by the flood as they bent over the motors, and others caught in a mass of pipes high up, carried there it is believed by the rising waters. In the torpedo room, close to the bow, a body was found jammed under a torpedo racked against the wall, and another was entangled in pipes along the roof.

The positions of the bodies strengthened the belief that the men stuck to their posts until torn away by the water as it poured in the hatches and through the hole in her side.

So fast did she sink that the men had no chance to close the doors against the water, and yesterday's investigation showed conclusively that what little air the boat contained was exhausted in very few minutes.

The Secretary then went to the drydock and stood looking at the rusted sides of the vessel. He examined the great hole in her bow on the port side, where the prow of the City of Rome had cut through. Admiral Plunkett pointed to the pontoons lying on the bottom of the dock, their heavy chain slings slack, the air lines coiled on their tops, and explained that except for the hole made by the Savannah liner the only serious damage to the structure was sustained when her prow ripped off as she struck Man o' War Reef in the East River.

As Secretary Wilbur walked slowly along the pier edge examining every feature of the submarine with close attention, his attention was called to the Falcon and the other vessels of the salvage fleet lying close by. He expressed a wish to visit them. At the gangplank of the Falcon he was met by Lieutenant Henry Hartley, commander of the mine sweeper and wrecking master; Chief Engineer Frank Moore of the Falcon, whose sturdy compressors had kept a 1,200-ton lift on the tow for fifty hours and 150 miles; Chief Boatswains Edward Burnett and R. E. Hawes, Captain George Cregan of the Sagamore and other officers. He shook hands with each and congratulated them on their achievment. Then he went aboard the vessel and looked over the intricate machinery with which her deck is crowded. As the party was about to leave Admiral Plunket turned to Lieutenant Hartley and said: "I've a notion Mr. Wilbur would like to meet the ship's company." The Secretary enthusiastically agreed.

Each Man Is Congratulated.

As he stood on the narrow deck, among coils of rope, close to the divers, decompression tank, the crew that had worked for weeks, eighteen hours a day, to raise the S-51 filed past and each man was introduced by Captain Hartley and warmly congratulated by the Secretary. Last night several of the divers were guests of Admiral Plunkett at a theatre party.

Mr. Wilbur told the men of the intense interest that had been shown by the relatives of those who were lost.

"We believe," he said, "that they are greatly relieved and deeply grateful for the work of these men and the successful outcome of the work of recovering the S-51."

The Secretary said that the department planned to put the ship in commission again.

"We would like to see the S-51 restored to service," he said, "as a better boat than when she was originally built, not only because we need the ship but because it will be a monument to those who were lost, and I think it will be an inspiration to the men in the service."

Later, when he met reporters in Admiral Plunkett's office, Mr. Wilbur said that he did not care to discuss what the Government intended to do regarding suits resulting from the sinking of the submarine and the death of thirty-three of the crew. He did say that the department would recognize in some distinctive manner the work of the men who raised her.

Inquiry on Grounding in River.

The Board of Inquiry composed of Captain David A. Weaver and Captain Walter M. Hunt sat yesterday to consider the grounding of the tow on Man o'War Reef in the East River within sight of the navy yard. Pilot J. W. Horton testified that he had hoped to take the submarine straight down the north channel but that yachts moored in the way made him decide to try the 100 foot passage between two reefs.

"Those yachts should not have been there," he said. "I was informed that the river would be kept clear for us and when I saw those kachts I felt the only thing was to give them a wide berth."

Lieut. Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd went to the Navy Yard shortly before sundown last night. There he met Admiral Plunkett and Captain King. The three naval officers bearing a large wreath, climbed down the steep sides of the dry dock and, crossing a narrow plank, went aboard the conning tower. While the Admiral and members of his staff stood at salute the man who flew to the North Pole placed the wreath against the flagstaff just beneath the colors. A few minutes later the sunset gun sounded, taps were blown and the flag hauled down.

This morning the search will continue in the hull and the Board of Inquiry will go on with its investigation.

Admiral Plunkett said last night that disposal of the bodies would be according to the wishes of the relatives of those who died. So far only a few have signified their intentions. Miss B. L. Garrett of Norfolk, Va., waited yesterday at the hospital to find out whether her fiance, Robert H. Wills, had been identified among the dead. She said that his mother was unable to come and that she had made the trip to take the young man's body home for burial.

Another who waited at the hospital was William Thomas of Paris, Texas. The body of his brother Charles was removed from the wreck early in the afternoon.

Coolidge Lauds S-51 Victims; Sends Sympathy to Families

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., July 9.—President Coolidge today made public this statement expressing sympathy with the families of the crew of the S-51, who, he said, died while performing their duties in trying to save the ship:

WHITE PINE CAMP,
New York, July 9.

Information has reached me that when the hull of the S-51, which was the American submarine sunk near the eastern end of Long Island Sound last Summer, was opened it disclosed that each of the seamen who had been lost was at his post of duty doing what he could to save the ship. They could have been no greater heroes if they had died in action. This is another exhibition of the great courage and self-sacrifice which has always characterized the men in the naval service of the United States.

On the occasion of the recovery of their bodies I wish to express again my sympathy for their families and friends and the pride that the nation was being represented by such gallant men in its navy. They have lived up to the ancient tradition and fulfilled the present hope of their country.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

FILIPINOS PLEDGE AID TO THOMPSON

Leaders Assure President's Envoy of Access to Facts for Insular Survey.

HE PROMISES AN OPEN MIND

Manila Is Deeply Stirred by His Arrival, Especially Regarding His View on Independence.

By RUSSELL B. PORTER.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANILA, July 9.—Disembarking from the steamer President Grant from Seattle this morning, Colonel Carme Thompson found intense and widespread interest among both Americans and Filipinos in Manila regarding his survey as the personal representative of President Coolidge, especially as to his views concerning independence and the development of the vast rubber resources of the Philippines.

The Colonel took the occasion of an interview with political leaders and a press statement to assure the Filipinos that he would approach with an open mind the points at issue between Governor General Wood and the Legislature. His attitude appeared to evoke confidence.

The public interest is shown by the newspapers, which devoted pages to Colonel Thompson's visit. Filipino and American reporters and photographers swarmed on the ship at Quarantine. The Filipino reporters were just as keen and the photographers were just as persistent as in New York. They tried to make Colonel Thompson commit himself and did make him pose for many photographers with his wife and party.

The only American afternoon paper in Manila appeared with a seven-column first page streamer and nearly a full page of news and speculation about the mission.

Confers With Filipino Leaders.

Fully 1,000 Americans and Filipinos greeted Colonel Thompson at the pier. They cheered when he walked up the gangplank under a floral welcome sign. A hundred members of the United Spanish War Veterans, of which the Colonel is Commander-in-Chief, and members of the Philippine Scouts, all of whom have fought in the Philippines, gave him a special welcome. The Philippine Constabulary Band played military airs.

A delegation of army officers included Major B. Y. Reed, representing the Government. Mayor Miguel Romualdez gave to the Colonel the Philippine equivalent of the keys of the city.

Soon after Colonel Thompson reached his Manila hotel, he received a visit from Filipino Independence leaders. Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate, and Manuel Roxas, Speaker of the House, the Nationalista chiefs and Claro M. Recto, the Democrata or Minority House leader, spent nearly an hour.

"I want you to understand that I come without instructions except to seek facts," Colonel Thompson said.

He told them that he was unbiased on all questions, but did not discuss the subject of independence.

The leaders seemed pleased with his words. They said that all who knew the facts should feel it a duty to lay them frankly before President Coolidge's personal representative. They offered complete cooperation. They especially pleased the Colonel with the voluntary offer of the Philippine Government of transportation throughout the island. The conference ended with all smiling.

Colonel Thompson's Statement.

In a public statement the Colonel said:

"I am here at the request of President Coolidge to make a survey and report what may be done to secure better administration of the affairs of the Philippines and the further development of economic conditions.

"The President is expecting me to bring first-hand information of a personal and unofficial character to supplement his official reports.

"I shall strive to study the activities of the Philippine Government in all its branches and the conditions of the people in various walks of life and in so far as practical the further economic possibilities of these most favored islands.

"The report to be of value must be fair, impartial and as comprehensive as time will permit. It is hoped it may open new avenues of profit and extension of old ones for serving the future peace, happiness and prosperity of all the inhabitants of the Philippines.

"In the development of the almost undying resources of this archipelago the interest and welfare of the Philippine people must be the main objective. It is a pleasure and a satisfaction to occupy a position with at least the possibility of promoting the welfare of 12,000,000 people, whose happiness is dependent upon the prosperity of their own land.

"I am not unmindful of my responsibility both to the President of the United States and to the people of the Philippine Islands. I come without bias or prejudice, with the deep conviction that the United States is not only under obligation but owes a strict duty to its overseas people.

"I shall not reach a hasty conclusion on any subject, but shall, with painstaking labor, endeavor to marshall all of the facts and conditions before offering any personal opinion.

"I shall hope to carry back such information as will tend to promote a better understanding of Americans and Filipinos. I shall hope to have the confidence and advice of the people and shall work to the end that my report shall be thoroughly impartial."

Wood Pledges Cooperation.

After receiving the Filipino leaders and issuing this statement, Colonel Thompson paid a formal call on the Governor General at the Malacanan Palace and presented his credentials from the President. They talked for fifteen minutes.

General Wood offered complete cooperation and free access to all executive departments. Colonel Thompson was introduced to heads of departments and army officers. They suggested that Colonel Thompson remain a week in Manila before making his first trip through the islands.

Colonel Thompson and members of his party talked to American residents here who are strongly against independence and insist that the Filipinos have not proved their ability to establish a stable government. They urge that Congress modify the laws to enable private capital to develop rubber and other resources for the good of both peoples. They want General Wood's hands strengthened and a firmer American policy.

The Colonel indicates that he may extend the scope of his survey. Before returning to America in November he may visit Java to study the Dutch success in growing rubber on small plantations without native unrest.

He may visit China and also Japan to study the strategic importance of the Philippines to American trade in the Far East generally and the open door policy in China.

The Thompson party includes his executive secretary, James L. E. Jappe; his personal secretary, Miss Grace M. Jones of Cleveland, and newspaper men.

ARMY DIRIGIBLE FLIES HERE FROM VIRGINIA

The TC-5 Skims Low Over Brooklyn and Long Island City on Way to Mitchel Field.

The army dirigible TC-5 flew over Brooklyn and Long Island City yesterday in the course of a routine flight from its home base at Langley Field, Va., to Mitchel Field. The airship arrived at Mitchel Field at 1 o'clock, having spent the night at Lakehurst. It left again for Lakehurst a little more than an hour later. According to the schedule, the TC-5 will leave Lakehurst for Langley Field this morning.

The TC-5 was handled by a makeshift ground crew of sixty men on its arrival at Mitchel Field. Lieutenant William A. Gray, the commander, was greeted by Lieut. Col. Foulois, commandant at Mitchel Field, and fuel and water ballast was taken on board.

Over Brooklyn the dirigible flew so low that pedestrians thought for a time she was in distress. At Queens Plaza she skimmed almost within arms reach of the clock tower on the Brewster Building. At the Brooklyn Navy Yard she hovered over the drydock where the salvage work on the S-51 had just been begun.

The TC-5 is about one-third the size of the Los Angeles and a little smaller than the Norge. On the trip from Lakehurst to Mitchel Field and back the regular crew of five men were accompanied by four navy student fliers.

ONE DEAD, SEVEN HURT ON MOTOR PARKWAY

Driver Loses Control of Car and It Turns Over—Woman of 70 Among the Injured.

When an automobile containing eight persons, including five children, got out of the control of the driver on the Motor Parkway three miles west of Deer Park, L. I., yesterday afternoon it toppled over and one boy, Walter Lewis, 10 years old, of 154-11 Fifteenth Avenue, Whitestone, Queens, was killed, Mrs. Rose Rhodenski, 70, and four other occupants of the car were taken to Dr. King's Hospital at Bay Shore, Mrs. Rhodenski suffering from concussion of the brain and the others with minor hurts.

The automobile, driven by the owner, Thomas Smith of 188 Green Avenue, Brooklyn, was returning from a holiday trip to Lake Ronkonkoma. Smith's nephew, Walter Lewis, was seated beside him. In the tonneau were Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Rhodenski, her mother; William Lindsey, 12 years old, and the three Smith children, Fred, 8; John, 6, and Edward, 3. All were caught in the automobile when it overturned. Other motorists rescued them.

Smith, his wife and two of their children were attended at the hospital for cuts and bruises. The other boys escaped with slight bruises.

Smith said he lost control of his car when another motorist, traveling at a high rate of speed, crowded him to the extreme edge of the road.

DOESN'T NEED A DIVORCE.

Her Marriage Wasn't Valid Anyhow, Court Tells Woman Writer.

A suit for divorce by Mrs. Elizabeth Stagg, a magazine writer, against George T. Stagg, an advertising agent, of 530 East Twenty-second Street, Brooklyn, was dismissed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan in Brooklyn, who held that their marriage, which took place in Chicago on Oct. 21, 1919, was invalid, by reason of the prohibition in a decree of divorce obtained by his first wife, Elizabeth Cunningham Stagg, which barred his remarriage for six months thereafter.

Mrs. Stagg, the writer, asked a divorce on the groupd that her husband had, on July 13, 1922, decided that their marriage was not legal and had married his third wife, Mrs. Dorothy Slack Stagg. Justice Callaghan said the Illinois law expressly barred the remarriage of persons there who were not qualified to remarry in their home city and State.

GILBERT STAYS IN PARIS.

Reparations Agent Seeks to Offset Rumor of Fiscal Parley.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for Reparation Payments, has given up his idea of taking a holiday at Cap Antibe, because of the widespread comment regarding a "conference of international financiers."

This comment arose from the fact that Benjamin Strong, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, and Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, are now at the Cap. Mm. Moreau and Rist, respectively Governor and Vice Governor of the Bank of France, say there is no reason for them to consult Mr. Strong and Mr. Norman.

The Government, they assert, has no program up to the present to lay before the American and British financiers. Consequently it has nothing to ask of them, nor can it have until Parliament has acted.

FOUR INJURED IN CRASH OF TROLLEYS ON BRIDGE

100 Shaken Up in a Rear-End Collision on Washington Span —Another Car Hits Auto.

A motorman was seriously injured, three passengers was slightly hurt and more than 100 persons were shaken up last night when two surface cars were in collision at the Bronx approach to Washington Bridge.

Vestibules of the cars were splintered, glass in windows was shattered and passengers thrown from their seats.

Panic was averted by reassurances of Patrolman Nihill Cullen, of Highbridge Station, who, assisted by men on the cars, helped hysterical women out. A crowd gathered and extra patrolmen were called to keep vehicular traffic moving.

A one-man University Avenue car had crashed into the rear of an Eastbound 180th Street crosstown car. The University Avenue car was in charge of Motorman Louis Gonzales of 4,065 Tenth Avenue and the 180th Street car was being operated by Joseph Goldstein of 551 East 178th Street, the Bronx. Goldstein was thrown against the front of the platform. He was taken to Fordham Hospital, his right leg dislocated.

Gonzales said he had lost control of his car and could not apply the brakes in time.

A traffic tie-up on the Brooklyn Bridge last night as the result of the collision of a trolley car with an automobile was followed a short time later by a tie-up on the Manhattan Bridge caused when a motor truck caught fire.

The Brooklyn Bridge tie-up started shortly after 10 o'clock, when a Graham Avenue car struck the rear of an automobile driven by Mrs. Helen Gifford of 420 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, and in which her sixteen-year-old daughter Lillian and Vincent Izio of 756 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn, were riding. The occupants of the automobile were cut and bruised and passengers in the trolley car were shaken up.

Traffic was diverted to Manhattan Bridge, and just about this time a Borden's Farm Products Company truck caught fire on the Manhattan Bridge from an overheated engine. Policemen quickly put out the flames, but traffic had to be diverted back to the Brooklyn Bridge.

PRICE SUCCEEDS RAFFERTY.

Brooklyn Man Made Revenue Collector for First District.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y. July 9 (AP).—President Coolidge today appointed Warren K. Price of Brooklyn to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the first district of New York.

He succeeds John T. Rafferty, who has resigned.

Mr. Price is Republican leader of the 18th Assembly District of Kings County. He was born in Brooklyn and was connected with the postal service for more than fifteen years, becoming chief of a branch postoffice.

HEAT KILLS THREE, MANY PROSTRATED

but it was far more oppressive than usual because of the mild weather heretofore. On June 30 the thermometer registered 84. That was the high mark for the year until yesterday. The last time that the thermometer climbed as high as it did yesterday was July 12 of last year, when it registered 91.

So far this year the average day has been two degrees cooler than normal. New York's "arrears" in temperature were 384 degrees for 1926, according to the Weather Bureau records.

Most of the persons athletically inclined confined their sport to swimming. The police figures for the number of bathers at Coney Island were 250,000. But over at the Morris County Links in New Jersey, 17-year-old Eugene Homans of Englewood, playing in a blistering sun which ran the temperature up to 110, won the New Jersey State junior golf championship. He defeated Fred T. Lawrence of Canoe Brook in the final, 4 and 2.

The greatest humidity yesterday was 83 degrees at 8 A. M. This fell off slowly, as the heat increased. At 4 P. M. the humidity was 57. Heat and humidity were officially recorded as follows:

8 A. M.	74	83	3 P. M.	89	57
9 A. M.	74	81	4 P. M.	91	57

SIX CHILDREN DROWNED.

Body of a Seventh Victim of Accidents at Resorts Is Recovered.

The drowning of six children, a girl and five boys, at resorts was reported yesterday and the recovery of the body of a seventh who was drowned last Sunday at Brighton Beach. The boy whose body was found yesterday was Sidney Saldier, 17 years old, of 1,326 Lincoln Place, Brooklyn. He worked as a silk cutter for his father, Max Saldier.

John Bionisio, 9, of 1,827 Second Avenue, and his cousin, Angelina, 6, of 298 Grand Avenue, Baldwin, L. I., were drowned while wading in West Creek, at the foot of Grand Avenue, Baldwin. The children are believed to have stepped off a shallow bar into deep water. Their bodies were recovered.

Harry Casto, 9, of Mays Landing, N. J., while wading with some other small boys in a swimming hole near Belcoville, N. J., stepped into a deep channel and was drowned. State police are dragging for the body.

Leonard Holloway, 16 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holloway of Allenwood, N. J., was drowned in Wreck Pond, Spring Lake, N. J., last evening. He was wading with his parents and a brother and sister when he stepped into a hole and disappeared. The body was recovered two hours later.

David Watkins, 8 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins of Woodbury, N. J., waded into the Delaware River at National Park yesterday afternoon and was drowned. Mrs. E. C. Duerr of Woodbury pulled the boy out almost immediately after he had gone down, but physicians were unable to resuscitate him.

The Associated Press reported the drowning of Michael Taozy, 10, of 477 Mechanic Street, Perth Amboy, N. J., near the Public Service power house there. Bathers rescued the boy's father and recovered the lad's body.

ARMOUR IN HOSPITAL AGAIN

Vice President of Packing Concern Suffers From Gastric Ulcers.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Laurence H. Armour, Vice President of Armour & Co., packers, returned to St. Luke's Hospital on Thursday for a continuation of treatment for gastric ulcers, it was learned today. After several weeks as a patient there, he had gone home on Saturday.

As before, he occupies a room next to that of John J. Mitchell, 72-year-old President of the Illinois Merchants Trust Company, who has been in the hospital several weeks. The banker has so far recovered as to sit up part of the day.

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, July 10—In these days, the veriest hobble-de-hoy of a boy swims like a seal and dives like a dolphin. So, the swimming turnout of 1926 is extraordinarily practical and good-looking.

Smartest of all is the shrink-proof white worsted shirt cut "pro" style worn with fast-color light-blue flannel trunks and a beach robe to match for fending off sun-burn. Exclusive, but not expensive.

GOVERNMENT UPSET AGAIN IN PORTUGAL

Foreign Minister Carmona Seizes General da Costa in a Peaceful Coup d'Etat.

TROOPS BACK NEW REGIME

Leader of the Revolt Assumes the Premiership and Appoints a New Cabinet.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LISBON, July 9.—Another peaceful revolution was successfully engineered today when General Gomes da Costa was arrested at midday by order of General Carmona (whom he had just dismissed from the Foreign Office) for actions considered here impolite and arbitrary. General da Costa is held prisoner in the Belem Palace.

General Carmona has assumed the offices of Prime Minister and Minister of War and has nominated the following Cabinet:

Finance—GENERAL SINEL DE CORDES.
Justice—Dr. MANUEL RODRIGUEZ.
Education—GENERAL TEIXEIRA BOTELHO.
Marine—COMMANDER JAIME AFREIXO.
Commerce—LIEUT. COL. PASSOS SOUSA.
Foreign Affairs—SIDONIO PAIS.
Agriculture—GENERAL ALVES PEDROSA.
Colonies—COMMANDER JOAO BALO.

Senhor Betencourt Rodrigues becomes Minister in Paris provisionally and Lieut. Colonel Fereria do Amaralis is restored to the post of Chief of Police.

Censorship Brought to an End.

This morning the Ministers were guarded by the Sixteenth Regiment and this afternoon by a naval brigade.

For some days a strict censorship of the press had been causing much inconvenience and resentment. Yesterday, however General da Costa dissolved the press consorship committee and today's newspapers appeared uncensored.

It was recently announced that General da Costa decided to dispense with the services of three of his Ministers, namely General Carmona, Foreign Minister; Major Ochoa, Minister of Colonies, and Dr. Antonio Claro, Minister of the Interior.

The Ministers of Justice, Marine, Commerce, Instruction and Agriculture resigned in sympathy with their colleagues and their resignations were accepted by the General, Senhores Carmona and Ochoa had refused posts offered to them at the Vatican and in Portugese India respectively.

The following foreign representatives and others were also dismissed by the quondam dictator: Alonso Costa from the Presidency of the Portuguese delegation to the League of Nations, which would have entailed the loss of his ambassadorial rank; Senhor de Mello Barreto, Ambassador in Madrid; Dr. Antonio da Fonseca, Minister in Paris; Dr. Augusto de Castro, Minister to the Vatican, and Senhor Armando Navarro, Minister at The Hague.

The new Government, however, according to information here, intends to revoke these dismissals, which were alleged to have been ordered because the persons they were designed to affect had not passed the regular diplomatic examinations.

LISBON, July 9 (AP).—An official note given out by the new Government says it assumed power with the support of the army and navy and "in the anxious hour when the national prestige was being lowered."

The Government announces itself ready to carry out the program of last month's military rising and says that it will transform the régime hitherto controlled by a single political party into one where all Portuguese may live freely.

Carmona Was Friend of Dictator.

After General Gomes da Costa had engineered his revolution from Braga, the Portuguese arsenal near Oporto, gaining possession of Lisbon and forcing the President to resign, he set about forming a strong Government. Three Ministries succeeded each other in as many days, and when a triumvirate consisting of himself, General Cabecadas and Commandant de Gama Ochoa failed, he proclaimed himself dictator. It is from that position he has now been ousted by the bloodless coup d'état of General Carmona, his Foreign Minister.

General Carmona was Minister of Foreign Affairs in the brief Cabinet of June 3. Later he moved to Aradora, where he remained on cordial terms with both Gomes da Costa and Cabecadas.

Portugal has been in a state of intermittent convulsion ever since King Carlos was assassinated in 1908 and ex-King Manoel entered upon his short reign. He was deposed and exiled in the revolution of 1910. The two attempted revolutions which followed were organized by the army for the purpose of bringing him back. One failed at its inception and the other was denounced by King Manoel before it had gone very far. Both ended in many prisoners being lodged in the republican jails, where their treatment aroused protests from abroad. Since then a majority of the insurrections have been promoted by dissatisfied politicians for their own ends, and the revolutionists, when caught, have been treated more and more with so much clemency as to inspire others to try the same thing.

In 1925 there were two revolts: the one in April was a military affair which was easily suppressed; another, in July, was much more serious, when the capital was bombarded by the warship Vasco da Gama. On Feb. 4 of the present year another abortive military insurrection too place. Then came General Gomes da Costa's proclamation at Braga and his march on the capital, his list of needed reforms and his lack of power to execute them.

FRAU LUDENDORFF WINS DIVORCE FROM GENERAL

Ex-Quartermaster General's Relations With Woman Doctor Were Cause of Action.

BERLIN, July 9.—Frau von Ludendorff has wanted a divorce from General von Ludendorff, the leader of the Ultra Reactionary Voelkische Party.

Though the General himself first applied for freedom from his marriage bonds, his wife's counter-suit won the court's decision and the General is obliged to pay costs. The ex-Quartermaster General's relations with Frau Mathilde von Kenitz, who is a nerve doctor, were the reason given by Frau Ludendorff as ground for her action, but since it was desired that the proceeding be kept secret and neither was willing to talk, the evidence is unknown.

There is also a rumor that the General's treatment of his wife was anything but gentle.

Frau Ludendorff has been living in a small spa near Munich for some time.

Frau Margarethe von Ludendorff charged Germany's wartime Quartermaster General with neglect and cruelty. The General's activities during the war, she declared, made him "extremely irritable and increasingly abusive."

General von Ludendorff was her second husband; she married him just before the war. The general and Frau Ludendorff have no children.

In a private hearing, General Ludendorff charged that his home was ruined by his wife's incessant cigarette smoking. His counsel said the General's irritability was caused not by political activities, but by his abhorrence of her smoking, which he considered improper for a young girl and intolerable in an older woman.

The suit was heard in secret, in accordance with the German custom.

GERMAN FLOOD DROWNS AMERICAN WOMAN

Mrs. Stegeman of Madison, Conn., Is Victim—Cloud Bursts and Lightning Spread Death.

BERLIN, July 9 (AP).—Recent floods in Germany have cost the life of Mrs. Ida Stegemann, née Shaefer, of Madison, Conn.

Mrs. Stegemann, who was 60 years old, was visiting relatives at Wollmarshausen, near Göttingen, when she was drowned in the Garges River, which is heavily swollen.

Cloudbursts and lightning storms have left a trail of death and destruction in Bavaria and Central Germany.

Four laborers who sought shelter under a tree at Simbach, near Augsburg, were killed by lightning.

At the famous watering place, Kissingen, Bavaria, the health park and casino have been inundated by three feet of water, forcing the guests to remain in the upper stories of their hotels.

The Elbe River at Dresden is about nine inches above its normal level.

MEXICO CITY, July 9.—The disappearance of Edward Gallagher, 21 years old, a school teacher of Marysville, Kan., at Deserto de los Leones—Desert of Lions—near Mexico City has alarmed the American school teachers who are attending Summer courses here.

Gallagher, who is six feet two inches tall, left Mexico City to visit ruins and dropped out of sight. The American Consul, Mr. Weddell, has started a search.

The Desert of Lions was the scene of several brutal assaults in the past few months. It is feared Gallagher has been kidnapped or has met with foul play. He is without friends here except fellow school teachers whom he met on the trip.

Police in near-by towns have been ordered to search the entire road from Mexico City to Luca in an effort to find traces of the missing man. He was last seen drinking coffee at a wayside inn in the desert.

ITALIAN WORKERS FIGHT 9-HOUR DAY

Labor Executives Declare the Measure Will Cause Great Discontent.

DENY ANY ECONOMIC GAIN

Leaders Advocate Deflation of Capital, Lower Dividends and Modern Methods.

MILAN, July 9 (AP).—A vigorous protest against the Government's action in adding another hour to the working day, making it nine instead of eight hours, was voiced today by the Executive Committee of the General Confederation of Labor after a special meeting held to study the measure which lengthens the working day.

The measure was characterized by the committee as "unnecessary, unjust, provocative of discontent and useless in improving the economic position of the country."

The confederation considers the step unnecessary because the factory regulations in effect since 1919 permit the lengthening of hours in certain cases and at times when it is necessitated by production conditions.

The measure, the committee asserts, is unjust, because the cost of living is increased more than 30 per cent. above the average of the workmen's wages, which remain hardly equal to those in 1921-22, while, it adds, the profits and dividends of the companies are increased on an unprecedented scale.

It is the opinion of the committee that the present industrial difficulties are not caused by high labor costs, but by "living in a false paradise of seeming prosperity, created by instability of the markets, low wages, passivity on the part of the workers, excessive tariff protection, the delay in stabilizing the currency, and the maintenance of tariff rates in the gold lira, the value of which is constantly rising.

The confederation advocates deflation of artificially expanded capitalization, reduction of unsound high level earnings of many companies, and the perfection on a basis of modernism and economy of all methods of production. It suggests that an extra hour be added to the working day only in industries where there is unemployment or where it is absolutely required.

Warning is given that failure to pay overtime for a ninth hour of work would produce widespread discontent, defeating the object, which is the stimulation of production.

ESTHONIAN MINISTER TO RUSSIA REMOVED

M. Birk Refused to Return to Reval and Left Moscow for a Visit in South Russia.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 9.—he Izvestiya announces briefly today that the Esthonian Minister to the Soviet Union, M. Birk, has been removed from his post and that M. Wikhmar has been appointed in his place.

This is the first reference in the Soviet press to M. Birk's "disappearance," which has been a subject of gossip in diplomatic circles here for several days.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed from a non-Russian source that it is not true that Birk—who had represented Esthonia in Moscow since 1922, with the exception of a few months this year when he occupied the post of Foreign Minister in the Esthonian Government—left Russia under a false name or without a regular permit.

What actually happened was that upon receipt of the order recalling him to Reval he broke off relations with his home authorities, with whom he was not in accord on questions of foreign policy, particularly in regard to the Polish scheme of a Polish-Baltic bloc, and left the Legation without notifying his subordinates.

He did not, however, attempt to conceal himself, but after saying good-bye to a number of personal friends, left Moscow for South Russia, where he proposed to visit other friends.

In addition to the Russian visa, he had French and Turkish visas, so, presumably he intends to go to Paris via Constantinople, but it is understood that he has not yet left Russian soil.

There was no truth in the rumors about M. Birk aside from the news of his dissatisfaction with the views of his home Government.

SPAIN WILL HELP HOME INDUSTRIES

High Tariffs and Subsidies to Aid Textiles, Iron and Steel and Agriculture.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, July 9.—The Spanish Government has decided to undertake a campaign to protect national industries and free them from foreign competition.

A beginning will be made with the iron and steel industries, which, despite the tariff, have been unable to develop, due to imports, especially from countries with depreciated currency.

The textile industry has also suffered recently, and the Government is proposing a subsidy.

These measures will be followed by others compatible with the excellent relations of Spain with other countries.

Agriculture will be protected by the imposition of high duties on foreign products and the granting of special aids in the extension of cultivated ground.

It seems to be the Government's theory that a possible increase in the prices of basic articles is acceptable if it be accompanied by a development of home industries.

Details of the measures to be put in force include a decree decreasing the importation for the present of foreign wheat; also increases in the tariff duties on corn, bran, rye and canary seed.

The textile industries will be governed by a committee of manufacturers and public officials located in Barcelona. This committee will receive 5 centimos for each kilo of cotton imported and with this money it will extend grants to manufacturers of textiles that are used in Spain and exported.

The tariff is to be raised on metallurgical products, which will be required to show a certificate of origin. Only those houses holding contracts with the State will be permitted to export manufactured materials.

Decrees covering these plans are not completed as yet, but their early publication is expected.

WEIGHTMAN RETURNS TO AUBURN PRISON

Philadelphian Will Surrender for Violating Parole—Held for Grand Jury at Vineland, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—William Weightman 3d, the three times married and once divorced member of a wealthy Philadelphia family, was on his way to Auburn Prison today to surrender as a violator of his parole.

Weightman went to New York on the advice of his lawyer, who had just heard him held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury in Vineland, N. J., on a statutory charge and on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill his chauffeur.

Weightman had scarcely left Vineland when the police received an order for his arrest from the Warden at Auburn.

His lawyer advised him that he had violated his parole by marrying Nita Weightman in Mexico before the two-year maximum prison sentence had expired.

It was because of his marriage to the latest Mrs. Weightman that Mrs. Marie Campbell Paul Weightman, his second wife and one of those interested in the New York bigamy proceedings, preferred the statutory charge.

Weightman's latest escapade started last week, when he was arrested at his Vineland bungalow for beating his chauffeur, George Bartmer. As soon as word of his trouble reached Mrs. Marie Weightman, she hurried to Vineland to help him.

She heard of the latest Mrs. Weightman a few hours after she arrived, and, forgetting her intended assistance, added the charges against him.

THORNE AND ELLIOTT CODDLED, HE CHARGES

They Are Virtually Guests of the Jailer, Prosecutor Adds—Hearing Again Delayed.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, July 9.—Charges that Richard Thorne and Philip Elliott of New York, who are being held for extradition to New York on an indictment charging that they attacked a young dancer at White Plains, were virtually guests of the governor of the Bordeaux jail, using his automobile and receiving preferential treatment over other prisoners, were made when the two men were arraigned today before Judge Francis Xavier Choquet.

The complaint was made by Bram de Sola, counsel for the prosecution, who said it was common talk in Montreal that the American prisoners were receiving far better treatment than others in the jail awaiting trial. He moved to have the men treated the same as other inmates. Judge Choquet said he had no jurisdiction over the jail and referred the attorney to L. A. Taschereau, Premier and Attorney General of the Province.

The extradition hearing was postponed for eight days owing to the non-arrival of the papers from Governor Smith of New York.

The prisoners were brought to court this morning in the automobile of Prison Governor Sequin, instead of the usual prison van. Both were smartly dressed and during the proceedings appeared perfectly at ease, winking and smiling at court officials and spectators.

Thorne and Elliott were indicted on two counts b ythe Westchester (N. Y.) Grand Jury on June 24 on charges that they attacked Violet Anderson on a lonely road in Harrison on June 3 last. They were arrested the following day.

FRENCH VETERANS APPEAL TO HERRICK

organizations were J. Thebaud, Edward Block and M. Hersent.

The veterans were still awaiting today an order of the Government withdrawing the order prohibiting the parade, but if it does not materialize before Sunday, they intend to march just the same, counting upon the generally accepted theory that no force could be used against the lines of mutilated former soldiers of France marching in perfect order through the streets of Paris.

The Government's opposition weakened when the veterans told how they would lay wreaths upon the statue of George Washington and the monument in the Place des Etats-Unis erected to the American volunteers in the French army.

Attitude Impresses Government.

This symbol of friendship for America is said to have won over the Minister of the Interior, and if the ban is not revoked, certainly it will not be enforced, in the opinion of most persons here.

No idea as to the number of the veterans who will march can yet be gained, although officials are declaring it will be between 80,000 and 100,000. One delegation is coming from Sarthe, Finance Minister Caillaux's Department. Yesterday it sent a demand that the Government reject the Washington agreement and reply to the United States as follows:

"Give us back our dead and we will give you back your money."

Further details of the Nice demonstrations were learned today. All of those veterans who are unable to travel to Paris from the Southern Provinces will go to Nice and hold mass meetings in protest against the terms of the debt accord. Since there is no American statue in Nice, a convenient open space will be used instead.

It was said this evening that veterans from many departments in the North and West of France were beginning to arrive in Paris.

The parade will begin at 9:30 A. M. and it is hoped that the demonstration will be over by noon.

Some Americans May Yet March.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—Although President Ganson of the Association of American Volunteers in the French Army, 1914-17, sent a communication in behalf of his colleagues yesterday, declining to participate in the parade, it was declared today that certain American veterans, under the leadership of Colonel Charles Sweeney, had voted to have a part in the demonstration holding that Mr. Ganson, in sending the letter to the French Veterans' Organization, was outside his mandate.

Colonel Charles Sweeney of Spokane, Wash., became attached to the French Foreign Legion soon after the outbreak of the European War in 1914. He served with the Foreign Legion until the United States entered the war, when he received unlimited leave of absence to take a place with the American army.

Last Summer, with several other Americans who were members of the Lafayette Escadrille, Colonel Sweeney volunteered for service with the French in Morocco, remaining there with the aviation forces until November.

10,000 Will Parade in Nice.

NICE, July 9 (AP).—Five veterans' organizations, with 10,000 local members, have issued a call for a parade and mass meeting Sunday morning in protest against the terms of the Washington debt agreement.

3 TURNERS BRING £13,754.

Landscapes From Burgh Collection Are Sold in London.

LONDON, July 9.—Three landscapes by J. M. W. Turner from the collection of Lord Burgh brought sensational prices at Christie's auction today. The total paid for them, £13,754, was nearly one-third of the total of £46,874 realized for the whole day.

Two of the Turner works were scenes near North Court, Isle of Wight, the home of Lord Burgh. They went to W. W. Sampson, one for £6,247 and the other for £3,097. The third Turner went to Langton Douglas for £4,410.

A Raeburn portrait of John Johnston brought £5,250. The Duveens paid £1,850 for a portrait by Zoffany, the record price for a work by this artist. One Nattier brought £2,100 and another £1,680. A portrait by Romney brought £2,100 and another by Gilbert Stuart £1,050. One by J. B. Pater sold for £1,785.

Laborite Offers to Fight Him for a £10 Stake, to Be Given to Fund in Aid of Miners.

LONDON, July 9.—E. Roy Bird, lawyer and Member of Parliament, awoke this morning to find himself famous as a fighter.

Mr. Bird is the man who hit Mr. J. P. Gardner, Socialist Member of Parliament, during yesterday's free fight in the corridors of Parliament after the Socialist members of the House of Commons had created a disturbance in the House of Lords.

Mr. Bird objected to their disrespectful remarks during the reading of the royal assent to the Eight Hour Bill, and being a six-footer and peppery of temper he lunged out with his right fist when one of them said something disagreeable to him.

But his fist did not hit the man who said it. Instead it hit Mr. Gardner, who had not said anything. Messrs. Bird and Gardner soon patched matters up without further hostilities—in fact they went out and took a drink together—but that short bout has sufficed to plunge Mr. Bird into most unwelcome limelight.

Today he was busy explaining matters to a squad of reporters at his law office, while cameras clicked around him.

So great is the sudden reputation earned him by his ready fist that one Socialist member is said to have challenged him to a bout for a stake of £10 to be donated to a fund in aid of the striking coal miners.

Furthermore, some Socialists want to bring up the matter in the House of Commons and get an apology from Mr. Bird, despite the fact that he and his opponent buried the hatchet, even to the extent of walking together into the Parliamentary first-aid-to-the-thirsty station and asking each other, "What will you have?"

Mr. Bird today explained to eager questioners all about yesterday's battle.

"I went up to the gallery in the House of Lords," he said, "to hear the royal assent given to the coal miners' eight-hour bill. The scene was extraordinary. When royal assent was given with the declaration in the old formal French, 'Le roi le veult,' there were shouts of 'Bon soir' and 'Honi soit qui mal y pense.'

"There were other interruptions, too, and even catcalls. I said it was a damned shame to make such a scene. Some one made an offensive personal remark to me. I turned round, hit out and struck Mr. Gardner.

"Immediately three or four Socialist Members of Parliament were hanging on to my arms and one threatened me. I thought I was going to be attacked and tried to trip him. There was an awful hubbub and then Mr. Gardner explained he had said nothing.

"I said I was sorry I had hit him and we were able to go off together and settle it amicably over a drink. I must say Mr. Gardner took the matter like a sportsman."

While the belligerent Mr. Bird was thus explaining the fracas, Mr. Gardner—cheerful and without battle scars—was giving his version of the fray to ardent inquirers.

"Hearing excited words, he said, he turned round and as he did so glimpsed Mr. Bird's large fist about to collide with his face.

"I ducked a little," continued Mr. Gardner, "and he hit me a more or less glancing blow on the side of the head. Then some of the members seized him and others took hold of me."

The remainder of Mr. Gardner's description coincied with that of Mr. Bird in all particulars, notably regarding their joint trip to the bar.

ENGLISHWOMEN ASK EQUAL ROYAL HONORS

Freedom League Petitions the Premier for Consideration on a Par With Men.

LONDON, July 9 (AP).—"Equal honors for men and women" is one of the aims of the Women's Freedom League, which has written to Premier Baldwin demanding that women who have rendered distinguished service shall be given equal consideration with men in the forthcoming "birthday honors" list.

The King's birthday was on June 3, but the "honors list" has been held in abeyance because of the industrial unrest.

Women in the past have been eligible for certain distinctions, and the title of "Dame of the British Empire" has been granted by royal favor to many women of merit, but the Freedom League is apparently not content with this.

"We have sent the Prime Minister the names of a few women who are certainly as worthy of honors as the majority of men whose names usually appear on the lists," states the league.

"We have also urged that when honors are bestowed on women they should be adequate honors and not, as is now the rule, only minor honors."

NEW BUCKNER RAID TO CLOSE 55 PLACES

dent. It is said to be popular with after-theatre crowds.

"Mme. Pettipas's is a large French restaurant operated by Mme. Josephine Pettipas and famed for its good food and excellent liquors. It has a large clientele.

"The Liberty Club, reported as one of the most popular of the downtown drinking places for business men, is run by Michael and Patrick Halloran and occupies the entire building in Liberty Street. It was raided by the police two weeks ago, when a bottling and cutting plant valued at $25,000 was seized.

"The Gypsy Camp Restaurant, run by Frank Knez, is one of the most colorful night restaurants in the city, with a real Bohemian atmosphere. It has been remaining open very late and was very popular until Mayor Walker named 3 A. M. as curfew hour for the night-life centres. It was considered the 'last stop.' Its entertainers were all Gypsies.

"Luigis' Restaurant is widely known. It is a popular Greenwich Village resort operated by Luigi Caridi.

"The Waverly Club, run by Owen Lawlor, boasts a very long bar and is patronized largely by the sporting element. Lawlor formerly ran a place at 152 West Forty-fifth Street, which was padlocked several months ago.

"The Jail Club has a distinctive and picturesque atmosphere. Its waiters are dressed like convicts. Recently a policeman seized some liquor in the club, but the guests, thinking his uniform but a bit more 'atmosphere,' looked upon the seizure as a joke. The club is above the Club Epinard, now under padlock."

Drives Against 187 Places.

Mr. Buckner's first padlock drive, started a few days after he took office, was against fourteen resorts. The second drive, started on Oct. 19, 1925, was against thirty resorts; the third, started Dec. 23, 1925, was against forty-one places; the fourth, started April 15, 1926, was against forty-two, and the fifth, started May 6, 1926, was against fifty places.

Defendants in these cases have twenty days in which to make answer after the service of papers. The cases are then placed on the calendar for hearing by a Federal Judge. Mr. Buckner said that, owing to the cooperation of Federal Judges here, the time required to padlock a resort was from two to three months, whereas in most other districts six months was required.

WEYLER TO PAY FINE.

Will Give Up Land for Part in Plot Against de Rivera.

BIARRITZ, July 9 (AP).—Reports from Madrid say that General Weyler intends to pay the fine of 100,000 pesetas, imposed in connection with the recent plot against the Primo de Rivera regime, by ceding to the Government a plot of ground next to his residence.

On the other hand, it is reported that Count Romanones, former Premier, declines to recognize the right of the Government to fine him and that his property will be placed under embargo forthwith.

A current rumor in Madrid is that orders have been issued for detention of the entire Executive Committee of the Ateneo, Spain's highest literary society—that is, the members who were in office before the Government replaced them with a new managing committee. The society was accused by the Government of fomenting revolution.

Auto With Canadian Liquor Seized Near Coolidge Camp

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 9.—Two State troopers captured a liquor car from Canada near President Coolidge's mountain camp today, but the rum-runner himself escaped.

Corporal H. N. Schermerhorn and Trooper D. J. Cooper were patroling the New-York-Montreal highway, which passes the lane leading to the Presidential camp, when they noticed the car and started toward it in their own. A few seconds later the driver leaped out and disappeared into the woods.

The whisky, wine and beer in the automobile were turned over to prohibition officers at Malone.

DALTON IN OFFICE, SHIP ROW EXPLAINED

Chairman O'Connor Declares Fleet Corporation Need Is Big Executive as Head.

CHANGE WAS "EXPECTED"

Captain Crowley's Successor Indicates He Had Been Preparing for Place—Pledges Loyalty.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Brig. Gen. A. C. Dalton assumed today the duties of President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, to which he was elected yesterday by the Shipping Board, following the summary removal of his predecessor, Captain Elmer E. Crowley.

As required by the Shipping Board, he had prepared a draft of a resignation which places it in the board's power to be rid of him at any time. This regulation, a member explained today, was the only means by which the Shipping Board could maintain control over the Emergency Fleet Corporation as a separate body, and if such arrangement was not made the board would be powerless to dismiss the Fleet Corportion head until his term of office expired at the termination of a year.

General Dalton indicated plainly that he intended to fall in with the policy of the board.

"As long as I hold this job I shall support the Shipping Board to the fullest extent," he said. "I will not act independently and the Emergency Fleet Corporation will not be the superior agency. I shall carry out the Shipping Board policy to the best of my ability. Otherwise I have only to add my name to the ever increasing list of ex-Presidents."

What appeared yesterday to have been a hurried move bore all the earmarks today of having been carefully prepared, as General Dalton said that he had been working for a long time on a definite plan for the upbuilding of the American merchant marine and intended to present it to the board in the near future.

Chairman O'Connor issued a statement, but failed to give any detailed explanation for yesterday's action of the board.

His statement began with the declaration that the change in the Presidency of the Emergency Fleet Corporation "had been generally expected for some time."

"A majority of the United States Shipping Board felt that we required the services of a big executive, trained in organization on a large scale," the statement continued, "a man who had had long experience in important executive work. At the same time we wanted a man who had been actively engaged in ocean transportation. General Dalton seemed to us to fill the bill. His experience while in charge of the Army Transport Service and in handling of water transportation during the war is common knowledge.

"There has been no change in the board's policy of placing in the hands of a single executive sufficient authority for the successful administration of the Fleet Corporation's affairs, the Shipping Board acting as a board of directors, and the policy as fixed by the board in 1924 for consolidations and ship sales, involving all possible reduction in administrative expenses and other economics, will be persistently pursued."

General Dalton refused to divulge details of his plan for building up the merchant marine before submitting it to the board.

"I have a very definite plan for upbuilding the American merchant marine," he said. "I have been working on it for a long time. It is a plan for liquidation and operation as well as for replacement of tonnage. We must have a building program for every class of ship over every trade route, particularly to take care of shipments of South American products."

Commissioner Plummer denied today rumors that he intended to resign as a member of the Shipping Board because of the ousting of Captain Crowley, against which he voted.

"I have been fighting for American shipping for thirty-six years," he said; "and I am going to keep it up."

SAY STICKNEY QUIT TO AVOID DEFEAT

Washington Politicians Think "Setback" for Coolidge Was Feared in Vermont.

DALE-SARGENT FEUD CITED

Senator's Certainty of Renomination Is Believed to Have Caused Shift in Party Tactics.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Announcement from Vermont that former Governor William W. Stickney had withdrawn as a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator for reasons of health attracted much interest in political circles here today.

While not saying that the reason given had nothing to do with Mr. Stickney's decision, politicians in Washington expressed the opinion that the withdrawal of Mr. Stickney was produced, in part at least, by certainty that he would be defeated and that this would be interpreted as another setback for President Coolidge within his own party, and in this case within his native State.

Mr. Stickney is the law partner of Attorney General Sargent. He is an old friend of the Coolidge family and is the executor of the will of Colonel John Coolidge, father of the President. It was through service on Governor Stickney's staff that Colonel Coolidge received his military title.

Sargent and Dale Long at Odds.

What is of more importance to politicians is that Attorney General Sargent is a political antagonist of Senator Porter H. Dale, to defeat whom for renomination Mr. Stickney was brought forward. It has been generally accepted in political circles that Mr. Stickney was the candidate of both the President and the Attorney General.

The long-standing political hostility between Attorney General Sargent and Senator Dale is no secret. When Mr. Sargent was nominated for Attorney General, after the Senate had refused to confirm Charles B. Warren of Michigan, Senator Dale went before the Senate Committee on Judiciary to say that while he and Mr. Sargent were not on good political terms, he had no objection to the latter entering the Cabinet.

Before leaving Washington a few days ago Senator Dale told friends in the Senate that he was absolutely certain of defeating Mr. Stickney for the Senatorial nomination. Such information as had come to Washington, it was said today, tended to confirm Mr. Dale's confidence.

Influence of Dale's Prospects.

Some politicians who are inclined to be critical of President Coolidge said today that after the refusal of Republican voters in Illinois, Oregon and Iowa to renominate Senators to whose return to the Senate the President was sympathetic, and the recent victory of Senator Gerald P. Nye, the young Republican insurgent in North Dakota, over Louis B. Hanna, who ran as "the Coolidge candidate" for the Senatorial nomination, the defeat of former Governor Stickney in Vermont would have been interpreted as a fifth setback for the President within his own party.

They were positive in expressing the opinion that an impending victory for Senator Dale had much to do with the withdrawal of Mr. Stickney, and that the Administration was not willing to run the risk of a revival of comment that the President was "slipping."

Attorney General Sargent was first suggested as a candidate to oppose Senator Dale. He was not receptive, and W. W. Husband, Assistant Secretary of Labor, was mentioned as a potential contender for Mr. Dale's seat. Ultimately, however, former Governor Stickney was chosen to contest with Mr. Dale, and all the circumstances of the matter were construed as meaning that he was President Coolidge's candidate.

With the withdrawal of Mr. Stickney, Senator Dale has a clear field. The Vermont Senatorial primary will be held on Sept. 14.

MAY ENTER VERMONT RACE.

Barrett Reconsiders Senate Contest as Stickney Withdraws.

GRAFTON, Vt., July 9 (AP).—John Barrett, former Director General of the Pan American Union, tonight issued a statement indicating that he might again become a pro-Coolidge candidate for the United States Senate.

Mr. Barrett withdrew his candidacy when former Governor William W. Stickney announced he would seek the Republican nomination. Mr. Stickney yesterday withdrew from the contest for reasons of health.

"My decision depends upon three considerations," the statement read in part.

"First, the advice of leaders of public opinion in Vermont.

"Second, whether or not I become convinced that another pro-Coolidge candidate or myself can poll a larger vote than the present incumbent (Porter H. Dale).

"Third, the unqualified readiness of the one finally selected for running to conduct a vigorous, militant, unremitting State-wide fight in behalf of the principles and policies of the Government administration, national and international, for which Vermont-born-and-raised President Coolidge, Attorney General Sargent and the large majority of Vermont voters uncompromisingly stand. * * *

"If the people of Vermont think another candidate can better represent them in the performance of this task, then I am unqualifiedly for him as I was for former Governor Stickney."

COOLIDGE RENEWS PRAISE OF CONGRESS

idge also took occasion to say that it had functioned well without any useless debate. In other words, the President is held to approve the present Senate rules as offering sufficient opportunity to close debate at a time when Vice President Dawes announces that he will revive his agitation for a revision of the Senate rules.

Approves Ship Board's Policy.

President Coolidge has frequently recommended that the Government get out of business and he therefore approved the recommendations announced by the Shipping Board as to the sale of the United States and American merchant lines.

He is insistent, however, that the United States shall not sell its vessels to foreign interests and only to those who will maintain a reasonable service along routes advantageous to American trade. He wants to see all the lines in the hands of private owners and operators as quickly as possible, provided the interests of the country are safeguarded.

As to the selection of Major Dalton as Chairman of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, the President knew that he was under consideration along with several others. Asked by Chairman O'Connor whether he had a preference, the President told the board that he desired them to decide the question, as any of those considered would be acceptable to him.

Will Go to Vermont Next Week.

Having hardly accommodated himself to his camp surroundings or discovered all its attractions President Coolidge is planning to get away from the mosquitoes always annoying here until late in July. Next week, he announced that he intended to go to his boyhood home at Plymouth, Vt., for a few days.

While on their vacation, President and Mrs. Coolidge will follow their custom and attend one of the neighborhood churches on Sunday. They have not decided where they will worship.

The nearest church is three miles from White Pine Camp. It is the Episcopal St. John in the Wilderness and it stands on a knoll on the main highway. It is very picturesque, being constructed of wood which has been made to show age by stain.

Braving hordes of mosquitoes and a lowering sky, President Coolidge again tried his hand at fishing this morning. He cast for pike from the footbridge that connects his boat landing with the bowling alley on a jutting point of land.

He cast very deftly, Oscar Otis, the camp caretaker, said, but did not get a strike. After fifteen minutes of such exercise, he returned to his cabin, where he devoted himself to letter writing and other duties.

Mrs. Coolidge does not like the mosquito army encamped outside the White Pine cabins. She said today that she enjoyed the pleasures offered at the camp, minus the pests, but that it was "awfully quiet there."

CALLS BRITISH FILM UNWORTHY PRODUCT

London Times Attacks Plan for Reciprocity With Producers Here.

DAILY MAIL HITS MONOPOLY

Declares "We Must Make Films," Attacking Our Pictures on Dominion Screens.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—A severe criticism of British film producers was published by The London Times in an editorial discussing the proposed reciprocity scheme by which American firms would show a bigger proportion of British films in America.

"Not only our industry," the editorial said, "but the American industry as well, hs fears and apprehensions which the present proposals do nothing to remove. These American misgivings arise, not from the faltering dread that British films, if introduced into the United States, may prove to be dangerous competitors with the American product, but from the opposite belief that British films are generally so bad that American exhibiting houses will lose money by showing them.

"The reluctance to accept British films is, in short, not national prejudice but a commercial judgment. Our hope of establishing the foreign market depends, therefore, upon our own producers' reversal of that judgment by an improvement in the quality of their work.

"Of this, the present proposals give no kind of guarantee; on the contrary, they might have the disastrous result of giving encouragement to British organizations which have failed through their own incompetence and were better allowed to die. Our industry has decayed because so great a part of it has fallen into the hands of the wrong men. Regarded from a commercial point of view, they are men of straw; they look always for quick profits and have neither the will nor the capital to make those improvements and experiments which, though they involve a present sacrifice, bring their reward in accumulating repute.

"Regarded from a critical point of view, they are, as their words bear witness, men without taste or culture, content to imitate the worst that comes from America, incapable of original thought themselves and resentful of criticism from others. It is better that British films should remain at home than that British ideas should seem to be represented abroad by such ambassadors."

Daily Mail Demands Production.

"We must make films" is the slogan used by The Daily Mail in an editorial declaring that screens throughout the British Empire are dominated by American films, which, it is alleged, are doing incalculable harm to British prestige. The newspaper urges that as trade follows the films it is vital that this country should use screens throughout the dominions as industrial propaganda, and it approves the suggestion of Sir Robert Donald that the Government should take vigorous action and give practical help. Sir Robert in an article in The Daily Mail says: "We have allowed the Dominions and the more helpless colonies to be exploited with impunity by our competitors."

He proceeds to give figures showing how the American films annexed the screens in Australia, New Zeland and Canada and he adds, in India and other parts of the Empire the same melancholy tale could be told. American pictures are everywhere misrepresenting in many instances British ideals and perverting the minds of the natives who see but cannot read.

He declares the Government is in a position to practical help in the sphere of Empire films. He points out that an Empire marketing board has now the first half of a million pounds to spend in advertising the Empire's goods and he suggests that half of this fund should be voted to the encouraging of Empire films.

In supporting these suggestions, The Daily Mail says:

The cinema today is almost wholly an appendage of the United States. By means of her world wide film victory, America, with a population of 220,000,000, is formidably challenging the prestige and the prosperity of the British Empire with its huge population of 450,000,000. British ideals and ideas are being obscured throughout the dominions and at home. American ideas which the cinema disseminates are by no means the best and instil the gross materialism of an inferior type of American, instead of the high morality upon which British institutions and ideas are founded.

"The lack of British films puts us in the position of failing in spite of our vast industrial resources to advertise the Empire and British goods through the enormous hoardings of the world's cinema screens. The whole world is surfeited with an exclusive diet of American pictures. It is the British opportunity. Instead of suffering defeat, we must make films."

"Aida" at Starlight Park Tonight.

The Lyric Grand Opera Company at Starlight Park in the Bronx will present "Aida" this evening with the following artists: Mmes. Olga Muscot and Martha Melis, A. Attanasio, F. Maero, N. Frascona, G. Manca and Vincent Renati. Tomorrow night a benefit performance of "La Traviata" will be given featuring Eva Leoni, formerly of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, together with the following singers: Mmes. C. Vasti and V. Glem, G. Pulliti, G. Lombardi, N. Frascona, Vincent Nola, E. Roberti and G. Manca. The orchestra will be under the direction of Camillo Bonsignore.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "Honest Liars," which was scheduled for next Thursday night at the Sam H. Harris Theatre, has been postponed until Monday, July 19.

"Bubbling Over" is announced as the name of the musical comedy in which Edward Royce will star Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield. Hugh Cameron, Jeannette MacDonald and Brenda Bond have been added to the cast.

"The Vagabond King" reaches its 350th performance at the Casino Theatre next Wednesday afternoon. On the following night the event will be celebrated with a party on the McAlpin roof.

Tonight's closings include "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," "Song of the Flame," "One of the Family" and "The Man from Toronto."

Tommy Brown, the Master Jimmy of "Is Zat So?", withdraws from the cast of that comedy tonight.

Natacha Natzova, who danced in the last "Greenwich Village Follies," has been engaged for the next edition of the revue.

De Witt Newing has acquired from Arthur B. Reeve the dramatic rights to the Craig Kennedy stories. He plans to make a play of them for Frank Wilcox, with whom he is associated in a Syracuse stock company.

Text of Ruling Denying Radio Control

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The text of the ruling, signed by Acting Attorney General Donovan, made by the Department of Justice in response to the request of the Department of Commerce, and holding that the Government is powerless to enforce regulations for radio broadcasting, is as follows:

July 8, 1926.

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of June 4, 1926, in which you ask for a definition of your powers and duties with respect to the regulation of radio broadcasting under the Act of August 13, 1912, Chapter 287 (37 Stat. 302). Specifically, you request my opinion upon the following five questions:

1. Does the 1912 act require broadcasting stations to obtain licenses, and is the operation of such a station without a license an offense under that act?
2. Has the Secretary of Commerce authority under the 1912 act to assign wave lengths and times of operation, and limit the power of stations?
3. Has a station, whose license stipulates a wave length for its use, the right to use any other wave length, and if it does operate on a different wave length, is it in violation of the law, and does it become subject to the penalties of the act?
4. If a station, whose license stipulates a period during which only the station may operate and limits its power, transmits at different times, or with excessive power, is it in violation of the act and does it become subject to the penalties of the act?
5. Has the Secretary of Commerce power to fix the duration of the licenses which he issues, or should they be indeterminate, continuing in effect until revoked or until Congress otherwise provides?

Broadcasting License Necessary.

With respect to the first question, my answer to both its parts is in the affirmative. Section 1 of the act of 1912 provides:

"That a person, company or corporation, within the jurisdiction of the United States shall not use or operate any apparatus for radio communication as a means of commercial intercourse among the several States or with foreign nations, or upon any vessel of the United States engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, or for the transmission of radiograms or signals, the effect of which extends beyond the jurisdiction of the State or Territory in which the same are made, or where interference would be caused thereby with the receipt of messages or signals from beyond the jurisdiction of the said State or Territory, except under and in accordance with a license, revocable.

"For cause in that behalf granted by the Secretary of Commerce (and Labor) upon application therefor, but nothing in this act shall be construed to apply to the transmission and exchange of radiograms or signals between points situated in the same State; provided, that the effect thereof shall not extend beyond the jurisdiction of the said State or interfere with the reception of radiograms or signals from beyond said jurisdiction. * * *"

Violation of this section is declared to be a misdemeanor.

There is no doubt whatever that radio communication is a proper subject for Federal regulation under the commerce clause of the Constitution. Pensacola Telegraph Company vs. Western Union Telegraph Company, 96 U. C. 1, 9, 24 Op. 100, and it may be noticed in passing that even purely intrastate transmission of radio waves may fall within the scope of Federal power when it disturbs the air in such a manner as to interfere with interstate communication — a situation recognized and provided for in the act. Of Minnesota Rate Cases, 230 U. .S. 352.

While the act of 1912 was originally drafted to apply to wireless telegraphy, its language is broad enough to cover wireless telephony as well, and this was clearly the intention of its framers (62d Cong., 2d sess., S Rept. 698). Whether the transmission is for profit is immaterial so far as the commerce clause is concerned. American Express Company vs. United States, 212 U. S. 522; Caminetti vs. United States, 242 U. S. 470.

For these reasons I am of the opinion that broadcasting is within the terms of the 1912 act; that a license must be obtained before a broadcasting station may be lawfully operated; and that the penalties of Section 1 of the act may be imposed upon any person or corporation who operates such a station without a license.

Three Problems Involved.

Your second question involves three separate problems:

(a) The assignment of wave lengths.

(b) The assignment of hours of operation.

(c) The limitation of power.

As to the assignment of wave lengths, Section 2 of the act provides:

"That every such license shall be in such form as the Secretary of Commerce (and Labor) shall determine and shall contain the restrictions, pursuant to this act, on and subject to which the license is granted; * * * shall state the wave length or the wave lengths authorized for use by the station for the prevention of interference and the hours for which the station is licensed to work. * * * * * * Every such license shall be subject to the regulations contained herein, and such regulations as may be established from time to time by authority of this act or subsequent acts and treaties of the United States."

The power to make general regulations is nowhere granted by specific language to the Secretary. On the contrary, it seems clear from Section 4 of the act that Congress intended to cover the entire field itself and that, with minor exceptions, Congress left very little to the discretion of any administrative officer. This fact is made additionally plain by the reports which accompanied the act in both houses, 62d Congress, 2d Session, S. Rept. 698; ibid, H. R. Rept. 582, c. f. 29, o. p. 579.

The first regulation in Section 4 provides that the station shall be required to designate a definite wave length, outside of the band between 600 and 1,600 meters (reserved for Government stations), and that ship stations shall be prepared to use 300 and 600 meters.

The second regulation provides that in addition to the normal sending wave length, all stations, except as otherwise provided in the regulations, may use "other sending wave lengths," again excluding the band from six hundred to sixteen hundred meters.

These two regulations constitute a direct legislative regulation of the use of wave lengths. They preclude the possibility of administrative discretion in the same field. In Hoover versus Inter City Radio Company, 286 Federal 1003, it was held that it was mandatory upon the Secretary under the act to grant licenses to all applicants complying with its provisions. The Court added in that case these remarks:

Power Over Wave Lengths.

"In the present case the duty of naming a wave length is mandatory upon the Secretary. The only discretionary act is in selecting a wave length, within the limitations prescribed in the statute which, in his judgment, will result in the least possible interference. The issuing of a license is not dependent upon the fixing of a wave length. It is a restriction entering into the license. The wave length named by the Secretary merely measures the extent of the privilege granted to the licensee."

You have advised me that, following this decision, you have assumed that you had discretionary authority in assigning wave lengths for the use of particular stations, and have made such assignments to the individual broadcasting stations.

However, in my opinion, these remarks of the Court of Appeals are to be construed as applying only to the normal sending and receiving wave length which every station is required to designate under the first regulation. But under the second regulation, any station is at liberty to use "other wave lengths" at will, provided only that they do not trespass upon the band from 600 to 1,600 meters. This conclusion appears to be in accord with the opinion of the District Court for the Northern District of Illinois in the case (as yet unreported) of United States versus Zenith Radio Corporation.

But it is suggested that under the fifteenth regulation broadcasting stations may not, without special authority from the Secretary, use wave lengths over 200 meters or power exceeding one kilowatt. This regulation is applicable only to "private and commercial stations not engaged in the transaction of bona fide commercial business by radio communication." I am of the opinion that broadcasting is "in the transaction of bona fide commercial business" (Wetmark vs. Bamberger, 291 Fed. 776; Remick vs. American Automobile Accessories Company, 298 Fed. 628), and that it is conducted "by radio communication." Broadcasting stations, therefore, do not fall within the scope of the fifteenth regulation; and the Secretary is without power to impose on them the restrictions provided therein.

From the foregoing considerations I am forced to conclude that you have no general authority, under the act, to assign wave lengths to broadcasting stations, except for the purpose of designating normal wave lengths under Regulation One.

Fixing Time for Operation.

(B) As to the assignment of hours of operation.

The second section of the act, already quoted, provides that the license shall state "the hours for which the station is licensed for work." By the twelfth and thirteenth regulations, the Secretary, on the recommendation of the department concerned, may designate stations which must refrain from operating during the first fifteen minutes of each hour—a period to be reserved in designated localities for Government stations. These two regulations are the only ones in which a division of time is mentioned; and it is to them that the second section of the act refers. I therefore, conclude that you have no general authority to fix the times at which broadcasting stations may operate, apart from the limitations of Regulations Twelve and Thirteen.

(C) As to the limitation of power.

The only provisions concerning this are to be found in Regulation Fourteen, which requires all stations to use "the minimum amount of energy necessary to carry out any communication desired." It does not appear that the Secretary is given power to determine in advance what this minimum amount shall be for every case; and I therefore conclude that you have no authority to insert such a determination as a part of any license.

Not Bound by License.

What I have said above with respect to your second question necessarily serves also as an answer to your third. While a station may not lawfully operate without a license, yet under the decision in the Intercity Company case and under 29 Op. 579 you are required to issue such a license on request. And while a normal wave length must be designated under Regulation One, any station is free to operate on other wave lengths under Regulation Two.

The same considerations cover your fourth question. Since the act confers upon you no general authority to fix course of operation or to limit power, any station may with impugnity operate at hours and with powers other than those fixed in its license, subject only to Regulations Twelve and Thirteen and the penalties against malicious interference contained in Section Five.

With respect to your fifth question, I can find no authority in the act for the issuance of licenses of limited duration.

It is apparent from the answer contained in this opinion that the present legislation is inadequate to cover the act of broadcasting, which has been almost entirely developed since the passage of the 1912 act. If the present situation requires control, I can only suggest that it be sought in new legislation carefully adapted to meet the needs of both the present and the future.

Respectfully,
(Signed) WILLIAM J. DONOVAN,
Acting Attorney General.

the department must issue licenses to each applicant.

General Harbord Urges Broadcasters to Follow Present Rules.

Commenting on the decision of the Department of Justice that Secretary Hoover has no authority to regulate radio broadcasting, Major Gen. J. G. Harboard, President of the Radio Corporation of America, said yesterday that the decision was unfortunate in one sense, but that it might serve to impress Congress with the great need of sound radio legislation.

"Failure of the Congress in the past to enact suitable laws has been met by representatives of the radio industry in meeting in four annual conferences with the Secretary of Commerce and informally agreeing among themselves to a temporary plan of wave length allocation, station power rating, hours of operation and other pertinent considerations," he said. "I haven't the slightest doubt that the fair and responsible men who have met at these conferences at Washington will continue to stand behind the splendid emergency program which they and the Department of Commerce conceived and agreed upon.

"The Radio Corporation of America will steadfastly maintain its policy of strictly observing the present wave length assignments and it is believed that all broadcasters who are interested in furnishing the radio public with satisfactory service will do the same."

HORACE LIVERIGHT TO PRODUCE 6 PLAYS

His Next Season's Plans Include 'An American Tragedy,' 'Black Boy' and 'The Wild Man.'

Six productions are definitely scheduled by Horace Liveright for next season, and two more are announced as possibilities. First in importance is the dramatization by Patrick Kearney, author of "A Man's Man," of Theodore Dreiser's novel "An American Tragedy." The play, it is said, will closely follow the book. Although the names of the players are not made public, Mr. Liveright says that with the exception of the actress who will play Sondra the cast is practically complete. Edward Goodman will direct "An American Tragedy."

"Black Boy," a comedy drama by Jim Tully and Frank Dazey Jr., is planned as a starring vehicle for Paul Robeson. James Light will stage this play. Mr. Liveright also announces "The Wild Man," a comedy by Marc Connelly and Herman J. Mankiewicz; "Balloons," a fantastic comedy of New York life, by Edwin Justus Mayer, author of "The Firebrand"; "When the Devil Was Sick," by Arthur Pollock, dramatic critic of The Brooklyn Eagle, which is based on a scenario by Mr. Liveright and on "A Good Man," a novel by George F. Hummel, and "Cover Charge," a play by Samuel Shipman from Cornell Woolrich's novel.

Mr. Liveright is contemplating the presentation of Mr. Mayer's adaptation of Christopher Marlowe's "All for Love," and a modern dress version of Shakespeare's comedy "The Taming of the Shrew."

GOLDEN HAS 4 PLAYS FOR EARLY PRODUCTION

Will Launch 'Two Worlds,' 'Help Wanted—Female,' 'The Stolen Lady' and 'Cowboy-Crazy.'

Among the productions which will be made by John Golden early in the new season are "Two Worlds," by Hubert Osborne and John Gray, which was recently tried out in Atlantic City and is now being revised for New York; "Help Wanted—Female," by Gladys B. Unger, in which Nydia Westman will be featured; "The Stolen Lady," by Crane Wilbur, which will be presented in association with Samuel Wallach and will feature Leo Carrillo, and "Cowboy-Crazy," a play by Pearl Franklin and George Abbott, in which Regina Wallace and William H. Boyd head the cast. "Cowboy-Crazy" is being done in conjunction with L. Lawrence Weber. "Help Wanted—Female" opens in Mamaroneck on July 15, and "The Stolen Lady" will have its first performance there the following week. Companies of "Pigs" and "Seventh Heaven" will be sent on tour.

One of these new plays may be presented at Mr. Golden's new theatre on West Fifty-eighth Street, which, it is announced, will be completed by Aug. 1.

BEATRICE REISS MARRIED.

Dancer in "The Great Temptations" Wed to L. J. Feinstein, Lawyer.

Beatrice Shapiro, who bears the stage name of Beatrice Reiss, a dancer in "The Great Temptations," at the Winter Garden, was married on July 2 in Port Chester, N. Y., to Lewis J. Feinstein, a lawyer, who lives at 870 Riverside Drive, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Feinstein met Miss Shapiro when she appeared at the theatrical and sports field day, held at the Polo Grounds on June 27 for the benefit of the United Jewish Campaign. Miss Shapiro gave her age as 21 and Mr. Feinstein said he was 29. The bride plans to remain on the stage until Fall, Mr. Feinstein said yesterday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shapiro of Philadelphia, who are at present living in New York.

STRAVINSKY DEFENDS HIS MUSICAL IDEAS

Russian Denies They Are Revolutionary—Merely Claims His Music Is Alive.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 9.—Stravinsky, the ultra-modern young Russian composer, who has been talking freely about his music since his recent arrival in London, threw up his hands today in protest when asked if his music was revolutionary.

"There is no word in the dictionary I loathe more than the word 'revolution,'" he declared. "In my ballet compositions I show movement—evidence of life, at least. I merely claim my music is alive, is healthy and has vigor. Those who leave the art where they find it are mentally dead, or at any rate slumbering."

Stravinsky thinks the chief fault of many music critics is incompetence. "Critics are weird people," he said. "There are some whose opinions teach one a great deal and there are others who just don't know. The artist today must not be dismayed if his works are greeted with hisses. Thus were the works of Wagner greeted."

Break Ground for Gallo Theatre.

Ground was broken yesterday for the new theatre to be erected in Fifty-fourth Street, just west of Broadway, and which has been leased for a long term of years by Fortune Gallo. The ceremonies starting the structure were brief. Mr. Gallo played the organ which has been in St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal Church for forty-three years, and which edifice still stands on the site. Four opera stars from the San Carlo Company sang "The Lost Chord." A luncheon followed at the home of Mr. Gallo.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 9.—One of the strangest championships in the history of golf reached the half-way mark at the Scioto Country Club today. Tomorrow the sixty-two survivors of the most gruelling preliminary tests ever devised will start out on the final thirty-six holes which will determine who is to wear the ermine that Willie Macfarlane, Oak Ridge professional, has worn since the Worcester tournament last year.

Except for the already established fact that such stars of other occasions as Barnes, Hutchison, Harry Cooper and George Von Elm have been dropped by the wayside and that such other heroes as Macfarlane, Cruikshank, Al Watrous and Tommy Armour are on the border line, while Sarazen, John Golden, Johnny Farrell, Bob MacDonald, Macdonald Smith, Mike Brady and Cyril Walker are definitely out of the running, there is still considerable uncertainty hanging on tomorrow's two rounds.

So tightly were the lines drawn here today that the winner's name is shrouded in almost as much doubt as it was before the opening round. Mehlhorn still clings to his lead, thanks more to his 68 of yesterday than to what he did today.

Thirteen Close to Leader.

Close upon his heels, however, are at least a dozen golfers, who, judging by what has already happened, may emerge with the title in their possession at sundown tomorrow. To put the situation in mathematical figures, there are exactly thirteen golfers who are within eight strokes of the man who is leading the field and in the list are miracle workers such as Diegel, Hagen, Jones, Willie Klein, Chick Evans and Macfarlane himself.

It is possible, of course, even for some of those who are more than eight strokes away to overtake Mehlhorn, but it is not probable that they will. The leaders, Mehlhorn, Joe Turnesa, Dan Williams, George McLean and Leo Diegel have been playing very steadily thus far, but the worst round is yet to come.

The third round has always been considered the decisive round of a championship and it is very likely that there will be considerable jockeying before the field gets set for the final dash tomorrow afternoon.

What may be a determining factor is the weather, which has played an important rôle thus far. Both of the leaders, Mehlhorn with his 143 and Turnesa with his 145, were early starters in the first two rounds and their scores were made under far better conditions than the late starters had to contend with. As a matter of hard fact, five out of the first seven are players who finished their rounds before noon.

Wind Plays Major Role.

The wind wasn't nearly as important a factor yesterday as it was today. For the first two hours or so it was moderate, but along about 11 o'clock it began to stiffen and by noon it was a near gale that left a mass of wreckage in its wake. Macfarlane, Hagen and Jones were some of the more prominent who suffered by it and none worse than Jones, who brought in the worst round he ever played in a national open championship.

From being tied for second place, only two strokes back of Mehlhorn when the opening round ended, Bobby slipped back into a tie with Jack Forrester, Baltusrol professional, six shots behind Mehlhorn as a result of his 79 today. Hagen, five shots behind the leader when the second round started, was seven strokes back by reason of his 77, while Macfarlane, with a 79, was nine strokes behind, where yesterday he was only four.

So different were the scoring conditions today from what they were yesterday that where thirteen players were 73 or better for the first round, only two, Mehlhorn and Jack Forrester, Baltusrol professional, succeeded in equaling that mark today. Mehlhorn in making his, had a great chance to spread-eagle the field when he played the first eleven holes of his round in one under par figures. Then a relapse set in, and for four holes he was unable to match par at all, and put his lead in the absolute jeopardy. Only a good finish saved him.

Turnesa, who is in second place, two strokes back, put a 74 on his 71 of yesterday. For the most part his golf was of the steady sort, with a few breaks here and there, but no series of them.

Williams Next on List.

The next player in the list is Danny Williams, young Shackamaxon professional, who proved his calibre as a golfer by registering a 74 under today's most adverse conditions.

Leo Diegel and George McLean, with 76 and 74 respectively, are tied for fourth, five strokes in arrears, and then come Jones and Forrester. Five are tied for eighth with totals of 150, they being Willie Klein of Wheatley Hills, Al Espinosa of Chicago, Chick Evans, Hagen and John Junor, the Pacific Coast golfer, who set the tournament agog with his 70 late yesterday afternoon.

Today Junor is exactly ten strokes above that figure. In thirteenth place are Macfarlane and Eddie Murphy, a Westerner.

Among the top-notchers whose aggregate scores for the first two rounds total more than 151 and who, therefore, have their work cut out if they intend to get anywhere in this tournament, are Cruickshank, Armour, Watrous and Willie Hunter, all of them 153 or better. Those beyond that mark are hopelessly out of the running, it now seems.

Mehlhorn Gets Birdie.

How Mehlhorn made his 73 has already been touched upon, but what actually happened to him from the twelfth hole on deserves mention. Having holed a putt for a birdie 3 on the eleventh, breaking his string of pars, it looked as if he was ready to start a streak that would tie the field into knots.

There was nothing to prove the contrary after the two wooden shots that he played to the twelfth, two long shots that left him within short pitching distance of the pin on a hole that measures 546 yards and is longer even than that. The ball was teed up a bit more than he figured, however, and his club slid underneath it so that he was still short of the green.

He again was short and missed an eight-foot putt for his 5. It was his first six in the tournament. The wind fooled him on the thirteenth and he was trapped in the next. He drove too far on the fifteenth and went into the long grass from where he pitched into another trap.

Deciding it was high time to call a halt, the breezy Westerner played the next three holes in par figures although he had to get down from a bunker for his 3 on the seventeenth.

Hagen's Score Deceiving.

There was no explanation to be offered for Hagen's 77 for he played far better golf for it than he did for his 73 yesterday. He got away to a bad start, three over par for the first three holes, all due to shots that were not really bad but that caught traps nevertheless.

Out in 40, he started back with two fours and then missed a putt on the twelfth. From there on he played par figures up to the seventeenth where he missed the green and was trapped, failed to get his ball out on his first attempt, and then barely got it out on the green. From where he was, about twenty-five feet away, he sank the putt for a 4 where it appeared as though a 5 would be about the best thing he could possibly get. He finished with a 5 on the home hole.

Macfarlane's 79 happened with cyclonic suddenness. When he reached the turn in 37 every one affirmed the prediction that the would be up in the running and might repeat his last year's victory, but 6s on the twelfth hole and the home hole, 4s on the two short holes and a 5 on the fifteenth, where he was in the rough and then on the side of a trap, brought his score from the incoming nine up to 42 and left him in a place where it will require some heroic efforts on his part tomorrow to catch up with the leaders.

Turnesa Gets a 74.

One of today's early starters was Joe Turnesa, young Fairview professional, who was one of yesterday's low scorers with a 71. Finding the conditions to his liking, Turnesa duplicated par for the first nine holes, but was two over par coming in, giving him a 74 for the round and a total of 145.

This was the best score on the board for some time; then Jack Forrester, Baltusrol's newly acquired professional, bettered Turnesa's score by a stroke. Forrester went out in 37 and came home in 36, which clipped three strokes from his first round and put him well up with a total of 149.

George McLean of Grassy Sprain, playing just behind Turnesa, equaled his first round performance with another 74 and was 148, a figure that placed him in a tie with Leo Diegel, former Glen Oaks professional. Diegel had a hard time on the last nine, his tee shots putting him in trouble constantly.

A short time after Forrester's score was posted in came Tommy Harmon of Hudson River, whose round of 73 on the first day put him in an excellent position. Today Tommy added eight strokes to that, his out and in being 39-42.

Hackney Totals 154.

Clarence Hackney, playing with him, registered another 77 for a 154 total, and Johnny Golden, in the pair just behind, was 74, going out in one under par and taking 39 coming home. Finally Mehlhorn, who broke the course record with a 68 yesterday, enabling him to lead the field by two strokes, finished his second round. For the first eleven holes it looked as if "Wild Bill" would duplicate his first-round feat. He was even pars for ten holes and then slipped in a birdie 3 on the eleventh.

After that nothing would go right for the burly Westerner, and for the next four holes he dropped a stroke on each green, so that only a par finish over the last three holes saved him from a bad round. As it was, he had a 75, five shots more than yesterday, bringing his leading total up to 143.

Arthur Demane of Sound View, who had a fine 76 yesterday, finished with an 80 today, but Harry Hampton, who took 81 on the opening round, cut five shots off the mark on the second attempt. Next came two 76s, one by Harrison Johnston, the St. Paul amateur, and another by Bobby Cruickshank, the New Progress Club professional who holds the North and South open championship.

Bobby's score was an exact twin to that he made in the opener. He might easily have been par or better except for some hard luck on the putting greens. Not only did he three-putt several greens, but bumped into a 6 at the sixth hole, where he hooked his drive, and a 7 on the eighth hole, where he incurred a penalty shot by topping his second into a brook.

Denver Pro Improves.

One of the few who showed improvement over yesterday was C. Ralph Smith of the Denver Country Club. Yesterday Smith took an 88; today he was 75, a figure that several of the stars would have been glad to call their own.

Francis Gallett, former Long Island professional, who is now located in Milwaukee, was unable to improve his first-round score very much, but his partner, Al Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., redeemed his 79 for the first round with a 74 in the second.

Watrous played really fine golf today, better even than did Turnesa, and was all set for a par 72 until he hooked his drive playing the last hole, taking a 6 instead of a possible 4, which a few others succeeded in acquiring in spite of the wind.

Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills professional, who was somewhat disappointed over his 76 for the first round, brought in a 74 today, giving him a total of 150. Klein had a great opportunity when he reached the turn in 35, one under par, but ran into four 5s coming in and also lost a stroke at the short seventeenth. He played with Jock Hutchison, former British open champion, whose 80 left him outside the pale.

Evans Duplicates His Score.

Except for Evans's 75, duplicating the score that Chick made yesterday, there was nothing unusual until Willie Macfarlane, the defending champion, checked in with a 79 after going out comfortably in 37.

Mac's troubles started on the twelfth hole and clung to him with bulldog tenacity right up to the finish. From then on he had only one par, that one coming on the thirteenth. Willie Hunter, his partner, had a 77. Mike Brady and Emmet French, fairly well established with a 77 and a 74 yesterday, returned with an 82 and a 79, respectively. French had a fine chance to get well up, for he went out in 36, but the last half of the journey cost him 43 strokes.

By now the wind had come up, stiffened to such an extent that the making of pars on the last nine was next to impossible. No one, in fact, was able to do it until Danny Williams, young Shackamaxon professional, came in with a 35 for the distance, one under par figures. Out in 39, Williams's 74 gave him a total of 146 and set him up among the leaders. His was really the best performance of the entire day. Between his arrival at the home green and that of French and Brady, quite a number of stellar performers made their returns, and most of them were disappointing.

The first was Hagen with a 77, a round that wasn't half as badly played as yesterday's, but which was four strokes higher. Sarazen came in later with the same figures, which, on top of his 78 of yesterday, left him high and dry so far as winning this championship is concerned.

Barnes Down in List.

The former champions, Barnes and Walker, returned with 81 and 83, respectively—sufficient to sink each one still further down in the mire of hopelessness. Still another disappointing return was that of Bobby Jones, who, with two penalty strokes and a badly played last hole, piled a 79 on top of his flawless 70 of yesterday.

Paddy Doyle of Elmsford was another who dissipated his chances of victory by a soaring round this afternoon. With a 72 to work on, anything at all good would have put Big Paddy in among the high and mighty, but his 72 yesterday was an 83 today.

By now most of the leaders were in, although a number of good golfers were still battling the winds on the second nine. Among them were Macdonald Smith, Eddie Held and Johnny Farrell. Smith improved upon his yesterday's score to the extent of making a 76, and Held and Farrell were 82 and 79, respectively, so it was possible to dismiss them from further consideration.

Along toward the close of the day there were still a few low scorers out, but the returns from the ninth hole were sufficient to cause the neglect of all excepting Tommy Armour, Congressional County Club professional. Armour went out in 35, but the others were all high, with the worst part of the journey yet to come.

One of these was Junor, the Pacific Coast "wark horse" of yesterday, who, after a good start, required 41 strokes to the turn. Still another was J. G. Collins, the Kokomo professional, who had 72 yesterday and 42 to the turn today. A third was Eddie Murphy, Ridge Country Club professional, Chicago, who had a 74 in the first round and who equaled Collins's figures for the outgoing nine.

Jones in Trouble at Start.

Jones's troubles started on the very first hole, when he failed to get his approach shot home, landing to the right of the green, and then, after chipping on, took two putts, thereby dropping a stroke to par.

His play on the next two holes was conventional and regular, two on and two to get down in each case. On the second this is usually a source of satisfaction, since this is a rather hard par 4.

At the fourth further troubles piled up. This is a one shotter, but Bobby failed to get home from the tee, and then took two putts after chipping on. Then followed one of his rare stunts. He followed a low, raking drive with a fine second, the ball landing on the short edge of the green but rolling back some six or eight feet. Then the Atlanta boy stepped up and made a putt of fully forty feet.

This brilliance was dimmed by erratic play on the next three holes. At the sixth he needed three shots to get home, and then took two putts to get down. At the seventh his approach, following a long tee shot, was carried over the green, and he carded another 5.

At the eighth, where on Thursday he got an eagle 3, he was in a trap at the right of the green on his second, recovered to within eight feet of the hole, but then took two putts to sink the ball, thus running his score into a stretch of three 5s in a row.

Ball Strikes Spectator.

The short ninth proved even more disastrous. His iron shot was short, struck the shoulder of a spectator and dropped into a sand trap. On his first trial he failed to get out, and then after battering the ball out on the third attempt, he again took two putts, so that his string of 5s ran to four in succession.

On the tenth a bad break, largely induced by a tee shot pushed to the rough on the right of the course, ran his total to 5 for the fifth consecutive hole. His drive landed in the rough and the ball was found lying on a stone wall which serves to retain the bank of a brook running through the course.

It was impossible to play the ball as it lay, and a consultation of U. S. G. A. officials was needed to decide what was to be done. It was eventually decided that this wall was a part of the water hazard, so Bobby was allowed to drop back with a penalty of one stroke. He got home with a mashie and down in two putts.

A terrific drive almost to the green on the eleventh was followed by a short chip which left the ball some eight feet away and a nice putt yielded a birdie 3. On the twelfth, measuring some 550 yards all of which was raked by a driving adverse wind, he hit two great wooden clubs shots that left him only twenty yards short of the green.

Pitch Is Fifteen Feet Short.

His pitch stopped fifteen feet short and he took two putts for a par 5. On the thirteenth he snatched a 4 by crafty play following a bad start. His tee shot was pushed into the rough from where he deliberately played short, pitched to within ten feet and holed his putt.

A conventional 3 was recorded on the fourteenth after he failed to get down a long putt for a birdie 2. His drive from the fifteenth tee, boosted by a favoring wind, was scarcely fifty yards short of the green, but his low pitch shot ran twenty-five feet past the cup.

Here occurred a bit of bad luck, for as he was addressing the ball it moved and he announced to his scorer that he had incurred a penalty stroke, though apparently no one else saw the ball move. This meant another 5.

A long drive on the sixteenth found the rough at the left of the fairway, and his mashie shot was to the left of the green, but he chipped cleverly on and got down in one putt.

There followed an exhibition which appeared to show that the Georgia wizard was far from himself. He took three putts on the short seventeenth from fifteen feet away. Frof the eighteenth tee he pushed his drive to the rough. His out flew across the fairway into the rough on the left. His third was still short of the green, and, after getting his fourth on, he took three putts to hole the ball.

U. S. Amateur Tourney to Go To Minneapolis Next Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 9 (AP).—The 1927 national amateur golf championship was awarded to the Minnekahda Country Club of Minneapolis by the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association today. This course was the scene of the national open in 1916, when Chick Evans won with a record score of 286, which has not since been equaled in that event. A place for the 1927 open was considered, but no conclusion was reached. The Winged Foot Club with two courses was recommended, while the Oakmont Club in Pittsburgh, where the national amateur was won by Bobby Jones last year, also was suggested.

Mitchell Victor Over Boomer, 8 and 6, on St. Cloud Course

ST. CLOUD, France, July 9 (AP).—Abe Mitchell, British professional, who was defeated by Aubrey Boomer for the French open golf championship yesterday, came back today and won, 8 and 6, from his rival in an exhibition match over thirty-six holes. The match was for a prize of 10,000 francs, provided by the American members of the St. Cloud Country Club.

JUNIOR GOLF CROWN RETAINED BY BRUSH

Westchester Hills Player Routs Rich, a Clubmate, in Final for County Title.

MARGIN OF VICTORY 8 AND 7

Winner Takes 6 of First 9 Holes and Leads 6 Up at Turn—Brodbeck, Medalist, Put Out by Rich.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 9.—George Brush of Westchester Hills won the Westchester junior title for the second time when he defeated C. V. Rich, his clubmate, by the wide margin of 8 and 7 in the final round of the sixth annual Westchester junior tournament here today over the links of the Fenimore Country Club. The tourney was conducted under the auspices of the Westchester County Golf Association.

Brush made it a runaway match, winning six of the first nine holes, going out in 37 to Rich's 44 and leading 6 up at the turn. He likewise won the first two incoming holes, in par figures, giving him the match.

Brush earned his right to take part in the final when he easily defeated L. Kaufmann of Sunningdale, 5 and 4, and Rich when he defeated Al Brodbeck of Siwanoy, the medalist, by a margin of 4 and 3.

The cards:

Out—
Brush	4	6	5	3	5	3	3	4	4—37
Rich	4	7	7	4	6	2	4	4	5—44

Brush	4	3
Rich	5	4

The summaries:

Championship Division—Semi-final: C. V. Rich, Westchester Hills, defeated Al Brodbeck, Siwanoy, 4 and 3; George Brush, Westchester Hills, defeated L. Kaufmann, Sunningdale, 5 and 4.

Final—Brush defeated Rich, 6 and 7.

Second Eight—D. A. Nelmes, Siwanoy, defeated R. F. Curtis, Gedney Farms, 2 and 1; W. Walker, Pelham C. C., defeated R. J. Parker, Weatchester Hills, 5 and 3.

Final—Nelmes defeated Walker, 3 and 1.

Third Eight—C. E. Elliott, Scarsdale, defeated W. W. Swan Jr., Gedney Farms, 7 and 6; Alfred Wagstaff, Mount Kisco, defeated Bernard Schmuckler, Fenimore, 6 and 3.

Final—Wagstaff defeated Elliott, 3 and 1.

HOMANS WINS TITLE FOURTH YEAR IN ROW

17-Year-Old Englewood Golfer Downs Lawrence, 4 and 2, in Jersey Junior Final.

Special to The New York Times.

CONVENT, N. J., July 9.—Eugene Homans of Englewood won the New Jersey State junior golf championship for the fourth successive year today. Playing over the Morris County links beneath a blistering sun, Homans defeated Fred T. Lawrence of Canoe Brook in the final, 4 and 2.

Homans, who is 17 years old, is a member of the class of 1927 at Choate School, Wallingford, Conn. Next year will be his last in the Jersey Junior tournament. He plans to enter Princeton in 1927.

Homans scored six birdies on the first eleven holes of his semi-finals match, in which he put to rout Jack Bacheller of Rockaway River, 8 and 7. He went out in 34 with an eagle 3 on the ninth and he ended the match by starting the incoming journey with two birdies.

The youngster then decided to play out the round in an attempt to break the course record of 70 held by Jess Sweetser. He made a par 4 on the twelfth and a 3 on the thirteenth, leaving him with even par for a 67, but because of the heat he decided to quit and save himself for the final.

Lawrence, who was graduated from Lawrenceville last month and is a prospective member of this year's freshman class at Princeton, got in the final by winning a twenty-one hole match from another Lawrenceville boy, Quincy Ryan of Baltusrol.

Homans was 5 up at the turn against Lawrence. The former went out in 36, two under par. Winning the eleventh made Homans 6 up with 7 to play, but Lawrence won three of the next four holes and carried the fight to the sixteenth.

The summaries:

Championship Eight, Semi-Finals—Eugene Homans, Englewood, defeated Jack Bacheller, Rockaway River, 8 and 7; Fred T. Lawrence, Canoe Brook, defeated Quincy Ryan, Baltusrol, 1 up (21 holes).

Final—Homans defeated Lawrence, 4 and 2.

Second Eight, Semi-Finals—Charles M. Hart, Municipal, defeated John Parker, Essex County, 3 and 2; Linton Foster, Ridgewood, defeated J. J. Mullan Jr., Roselle, 4 and 3.

Final—Foster defeated Hart, 4 and 2.

Third Eight, Semi-Finals—A. B. Russell Jr., Forest Hill, defeated Story Rowland, Plainfield, 3 and 2; F. B. Williams Jr., Glen Ridge, defeated H. L. Fates, Essex County, 2 up.

Final—Williams defeated Russell, 3 and 2.

Fourth Eight, Semi-Finals—J. C. Blanchard Jr., Essex Fells, defeated Edward Nichols, Morris County, 8 and 6; William E. Kennedy, Municipal, defeated Sidney Wilson, Spring Brook, 1 up.

Final—Kennedy defeated Blanchard, 4 and 3.

WALSH SETS PARK RECORD.

Breaks His Own Mark for the Van Cortlandt Course With a 63.

Dick Walsh, former national public links champion, lowered his own record for the Van Cortlandt Park course yesterday with a 63 for the eight holes, one stroke better than his old mark, made in August, 1925. The par of the course is 68. Walsh did the last six, the hill holes, in 3 each. The greens on several of these holes are invisible and surrounded by difficult lies.

ONDA JERSEY NET VICTOR.

Beats Aydelotte and Reaches Final of Bergen County Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., July 9.—S. Onda reached the final round of the Bergen County tennis championship today, defeating W. Aydelotte at the Oritani Field Club, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. He will meet Frank Shields in the title round when the latter returns from the tour of the metropolitan junior team up-State.

Grandstand at Open Deserted.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 9.—The grandstand, erected at the first tee, is quite a venture in the national open. All the boxes in it were sold, but few of them are ever occupied. People crave action and there isn't much at the first tee.

BOSTON MARKSMEN WIN.

Capture Old Guard Trophy in Shoot at Seagirt.

Special to The New York Times.

SEAGRIT, N. J., July 9. — The ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston won the Old Guard Trophy match of the Old Guard Rifle tourney on the State ranges here today, scoring 484 out of a possible 500. The match was open to teams of five men and shot at 200 and 500 yards. The Second Company Governors Footguards of New Haven, Conn., was second with 470 and the Old Guard of New York third with 458.

Sergeant Charles Warren of New Haven won the Governors Footguards individual match shot at 500 yards, open to members of the Footguards with a perfect score of 100.

HOPPE VICTOR, 50-26.

Defeats Fisher in 3-Cushion Match and Now Leads, 200-99.

Willie Hoppe further increased his lead over Joseph Fisher in their handicap three-cushion match in progress at the Hoppe Billiard Academy by winning the block played last night. Hoppe now has 200, as against 99 for Fisher. Hoppe won, 50 to 26, last night in forty-eight innings. He made a high run of 8, as against a run of 6 for Fisher.

PISANO BEATS BALLERINO.

Gets Decision in Long Beach Bout, Scoring Two Knockdowns.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., July 9.—Augie Pisano of Coney Island won the main bout of six rounds at the Stadium here tonight by outpointing Mike Ballerino, Bayonne, former junior lightweight champion. The battle was spirited from the opening bell, Pisano having his opponent on the floor twice in the second round. Both men weighed 131.

K. O. Phil Kaplan Hit Low by Courtney — Phil McGraw Gets Verdict Over Wagner.

POLO GROUNDS RESULTS.

Pete Latzo won from Georgie Levin on foul in fourth round.

Phil McGraw won decision from Eddie (Kid) Wagner, ten rounds.

K. O. Phil Kaplan won from George Courtney on foul in second round.

Tommy Cello won decision from Jack Griffo, six rounds.

Prince Tooma won decision from Nick Fadil, four rounds.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Pete Latzo won on a foul from Georgie Levine, Brooklyn youngster, last night in the fourth round of their scheduled fifteen-round bout at the Polo Grounds and retained his world's welterweight championship. A long right, aimed at the body but landing low, ended the contest after the fourth round had gone 1 minute 28 seconds.

Under the blow Latzo sank to the floor of the ring, painfully hurt. He had Levine backed against the ropes near the champion's corner at the time, and the punch was one driven home desperately in an attempt by Levine, stung and harried by the blows of the champion, to ward off the attack with which Latzo hoped to crush his challenger.

Knockdown-timer Jack Dorman, as is provided in the State Athletic Commission's rules, started counting over Latzo's form and, as the champion writhed in agony on the ring floor, Referee Eddie Purdy joined in the count. For a time it appeared that a new champion was to be crowned, but Purdy halted his count at "four" and, stooping, assisted Latzo to the champion's corner, awarding the contest to the former Scranton miner on a foul.

Only 20,000 Fans Attend.

The bout was the feature on a charity card which as it was originally planned stood out as one of the best of the season, but which was ordinary almost to the point of mediocrity. The bouts were for the benefit of the foot clinics of New York, under the auspices of the Polo Grounds A. C., but defections from the ranks of the boxers scheduled to appear spoiled the program. Only about 20,000 attended.

Two of the principal contests ended in fouls after abbreviated punching exchanges and made the contests disappointing.

The disqualification of Levine, ending what promised to be a spectacular championship battle, was justified, although the foul committed was unintentional. Levine, after getting off well, was being hard pressed by the champion in the fourth session, after surviving a punishing fire in the third round.

His back to the ropes, his brain heavy under the impact of Latzo's savage blows, Levine tried with one drive to discourage the fire under which he was gradually being hammered into submission. He misjudged the direction of his blow and lost the bout and his chances for the title.

No Gauge of Latzo's Skill.

It was Latzo's first defense here of the crown he won last May from Mickey Walker in Scranton and it cannot be regarded as conclusive evidence that Latzo is or is not a real champion.

The bout was too short entirely and too unsatisfactory to furnish a true line on the ability of Latzo at the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, which he barely made yesterday when he stepped on the scales at the State Athletic Commission's office.

While it lasted, however, the contest bristled with action. Levine, a youngster, pitted his strength and speed against the experience of Latzo, and was being worsted in an exciting battle.

Taking things easy for the first round, Latzo suffered himself to be tossed and tilted on the end of Levine's left jabs and hooks, contributing only enough to earn an even break.

The champion seemed to be mixing and testing the strength of the challenger's blows, as well as the calibre of his attack. Latzo landed one stinging right to the head at long range and grazed Levine's jaw with a swishing right. While at close quarters he unloosed a body fire calculated to weaken Levine as the bout progressed.

Hits Levine Hard Blow.

The second round went to Latzo. The champion assumed the offensive and, pressing in against Levine's tapping jabs, cracked a jarring right to the jaw which had the challenger stung and retreating.

The champion charged hard and, being short with a right for the jaw, came back on the recoil with a left hook to the head, which sent Levine spinning off at an angle. Late in the round Latzo tried another right for the jaw, but the blow landed to the cheek and only had the effect of making Levine more wary and determined in his defensive.

The crowd thrilled to the spectacle of Latzo plunging and tearing at his rival in the third round in a vicious assault, under which it appeared that Levine must crumple. Latzo, coming in all the time against the weak jabs of his rival, hooked and swung with right and left for the jaw in a fiery assault which had Levine worried.

In one of his charges Latzo was short with a left hook for the jaw and the blow landed with grazing effect but with power enough to sting Levine. A right to the jaw followed and Levine carromed off the ropes to be caught with another high right on the side of the face as he rebounded. Another right to the jaw made Levine's knees sag and the challenger fell into a clinch. Near the bell Latzo grazed the jaw with a left hook.

Latzo Pummels Levine.

Latzo resumed the offensive in the fourth round and, brushing aside his rival's feeble jabs, tore after Levine, bent on a knockout. Right followed right in Latzo's attack as he aimed for the jaw, but landed high of the mark. The champion backed his challenger to the ropes under the rush of his offensive and the menace of his blows until finally one right to the jaw sent Levine staggering near Latzo's corner.

The champion leaped in at his rival and was battering Levine about the body and head in a furious assault, when Levine suddenly shot out desperately with a right for the body which landed low and the bout was over.

Phil McGraw, Detroit's Greek lightweight, avenged a defeat he suffered recently at the hands of Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia veteran, in the ten-round semi-final, when he carried off the decision over the Quaker City lad in a fast and satisfactory battle.

The bout followed the title fight in the ring when the officials sent Latzo and Levine out to battle ahead of the schedule. McGraw was too fast and his attack was too sustained against Wagner, and at the final bell the Detroiter was easily entitled to the decision.

Crowd Below Expectations.

The defection from the ranks of stars in the ring had its effect on the attendance. The gathering was far below what would have been the case had Sid Terris and Ruby Goldstein not withdrawn from their bouts against Phil McGraw and Eddie (Kid) Wagner, respectively.

An unsatisfactory ending came in the first of the ten-round bouts in which K. O. Phil Kaplan, Harlem middleweight, won on a foul from George Courtney, Oklahoma lad, in the second round, after the session had gone 1 minute 59 seconds. Referee Eddie Purdy awarded the battle to Kaplan when the Harlem lad sank to the floor under a left hook which was aimed for the body, but which landed palpably low.

The foul ended what promised to be one of the best bouts on the card, but the referee acted rightly in awarding the contest to Kaplan. Courtney acquitted himself well in the opening round, carrying off the honors by outpunching and outboxing Kaplan. The veteran rocked under a sharp right uppercut to the chin in the last minute of action and was floundering wildly in his attack at the bell.

In the second round Kaplan's experience was beginning to tell and he was outboxing Courtney for this session when the Oklahoma lad accidentally landed low with the left hook that ended the fight. Kaplan weighed 156 pounds and Courtney 157 pounds.

In the six-round bout, which replaced the canceled battle between Goldstein and Wagner, Tommy Cello, San Francisco junior lightweight, and Jack Griffo, New Orleans youngster, furnished an interesting battle. At the final bell Cello received the award, a decision which was approved on all sides.

Prince Tooma, Syrian, who was announced from Springfield, Mass., received the decision over Nick Fadil, Passaic, in their four-round bout, which opened the show.

STORY OF THE BATTLE TOLD ROUND BY ROUND

Detailed Description Shows Latzo the Aggressor Up to Time Bout Is Stopped.

Georgie Levine was the first to enter the ring at the Polo Grounds last night and sat in his corner for several minutes before Pete Latzo arrived. Joe Dundee, Baltimore's challenger for the title, was introduced from the ring and challenged the winner. Ed Purdy was the referee and the judges were Billy Joh and Tom Flynn. The boxers were generously cheered when they were introduced. It was announced that Latzo weighed 147 pounds, Levine, 145½.

The detailed description of the bout follows:

First Round.

The men clinched twice and Latzo worked his right to the body. Levine used a short uppercut in close. Latzo worked a right and left to the body and they clinched. Levine jabbed a left to the face and they clinched. Latzo stung Levine with a right to the head. Levine jabbed his left to the face and Latzo hooked a left to the head. Latzo drove a right to the body in close. Levine repeatedly jabbed his left to the face. Levine hooked a left to the face and they clinched. At close quarters Latzo drove his right hard to the body and the head. Latzo drove a right to the head and in a clinch worked his right to the head. Levine hooked a left to the head. Levine jabbed a left to the face at the bell.

Second Round.

Levine jabbed a left to the face and twice landed the blow again, and then Latzo hooked a left to the head and a left and right to the body. Levine repeatedly jabbed his left to the face and had Latzo missing. Latzo was short with a right for the jaw and hooking a left to the head went close and pounded the body with his right. Levine jabbed his left to the face and then Latzo crossed a right to the head. Latzo leaped in with a left and right to the body. Latzo jabbed a left to the face and hooked a left to the head. He pinned Levine on the ropes, but missed when he tried a right and left. Latzo again missed with a right and left as Levine ducked. Levine jabbed his left to the face and Latzo drove a right to the body at the bell.

Third Round.

Fourth Round.

U. S. Boxing Body Admitted To the International Union

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—The International Boxing Union at its tenth congress today admitted the National Boxing Association of the United States into affiliation. Latrobe Cogswell, of Baltimore, President of the American Association, was elected a Vice President of the International body. Maurice Collard, of Belgium, was re-elected president by delegates representing Belgium, Spain, France, Holland, Italy, Switzerland and Argentina. The Boxing Commission of Germany was also admitted.

Choice of Successor to Kaplan to Come Up Thursday—Other News of Boxing.

Sid Terris and Ruby Goldstein, the east side's rival lightweights, were suspended indefinitely yesterday by the State Athletic Commission for their failure to fulfill contracts to fight last night at the Foot Clinics benefit boxing show at the Polo Grounds.

Terris was to have fought Phil McGraw, but withdrew from the contest, claiming an injured hand. The commission, however, refused to recognize this and attributed Terris's withdrawal to the fact that the boxer has split with his manager, Dan Caplin. Goldstein was to have boxed Eddie (Kid) Wagner, and no excuse was advanced for his withdrawal other than that he was affected by "temperament."

Chairman James A. Farley declined to make known the length of time Terris and Goldstein would be under the ban, but there is every reason to believe that the boxers will be maintained on the ineligible list for the greater part of a year. It is known that the commission is determined to make examples of Terris and Goldstein, particularly in view of the fact that they withdrew from bouts on a charity card.

Disposition of the situation projected by Louis (Kid) Kaplan's surrender of the world's featherweight title is expected to be made at the commission's next meeting, Thursday afternoon. At this time it is planned to name an opponent and date for a bout in which Red Chapman, Boston challenger, will be a participant.

Chairman Farley announced that the commission was withholding action on the contracts for the proposed bout between Jack Delaney and Jack Sharkey, submitted by the Coney Island Stadium for July 30, pending the outcome of Delaney's battle next week with Paul Berlenbach for the light-heavyweight title.

Permission was granted the Queensboro Stadium to cancel its show scheduled for Tuesday night. Tonny Vaccarelli, scheduled to appear in one of the bouts, was granted thirty days in which to recover, when he reported illness would prevent his boxing. Georgie Balduc, Joe Ferrentino and Lew Warshaw, other boxers who pleaded illness prevented their boxing, each received thirty days.

MORGAN OUTCLASSES JOHNNY KOCHANSKY

Junior Lightweight Champion Scores Decisively in Bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

Tod Morgan of Seattle, world's junior lightweight champion, decisively defeated Johnny Kochansky, New Jersey lightweight, in a ten-round bout at Boyle's Thirty Acres last night before a gathering of about 5,000 fans. Morgan's title was not at stake for Kochansky was four and a half pounds overweight. Morgan tipped the scales at 129½ and Kochansky at 134½.

Kochansky started well enough, boxing the champion even during the first few rounds and having an edge in one of them, but as the bout progressed Morgan gathered speed and power. In the seventh Kochansky went down under a right to the jaw for a count of eight and in the tenth, Morgan again floored him in a rally which all but had Kochansky out.

Only in the third did the Jersey lad show an advantage. He caught the champion with several driving lefts to the stomach while Morgan retaliated with a few rights to the jaw.

Morgan was roundly booed for hitting Kochansky backhand several times during the early rounds. The fourth, fifth and sixth were even, but in the seventh Morgan had a distinct advantage and almost put Kochansky out in the final round. Only the bell saved Kochansky from being knocked out.

Tiger Jack Burns of California outpointed Irish Johnny Curtin, Jersey City boxer, in the semi-final. Burns had it pretty much his own way from the beginning. He floored Curtin in the first with a left and again in the tenth. Curtin waged a defensive battle, Burns doing most of the leading with a left jab, although Curtin had a greater reach.

Joey Ross of Hoboken had an edge on Dave Adleman, Pennsylvania bantam, in the first of the ten-round bouts. They engaged in a slugging bee during the first few rounds, but Ross weathered it better and carried more force to his punches in the rounds that followed.

James Becker, weighing 132, and Steve Clifford, 129½, boxed six rounds to a draw in the opening bout of the card. James J. Braddock, New Jersey boxer, gave Walter Westman, 167½, such a severe beating that Referee Joe Jeanette stopped the bout in the third round. The bout was scheduled to go six rounds.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 9.—Jack Kiernan of Long Branch outpointed Sid Emmons of Trenton in the main bout of ten rounds at the Ocean View A. A. here tonight. The bout was a slug-fest from the opening gong and satisfied a crowded house.

In the semi-final scheduled for eight rounds Buck Fleming of Philadelphia was knocked out by Al Bryant of Newark in the fifth round. Bryant battered his opponent so badly that the referee stopped the bout. Al Winkler of Philadelphia won from Patsy Nelson of Newark in the first eight rounder. In a six-round bout Joe Hervel of Newark defeated Andy Martel of Philadelphia. A draw between Paul Smithers and Kid Murphy, both of Long Branch, was the result in the four-round curtain raiser.

Boxer Dies After Knockout.

WHITTIER, Cal., July 9 (AP).—Clarence Johnson, 19 years old, welterweight boxer of this city, known as Rosey Johnson, died here last night following a prize fight in which he was knocked out in the fourth round. His opponent was Pat Patrick. An investigation has been started by the Sheriff's office.

German Tennis Champion Balks at Using U. S. Ball; Won't Play Richards and Kinsey

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 9.—Lieutenant Otto Froitzheim, Germany's tennis champion, who hobnobs with the former Crown Prince Wilhelm, will not meet Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey on Sunday at the opening tournament of the "Red White" club here. Froitzheim declined, not because, after having played with royalty, he feels he shouldn't meet untitled Americans, but because he does not wish to risk his reputation with the American balls which will be used.

The German balls are lighter in weight, though the same size, and do not contain a small lump of rubber where the balls are sealed. German tennis players say their brand of balls is livelier than other makes, and that this point alone makes competition between the two countries difficult, since one or the other must have a decided advantage.

During their four days in Berlin Richards and Kinsey will meet a number of Germany's best. On account of the rainy season the courts are slow, but special measures are being taken to get them in shape and keep them dry.

3 U. S. MARKS FALL IN WOMEN'S GAMES

Miss Copeland Boosts Shot-Put and Discus Figures in National Track Meet.

WORLD'S RELAY TIME TIED

Toronto Girls Take 440-Yard Qualifying Test in 51 Seconds—Two American Records Equaled.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Under a red hot sun, one world's record was equaled, three American broken and two equaled in the national women's track and field championships at the opening of the two-day meet here today.

Miss Lillian Copeland from the Pasadena (Cal.) Athletic and Country Club, shattered two of the three American marks.

Miss Copeland heaved the discus 101 feet 1 inch, breaking the mark of 98 feet 2 inches made by Miss Nell Carroll, Florida State College for Women. She also threw the 8-pound shot 38 feet ¾ inch, erasing the world record of 36 feet 11¾ inches set by Miss Lucille Godbold of Winthrop College. Then she threw the javelin 107 feet 6 inches to lead the qualifiers.

Toronto Four Ties Mark.

Anchored by Miss Rosa M. Grosse, "queen of the cinders," the Toronto Ladies' Athletic Club equaled the world's record in the 440-yard relay. The four lassies from the Dominion covered the distance in 51 seconds, equaling the time made by an All-Canadian quartet last year.

Miss Helen Filkey of Chicago broke an American record in the 60-yard hurdles when she won her heat in 8 2-5 seconds. Miss Filkey had done 8 3-10 in the championships last year, but the record had not been accepted.

Miss Ethel Brough, unattached, of Paterson, N. J., won a heat in the 220-yard dash in 27 4-5 seconds, equaling the American time made by Miss Elizabeth Nelson of Los Angeles, May 16, 1925.

Miss Betty Siska of the Midway A. C. negotiated the 50-yard dash in 6 seconds, equaling the American record.

The Pasadena Athletic and Country Club, with ten girls qualifying, led the field. Northern California was second with 8; Toronto, 6; Meadowbrook, 6; Paterson, N. J., 5; Coliseum Athletic Club, St. Louis, 4; Midwest A. C., Chicago, 3; Hamilton Ladies' Club, Canada, 2, and Canadian Ladies' Club, 1.

Coast Entries Protested.

After crossing the continent, six young women from Northern California were informed they would have to participate under protest. Just before leaving California the Vallejo and Eureka Women's Clubs, which were affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union, combined and called themselves the Northern California Athletic Club, but they forgot to notify the governing body.

The summaries:

Qualifiers in Discus Throw—Lillian Copeland, Pasadena Athletic Club; Dee Boeckman, Coliseum A. C.; Maybelle Reinhardt, Pasadena Athletic and Country Club; Florence Wolf, Toronto Ladies Club. Miss Copeland's best throw was 101 feet 1 inch. (New American record.)

Qualifiers in Shot Put—Lillian Copeland, Pasadena Athletic and Country Club; Rena MacDonald, Boston Swimming Association; Aurelia Brown, Northern California; Florence Wolf, T. L. C. C.; Naomi Fischer, Meadowbrook. Miss Copeland's best throw was 38 feet ¾ inches. (New American record.)

60-yard Hurdles—First semi-finals—Won by Helen Filkey, Chicago; second, Elvira Peterson, Pasadena Athletic and Country Club; third, Alta Huber, Northern California Athletic Club. Time—0:08 3-10. (New American record.)

Second Semi-finals—Won by Hazel Kirk, Prudential Insurance Company A. A.; second, Nellie Todd, Midwest Athletic Club; third, Florence Love, St. Bonaventure Lyceum. Time—0:0:9.

50-yard Dash, First Heat—Won by Eugenia Oliar, Paterson Recreation Club; second, Fanny Davis, Canadian Athletic Club; third, Estelle H. Hill, Prudential Insurance Co. Time—0:0:6 2-5.

Second Heat—Won by Betty Siska, Midwest; second, Frances Rupplert, Meadowbrook; third, Kate Moore, Pasadena Athletic and Country Club; fourth, Virginia Reese, Carnegie Library Club. Time—0:06. (Equals American record.)

Third Heat—Won by Ella Cartwright, Northern California Athletic Club; second, Mary Weime, unattached; third, Frances Davis, Toronto Ladies' Athletic Club; fourth, Katharine Mearis, Boston Swimming Association. Time—0:06 2-5.

Fourth Heat—Won by Harriett Mathews, Meadowbrook; second, Josephine Dyment, Hamilton Ladies' Club; third, Betty Grassie, Pasadena Athletic and Country Club; fourth, Marietta Ceresa, Prudential Insurance Co. A. A. Time—0:06 3-5.

60-Yard Hurdles, First Heat—Won by Helen M. Filkey, Midwest Athletic Club; second, Alda Silva, Northern California; third, Mary L. Brockett, Arnold College of Physical Education; fourth, Anna Maguire, Coliseum Athletic Club. Time—0:08 2-5.

Second Heat—Won by Elvira Paterson, Pasadena Athletic and Country Club; second, Florence Love, St. Bonaventure Lyceum; third, Nellie Todd, Midwest Athletic Club; fourth, Rena MacDonald, Boston Swimming Association. Time—0:08 1-10.

440-Yard Relay, First Heat—Won by Pasadena Athletic and Country Club (Kate Moore, Elizabeth Grassie, Helen Cooley, Nellie Dorschlag); second, Prudential Insurance Company A. A.; third, Boston Swimming Association. Time—0:52 2-10.

440-Yard Relay, Second Heat—Won by Toronto Ladies Club (Frances Davies, Jessie Glover, Florence Bell, Rosa M. Grosse); second, Northern California Athletic Club; third, Meadowbrook Club. Time—0:51. (Equals world's record.)

Running High Jump (Qualifiers)—Won by Elizabeth Stine, Paterson (N. J.) Recreation Club; Jean MacKay, Toronto Ladies' Club; Catherine Maguire, Coliseum Athletic Club; Ruth Brinton, Meadowbrook Club; Eleanor Egg, Paterson Recreation Club. Height—4 feet 9 inches.

Javelin Throw (Qualifiers)—Won by Lillian Copeland, 107 feet 6 inches, Pasadena; second, Pauline Haasup, 102 feet 9¼ inches, Paterson A. C.; third, Clara Ballard, 101 feet 5¼ inches, McGill University; fourth, Alice Ryden, 99 feet 6¼ inches, Pasadena Athletic Club; fifth, Alva Silva, Northern California, 99 feet 5 inches.

Qualifiers in the Baseball Throw—Won by Mabel Holmes, Paterson Recreation, 212 feet 8 inches; second, Margaret Watson, Wilmerding, Y. W. C. A., 212 feet 1 inch; third, G. M. Godson, Toronto, 204 feet; fourth, Naomi Fischer, Meadowbrook, 202 feet 1½ inches.

U. S. TRACK STARS READY FOR BRITISH

Princeton and Cornell Face Oxford-Cambridge Team in London Today.

KEEN STRUGGLES EXPECTED

Russell Favored In Sprints but Britons Are Strong in Hurdles and Distance Events.

LONDON, July 9 (AP).—The Princeton-Cornell track team returned to London tonight, refreshed after a two days' rest and ready for tomorrow's meet with the combined teams of Cambridge and Oxford at Stamford Bridge.

The team, which has spent the past two days as guests of Cambridge University, retired early tonight. None of the Americans has done any work since Wednesday, when Coach Jack Moakley put them through their last grind on the Stamford Bridge field. Their last practice was concentrated on getting accustomed to the banked track, which calls for running the hundred partially around a bend and the 220 around a full turn.

Captain Henry A. (Hank) Russell of Cornell is looked upon as a sure winner in the 100 and 220 yard events, particularly in view of his recent work in the United States. Captain Arthur E. Porritt of the combined English team is considered Russell's strongest competitor in these events. Captain Porritt, however, is reported off form. Last year Porritt defeated Russell at 100 yards but lost to him at the 220.

Britons Cleaned Up Last Year.

Last year's meet resulted in a sweeping victory for Oxford-Cambridge, which defeated Princeton-Cornell, 9 1-3 to 2 2-3, at Atlantic City, the point score of the twelve events being based on the number of first places won, a fraction of a point being awarded in the event of a tie in any of the contests.

Eugene W. Goodwillie and John Farrand, both of Cornell, are considered strong entrants in the 440-yard event, but J. W. J. Rinkel of Cambridge, the English runner who nosed out a two-foot victory in the international meet in London last Saturday, is favored by some.

There appears to be no favorite for the half mile, but R. S. Starr of Cambridge is strongly favored for the mile. The two-mile is generally regarded as an open affair, with T. C. Fooks of Cambridge possibly given the edge.

The high jump has a couple of good men on the English team in T. C. Van Geyzel and J. S. S. Pendlebury, both of Cambridge, with Everett C. Bradley of Cornell the favorite in the American contingent.

Lord Burghley a Favorite.

Lord Burghley, the young Cambridge star, who competed so successfully in the United States last year, is looked upon as a sure winner in the 220-yard low hurdles, while either he or G. C. Weightman-Smith, also of Cambridge, is expected to take the 120-yard hurdles event.

Reed V. Bontecou of Cornell and Stephen R. Bradley of Princeton are conceded a walk away in the pole vault. Caleb F. Gates is looked upon as the winner in the shot put, while Edwin J. Dickeman Jr. of Princeton is favored for the broad jump.

The Americans had a most interesting time going over the estate of the Marquis of Exeter, father of the noted athlete, Lord Burghley. The estate comprises about 27,000 acres and is the third largest in England. In the wine cellars the athletes were shown stocks of port wine over a century old.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

Commonwealth Sporting Club—Chick Suggs vs. Tommy Gervel; Jackie Donahue vs. Jack Mallon. Two ten-round bouts.

Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn—Jenny Erickson vs. Joe Marcianti; Bert Martin vs. Nick Palermo; Phil Gitrin vs. Joe McBride; Joe Kalish vs. Herman Wallace; six rounds each.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN HEAD, L. I., July 9.—Mrs. Edna Hauselt Roeser, women's metropolitan clay court champion, and Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere of Boston will meet in the final round of the invitation tennis tournament at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Both turned in performances today that were unusually meritorious, all the more satisfying because Mrs. Roeser and Mrs. Corbiere prevailed not only over dangerous opponents but also an extreme degree of heat.

Miss Marie Wagner faced Mrs. Roeser, while Mrs. Helen Pollak Falk was Mrs. Corbiere's opponent. Both Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. Falk are players of established reputation, the one skilled in all the subtleties of position play, the other rated as an aggressive back court smasher who places her shots with disconcerting craft and manages to get to shots that many players concede as unplayable. Yet neither of them was able to take a set, Miss Wagner being defeated at 6—4, 6—4, while Mrs. Corbiere eliminated Mrs. Falk at 6—4, 6—3.

The final round of the doubles was also reached, with Mrs. Corbiere again occupying one of the brackets. Paired with Mrs. William Endicott of Boston, she defeated Mrs. Frederick M. Letson and Mrs. Frederick Schmitz at 6—1, 4—6, 6—1. The other semi-final also went to three sets, which, in the extremely torrid weather was about two sets too many for the players. Mrs. Roeser was on the wrong end of the score this time, losing with Mrs. L. M. Burt to Mrs. Bernard Stenz and Mrs. Lewis Gouverneur Morris at 6—2, 4—6, 6—3. The final of the doubles will follow the concluding match of the singles tomorrow.

Judging the match between Mrs. Roeser and Miss Wagner on stroke execution and deployment, Miss Wagner was so much the superior that had these been the only factors the outcome would probably have been directly the reverse. But the match temperament of Mrs. Roeser, her fighting instinct to keep on top of the ball and to allow no shot to escape her racquet, regardless of the effort required to get to it, more than counterbalanced her opponent's advantages.

LANG-FEIBLEMAN VICTORS.

Will Meet Hunter and Dr. King in Quaker Ridge Final Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, July 9.—Jerry Lang and Edward W. Feibleman reached the final round of the Quaker Ridge doubles tournament today at the New Rochelle Tennis Club, defeating Frank Bonneau and J. Gilbert Hall, 6—3, 8—6. They will meet Francis T. Hunter and Dr. George King in the concluding round tomorrow afternoon, following the final of the single championship, in which Hunter will meet Julius Seligson. The latter match will start at 2:30.

Lang and Feibleman had their hands full to dispose of Bonneau and Hall today. The latter pair played aggressive, hard-hitting tennis, both at the net and from back court, and the rallies were marked by brilliant work at close quarters.

BERLENBACH AGAIN SIGNS.

Agrees to Fight for Fugazy in August if He Beats Delaney.

Promoter Humbert Fugazy, who is to conduct the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney world's light-heavyweight championship fight at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Thursday night, yesterday assured himself of another world's light-heavyweight title struggle before the end of the season when he signed Berlenbach to an agreement whereby the champion agrees, in the event that he retains his title against Delaney, to defend the championship against a suitable foe in a bout under Fugazy's direction late in August or early in September. Fugazy announced he had received Delaney's consent to a similar arrangement.

HICKS TAKES TITLE IN L. I. GOLF PLAY

Beats Myers and Then Finlay, Both by 4 and 3, to Carry Off Junior Crown.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., July 9.—Jarvis S. Hicks Jr., of Salisbury, after gaining the final this morning at the Garden City Country Club by defeating William Myers, the Laureiton lad who took the medal in the qualifying round yesterday, breezed through the final this afternoon, beating Phillips Finlay of the Quogue Field Club by 4 and 3 for the junior championship of Long Island.

Although continually outdriven by Finlay, Hicks won the final because of a more consistent short game. Tremendous tee shots by the runner-up were often spoiled by poor intermediate ones, and when the pair reached the greens Finlay was beaten through his deficiency in putting, while Hicks showed unerring accuracy. On several of the holes, Finlay missed puts of four feet, and on one occasion he failed to sink one that was not more than a foot from the cup.

The Salisbury lad was only two over par, scoring a 73 for the eighteen holes which were played out after the match was decided on the fifteenth.

In disposing of Myers in the morning, Hicks won by the same decisive score of 4 and 3. Finlay had considerably more trouble in the same round, for he just barely managed to win from George K. Simonson of the home club by 1 up. T. J. Riley Jr., who with his father won the father and son tournament at this club on Wednesday, defeated C. F. Doherty of St. Albans by 3 and 2 in the final match of the second eight.

A thirteen-year-old lad, M. G. Joffee of Belleclaire, had the distinction of winning the final of the third eight.

Kroydon Clubs for LADIES

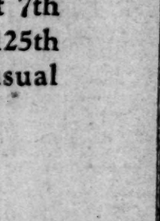
IN design, these clubs are like regular men's models—with the same fine lines, natural balance, and accuracy.

They are lighter and somewhat shorter than men's clubs, and are perfectly suited to the weight, strength, and physique of women.

They are far superior to the makeshift clubs with which so many women endeavor to develop a sound and creditable game.

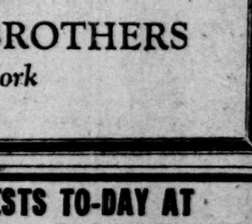
All Kroydon Clubs are made in Ladies' Models. Most popular are Model 61, Wood Clubs—and Model 9, Irons.

Ladies' Model 61
Driver Brassie Spoon
With HICKORY SHAFT $6.00
With STEEL SHAFT $8.00



A well-rounded rather broad head, with medium striking face. A club that gets the ball UP, and is easy to play.

Kroydon Jigger
Ladies' Model M-9
With HICKORY SHAFT $6.00
With STEEL SHAFT $7.50



Sold by golf "pros" and at the best stores.

One of the most useful irons ever made. Has 35 degrees loft—shallow face—and a heavy sole, that gives power enough for long carry. A wonderful club for playing long shots up to the pin.

Titan Beats Prince of Umbria in the Gramatan Handicap at Empire City Track

MERELY A GALLOP FOR TITAN TO WIN

Just Kicks the Dust in Prince of Umbria's Eyes in the Gramatan Handicap.

FATOR ALSO RIDES ST. JOHN

Completes Double by Capturing the Woodlawn — Half Moon Gains Unexpected Victory at Yonkers.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

While the Rancocas Stable has few mounts to engage its premier jockey these days, Laverne Fator is making good with his outside engagements and yesterday had a perfect score at the Empire City course up on the hilltop at Yonkers. He had two mounts and brought each home in front. It was fortunate for him that he did not have to work very hard for his victories in view of the intense heat and humidity that settled over James Butler's race course and wilted the spectators. The latter were lucky, too, for there were no dead heats to raise their temperature further and only one finish close enough to inspire more than feeble applause.

The card was composed of ordinary overnight events, the most important of which was the Gramatan Handicap, a gallop of a mile and seventy yards, which was the medium of one of Fator's victories. Fator was up on F. E. Brown's Jim Gaffney colt Titan, which, on his two good races at Aqueduct, was backed from 7 to 5 to 11 to 10 in a field of five.

That hope which springs eternal and is ever an important factor on the race track, led not a few to remain faithful to Quatrain, the erratic four-year-old that the Greentree Stable took over from Frederick Johnson with the announced purpose of turning him into a jumper, but that stable continues to run him on the flat. His disposition seems to have sweetened at the expense of his speed, but the players gave him one more trial and backed him from 7 to 2 to 5 to 2. Perhaps, when they definitely decide to stop backing him he will turn about with a winning effort.

Nothing to It Except Titan.

There was nothing to the race except Titan, which broke running, gained a good lead and came to the finish galloping. Prince of Umbria, making his first start of the season following his three straight victories at New Orleans, chased the leader all the way, but never got nearer than to get the dust of Titan's heels in his eyes. Quatrain was third for a good part of the journey, but could not stick it out. The Log Cabin Stud's High Star might have given the winner something of an argument if he had not gone up in the air when the break came.

Fator's double was completed in the Woodlawn Purse, a claiming event over the same route as the handicap, which he won with Mrs. R. Alexander's three-year-old gelding St. John. Most of the interest in the race was scratched out, only five of the thirteen named over night going to the post. Danby and Serman were the only ones the players would look at, and each was strongly supported at 8 to 5, the winner being little favored at 5 to 1.

Fator let Danby and The Vintner fight it out to the head of the stretch, where he took St. John wide and came around the others. There was a spirited run for a furlong and then St. John drew away and was well in hand at the finish. Danby's underpinnings have been on the verge of breakdown for some time, although he had won his three previous starts, and this time they gave way. Sande dismounted after pulling up.

Half Moon Provides a Kick.

The seven three-year-old maiden fillies in the final number were the only ones that gave the spectators a thrill, the kick being provided by H. W. Maxwell's Half Moon, which Stevens got up to nose out the Log Cabin Stud's Forget Me Not. It was a rosy ending to gloomy start, the winner being last to get going in a field of seven that ran the short six furlongs course. As this daughter of Cudgel was the 9 to 5 favorite the big bunch of wise money appeared lost.

But Stevens was more optimistic than the backers of his mount and sent the filly along on the outside to try and save some part of the money. She kept on going steadily, worked up gradually and finished with rare courage to snatch the money from the Log Cabin filly.

GERMAN HORSES HERE.

14 Thoroughbreds, Insured for 100,000 Marks, in Fine Condition.

Fourteen German thoroughbred horses from the famous Harzburg Stud Farm, founded in 1755 in Germany by the Duke of Brunswick, arrived here yesterday on board the United States liner President Roosevelt. They were brought by Baron Werner von Lyncker, owner, and Captain Curt George von Bauer, manager of the farm, and will be sold at auction at Saratoga in August.

In Hold 3 of the liner, specially reserved for the horses, roomy stalls were built close to its sides, and ample deck space reserved for their exercise. All of the horses arrived in excellent condition. They are insured for 100,000 marks.

CHICAGO INJUNCTION ON BETS EXTENDED

Further Respite Granted as State Seeks Modification of Washington Park Order.

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP).—Further respite for betting at the new Washington Park track of the Illinois Jockey Club came today when State's Attorney Crowe filed a petition seeking modification of the temporary injunction restraining interference with the conduct of the track. Circuit Judge Ryner set a hearing on the petition for July 15 and continued his temporary injunction until that date.

The State's Attorney sought modification of that part of the restraining order which directed him and other law-enforcing officers to "desist from in any way interfering with the soliciting of contributions and subscriptions to purses in money from the public or individuals." The mutuel tickets at the track are sold as receipts for contributions to the purse fund.

The State's Attorney's petition charged that the club is maintaining a common gaming house at the track under the guise of receiving contributions to purses and making refunds to contributors.

Crowe has made a new raid in his war on open race betting, with the latest objective of his attack the greyhound racing track in suburban Homewood, just across from the Washington Park plant, which so far has successfully defied the Cook County prosecutor.

Forty detectives from Crowe's office last night swooped down on the betting shed as scores of persons waited to cash winning tickets, arrested seven of the mutuel operators and confiscated tickets for the remaining races.

J. H. Ellis, President of the Illinois Kennel Club, in charge of the meeting, asserted that the form of betting was within the Illinois law, and that an injunction would be sought to prevent further interference.

LORENA AXWORTHY WINS FEATURE TROT

Mare, After Finishing Eighth in First Heat, Takes Next Two at North Randall.

ROBBINGEN ALSO VICTOR

Edman Scores With Gelding in 2:16 Trot—Bel Lamont Captures 2:14 Pace.

CLEVELAND, July 9 (AP).—Lorena Axworthy won the classified trot, feature of a mediocre Grand Circuit racing card at North Randall today. The mare finished eighth in the first heat and took the next two.

Fred Edman, Memphis, Tenn., reinsman, won his second race of the meeting with Robbingen, when the gelding captured the 2:16 trot. He was forced to go four heats to take the event, however, Simbell, an outsider, capturing the first heat and Dean Ettawah the second, in both of which Robbingen finished third.

The 2:14 pace went to Bel Lamont after she finished ninth in the first heat.

W. P. BURCH, TRAINER, 80, DIES AT SARATOGA

Had Gone to Up-State Track to Supervise Stables of Admiral Grayson and Samuel Ross.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 9 (AP).—William Preston Burch, veteran trainer, known wherever thoroughbred horses are bred or raced in this country, died in a private sanitarium here late last night after a brief illness. Although 80 years old, he came here a few weeks ago with the horses in the racing stable of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson and Samuel Ross, prepared to supervise their training for the August race meeting.

A native of South Carolina, Burch was a scout and courier in the Confederate Army in the Civil War. The body will be taken to Washington, D. C., for funeral and burial.

Mr. Burch had been a follower of the turf from the time of his youth. As a young man he was a partner with Charles H. Pettingill, once a trainer of his own horses and later an official at various tracks. Later Mr. Burch became associated with the stable of George H. Kernaghan of Augusta, Ga., for whom he trained such good ones as Judge Murray, Mittie B. and Burch, the latter named after him. For the same owner at a later date he had the good performer Governor Sprague. Burch was one of the toughest campaigners this country has ever seen, winning many races for his namesake and later for Johnny McCafferty until he was fourteen years of age.

For nearly a decade Mr. Burch had the horses of the late Frank R. Hitchcock and won a lot of races with Dandelion, Devanter, Rossignol and others. He also trained for the late W. C. Eustis. For some time he had had the horses of Admiral Grayson, his best in the last few years being Gnome and My Own.

Mr. Burch was noted for his patience and would wait all year on a horse he believed in. He was also a great believer in the efficacy of the waters of Saratoga and usually went to the Spa a month before the opening of the meeting. He was a familiar figure on the streets of the town.

The veteran trainer was very fond of a good saddle horse and was to be seen every morning during the season at the Springs on the back of a good gray at Horse Haven.

Mr. Burch is survived by two sons, Preston M. and Shelby, both of whom are trainers.

Scratched—Glen Sprite, Whiskery and Fastic.

Spanish Gold, away well, was outrun around the turn. He swung over to the outside in the stretch, closed with a rush and was going away. Nama raced A. P. Canale into submission, but weakened in the last sixteenth. A. P. Canale broke running, but could not last. He tired badly in the last furlong. Candy Hog was best of the others.

St. John was rated back of the pace to the head of the stretch, where he came wide, but drew out to win nicely in hand. The Vintner had plenty of speed and held on gamely. Sherman was hard ridden all the way and had no mishaps. Danby was well up for six furlongs. He broke down. Star Saint was practically left and just galloped along back of the field.

Titan ran as it much the best. He broke fast, opened a wide lead and, saving ground throughout, drew away at the finish. Prince of Umbria handled his weight well and held on gamely. High Star went into the air as the barrier was sprung. He closed a big gap. Quatrain had no excuse. He quit badly. Mosque was outclassed.

Yanks Defeat Indians; Giants Take 2 From Reds

RUTH'S NO. 27 SETS YANKS ON RAMPAGE

Paschal Also Provides One as Leaders Fall on Indians for Ten Hits in 8-2 Victory.

SAM JONES HOLDS SWAY

Huggins Shifts Batting Order, Starting Off With Paschal—Get Five Runs In Fourth.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

As exclusively predicted by Clarke Griffith, the Yankees have cracked. They cracked the Indians for an 8–2 victory yesterday. All the Hugmen did in the way of punitive measures was to make eight easy runs and ten hits, which included Babe Ruth's twenty-seventh homer of the year and a neat four-bagger by Ben Paschal inside the park.

Further indication of the big Yankee blow-up was seen in the scandalous way old Squire Sam Jones pitched. He was cruelly hammered for seven hits, five of which came in the first three innings. The Indians got only one man to second base in the last six innings, and he wasn't there long enough to admire the view of the Bronx sunset.

Another thing the Yanks did wrong was to waste valuable hits. They crammed all ten of their swats into three innings—the third, fourth and fifth. Every one of the ten bingles entered into the making of runs. Not even as much as one little single was wasted.

Batting Order Shifted.

Before the game Manager Huggins was seized with the idea that the old batting order needed a little overhauling. What Huggins did to that batting order was a shame. He led off with Paschal, followed smartly with Dugan and Ruth and put Gehrig in the clean-up position. Then came Combs, Lazzeri, Adams and the battery. Lazzeri and Collins were the only lads who retained their former places.

You couldn't ask for any better results. It took the boys two innings to get together but from the third to the fifth they hammered Sherrod Smith to a pink pulp. Everything Sherry served was entirely satisfactory to the Yanks. After the fifth Garland Buckeye took charge of the proceedings.

Ruth's homer launched the athletes on their winning drive in the fourth. Before Smith could stop the stampede five runners had dashed over the plate on six hits. The Ruth contribution was a tall fly that winged crisply to a central point in the right field bleachers.

If the wind had not held the ball, it would have fallen in the top rows. For that matter, if the wind had been more favorable George would have had another homer in the fifth when Summa caught his fly at the end of the fence.

Behind Mark by 12 Games.

The big home run man is still miles behind his 1921 record—twelve games, to be exact. In 1921 he hit his twenty-seventh on June 26 in his sixty-seventh game.

The Indians were off to a sprightly start when Jamison doubled and scored on Joey Sewell's single after Spurgeon and Speaker had proved null and void. In the third the Clevelanders again stepped out. J. Sewell doubled with two out and came in when Summa singled to left. Dugan pawed feebly at this hit but failed to impede the progress of the ball.

Slightly aroused by this hostile display, the Yanks cut off a piece of cake in the same inning when Paschal hit a home run over Mr. Jamison's head in deep centre. The ball rolled right among the inhabitants of the bull pen, who scattered in alarm.

Jamison made a long and fast relay but it bounced away from J. Sewell long enough for Paschal, who had slowed up at third, to scurry home and make it with a long slide. Luke Sewell dropped the ball just to make it unanimous. The Sewell boys didn't look so good on that one.

Ruth's homer in the fourth was followed by Gehrig's double to centre. Combs popped out but Lazzeri's short single sent Gehrig to third. Ward hit for Adams and poked a single to right, scoring Gehrig.

When Collins dropped a high Texas leaguer near the left field foul line the bases were full. Jones's out fetched in one run, and Paschal's two-bagger to left scored two more, making a grand total of five.

Smith came back for more in the fifth and was accommodated. The first two batters were retired, but this was just a decoy. Combs singled, Lazzeri tripled to distant right centre and Ward slammed a single to left.

The Yanks were silent after that but, on the other hand, the Indians didn't have much to say either.

SHERDEL PITCHES CARDS TO VICTORY

His Effective Work in Pinches and Good Support Beat Braves, 2-1—Hornsby in Game.

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (AP).—Sherdel allowed ten hits, but was effective in the pinches, and with the aid of excellent support he pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to victory over the Boston Braves today, 2 to 1. L. Bell and Burrus hit home runs.

Manager Rogers Hornsby was back in the Cardinal line-up after being absent since June 29, when he underwent an operation for removal of a carbuncle. He made a single in four times at bat.

TIGERS BREAK STREAK.

Win First Game in Seven Starts, Blanking Red Sox, 9 to 0.

BOSTON, July 9 (AP).—After losing six straight, Detroit stepped back into a winning stride today, Collins shutting out the Red Sox, 9 to 0. The Tiger twirler held Boston to six scattered hits. O'Rourke and Fothergill led at the bat for Detroit.

GIANTS STING REDS, TAKING TWO GAMES

Frisch, After Costly Error, Retrieves Himself by Helping to Win Opener, 7-4.

McQUILLAN HERO OF SECOND

Hurls Masterful Game and Triumphs, 4-1—18,000 See Donohue and Rixey Beaten.

By IK SHUMAN.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, July 9.—Our Giants, no conjurors heretofore in the field, at the bat or in the realm of magic, cast a spell over the league-leading Reds today and won both games of a double-header, 7 to 4 and 4 to 1, before a crowd of 18,000.

They inaugurated their Western trip by playing ball as the Giants of old played it. They hit the ball. They hit it so hard that Jack Hendricks gave almost his whole stable of hurlers a workout during the afternoon. They hit it so hard that Pete Donohue and Eppa Rixey, aces of the Reds' pitching staff, were sent to the showers.

Meanwhile, our own hurlers, although three were used in the opening game, pitched steadily, being retired only in favor of pinch hitters who made good. And the best of them was Hughie McQuillan, who almost alone led the Giants to the second victory of the day.

Hughie Smiles His Way Through.

Hughie literally smiled his way through the nine innings while the Giants overcame their old jinx, the left-hander Rixey, and his successor, Jakie May. McQuillan gave only four hits, and until the ninth, when the Reds scored their lonely run, did not permit a single Red to reach third.

But the best feature of the day's victory was that the Giants won the first after apparently losing it, staging a rally in the seventh which made even grim old John McGraw smile in the recesses of the dug-out.

Frank Frisch was the hero of that contest after it seemed that he had made himself the villain. Frank threw badly in the first inning of the opening game when Hugh Critz grounded to him while two men were on bases, and both men scored. The Giants trailed until the seventh, and then, with the score tied and two men on, Frisch tripled and gave the Giants the lead from which they were never headed.

The scoring in the second game was comparatively simple. The Giants made a run in each of the first two innings and in the sixth they got two runs and brought an end to the endeavors of the Squire of Culpepper Court House.

Jackson Wields Bat.

In the sixth Kelly was walked by the Squire. Jackson, who had a tremendously successful day, getting on bases eight times on six hits, an error and a base on balls, singled to centre. Kelly took third and a moment later Hugh McMullin brought him home on a single to left. Then Mr. McQuillan doubled, scoring Jackson.

The Giants used Fred Fitzsimmons, Jimmy Ring and Jack Scott in the first game. The Reds employed Donohue, Jackie May and Fred Lucas.

Fitzsimmons pitched steadily in the opening game, and had it not been for Frisch's bad throw would not have had more than one run scored on him. The Giants played well in the field, too, and by pounding Mr. Donohue on various occasions for varied hits, gave promise of that heartening rally in the seventh, when once more they looked like the Giants of old.

The Reds were leading 3 to 2, and Pete Donohue was working with the precision for which he has made himself famous, when the Giants started that rally. Travis Jackson led with a single to left. McGraw sent Bill Terry to pinch hit for Paul Florence, and the pride of the Delta justified his faith by singling to right and placing Jackson on third.

Johnston Hits in Pinch.

Here the old master mind in the dugout functioned again, and, although Fitzsimmons was pitching as well as any one could ask, he was retired in favor of James Johnston, most recent of the Giant acquisitions. Jimmy immediately singled to left, scoring Jackson with the tying run.

Things looked pretty bad for the ace of the Reds' pitching staff, but he breathed a little easier when Mueller popped to Charley Dressen. But the relief was only momentary. Frisch hit the first ball pitched to deep centre for three bases, scoring Terry and Johnston and giving the Giants a lead of two runs. This was the end of Mr. Donohue, who walked sadly to the bench as Jakie May went reluctantly to relieve him.

For the end was not yet. Young bunted perfectly down the third-base line, making first safely, while Frisch scored. But still the Giants were not done. Young stole second and third, despite the efforts of Bubbles Hargrave to prevent him, and he scored with the fifth run of the inning, while Lindstrom was thrown out by Hughie Critz.

Pickups and Putouts

Ben Paschal swung a robust club at the Yankee Stadium yesterday, driving in three runs with two hits. Mightn't be bad to let this fellow stay in against right-hand pitchers.

Lazzeri has been a huge success at shortstop but Huggins is still having difficulty at second base. On the strength of Adam's good hitting the day before, Spencer was started yesterday, but when the real pinch came in the fourth Ward batted for his fellow second baseman.

The Ward-Lazzeri combination gives the Yanks more fielding strength than they have had at any time this year.

No word was received from Waite Hoyt yesterday as to the outcome of the final X-ray examination of his pitching elbow in Rochester.

The players wilted under the terrific heat. Speaker took himself out in the seventh and went in to sit on a cake of ice. The old boy was bothered by flies yesterday. He misjudged Lazzeri's single in the fifth.

It is Shocker's turn to pitch today, and the left-handed Joe Shaute is booked to wrangle with him.

Trailing Phillies, They Rout Mitchell to Win, 9-6—Grantham Gets Homer and Triple.

PITTSBURGH, July 9 (AP).—Pittsburgh came from behind to defeat Philadelphia today, 9 to 6. Songer was driven from the mound in the second after the Phils had scored four runs.

Meadows finished and held the Phillies the rest of the way. The Pirates knocked Mitchell out of the box in the fifth, scoring six runs. Grantham led the attack with a homer, triple and a single.

BALLOU CHECKS SENATORS.

Holds Former Teammates Until the Eighth and Browns Win, 4-3.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Winn Ballou, who once wore a Washington uniform, was effective in the pinches and St. Louis defeated the Senators, 4 to 3, in the series opener today. Ballou issued six passes, but checked the champions off until the eighth when he was withdrawn. Eleven Washington men were left on bases.

NO ALTERNATIVES FOR FRANCE.

The French are famed for being logical. Sometimes they carry out a political doctrine with a severity of inference that leaves a rule-of-thumb Anglo-Saxon aghast. But when their reasoning leads them up to a dead wall they are apt to show themselves as practical as the next man in doing what has to be done. They are, in fact, as famous for making the right turn at the last moment as they are for furiously debating whether it is the right turn. And it is because they seem always to have a great reserve of common sense that there is ground for believing that they will yet pull themselves out of their present financial and political muddle.

Even if they were to stick by the most rigorous logic, they would find themselves shut up to the course urged by the Briand Government. For to that Government there is no alternative in sight—at least, no other Ministry with promise of vitality or stability. BRIAND and CAILLAUX may not be highly popular; but they may well ask who, if they are turned out of office, can be found to take their places. Out of the flux of groups in the Chamber it does not seem possible to secure any other working majority, even temporarily. M. HERRIOT faithfully tried to form a Cabinet by means of successive combinations, but had to give up the job in despair. Neither he nor any other leader could succeed better now if the existing Government were to go down before an adverse vote in the Chamber. With no substitute Government that had not in it the seeds of early death anywhere visible, there would be a woeful lack of logic, as well as of ordinary sense, in ousting it and fleeing from known ills to others unknown that might be worse.

Nor is there really open to the French any alternative financial policy. Should BRIAND fail and a new makeshift Government be formed, it would have to come straight back to the recommendations of the expert financiers. There is no other way out of the mess. Further inflation of the currency would be madness. The way of return to confidence in the public finance and in the currency is plainly marked out. Financial principles that have the sanction of long experience are now squarely before the Chamber and the French nation for acceptance or rejection. There is no alternative. Finance Minister CAILLAUX put the case with great clarity and force in his speech to the Chamber; and it is because he argued with so much earnestness and even solemnity that France had come to the parting of the ways, and must make her election once for all between the safe course and the perilous one, that political observers were impressed with a change in political sentiment, and are now inclined to believe that the Government will win the day in Parliament.

A couple of months ago a French writer discussed in an English review the possibilities of a dictatorship in France. He set forth the pros and cons of the argument, though his own conclusion was that France did not want and would not tolerate a dictator. But he remarked that if the political confusion grew worse, and especially if French finance seemed to be getting more and more deeply mired, a demand might arise for a strong man to take charge of national affairs. However, if the French take notice of affairs in Italy, they will not be led, either by logic or by practical wisdom, to the belief that even a dictator can by fiat cure deep-seated financial disease. The lira has been slipping along with the franc.

Foreign exchanges and sound currency have rules and laws of their own which cannot be set aside whether by a tumultuous democracy or an autocrat who can issue decrees without let or hindrance from a Parliament. In the face of hard financial facts, MUSSOLINI is no better off than BRIAND. Both of them have to deal with things as they are. Currency and finance are tough and obstinate. They will bear no trifling. If any ruler thinks that he can produce an alternative to their established and long-approved laws, he is simply preparing for himself and his people fresh troubles. It is easy to frighten capital and drive it into foreign hiding. Nothing is more facile than to derange the currency. But after every vain shift or experiment has been tried, there always has to be a return to the plans indicated as necessary by the universal and accumulated experience of civilized nations. This way may be hard, but there is no other.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING.

Secretary JARDINE in his address before the "American Institute of Cooperation" in St. Paul, Minn., set forth what it is hoped to accomplish through the division of cooperative marketing in the Department of Agriculture, provided for by this session of Congress. This bureau seemed only as the mouse in the fable which the mountain brought forth after much thundering, but it has promise of real helpfulness to the farmer, in that it is only to help him to help himself. In the first place, it is to be understood that it is in no sense a measure of emergency relief. No Federal or State marketing system is to be set up. The plan does not contemplate the entrance of Government to make good shortcomings or to dispose of surplus. About all that the Department of Agriculture can offer under this law is summed up in the word "research," and about all that farmers can accept under any theory or practice of pure cooperation is advice.

As examples of the kind of assistance which the department can give—has been giving and will continue to give—under more generous appropriations, the Secretary cites the study of the operation and costs of cotton gins. When this study, now approaching completion, is given to the cotton marketing associations, they will have definite advice from specialists about the best way to form local cooperative gins. It is anticipated that the organized grain growers, the dairymen and all the other organized groups will be assisted in the same way. Again, this bureau will give guidance to the cooperatives that are expanding their functions and entering the terminal markets, as the live-stock shippers have done, as the organizations marketing poultry and eggs have done, and as the grain-marketing organizations are apparently preparing to do—an advance which can safely be taken only after careful study of conditions. Another problem is that of the disposal of surplus products. Here the Department of Agriculture through its division of cooperatives can go to the farmer with advice as to production; for the cure of excess lies in production plans—or, rather, plans as modified by conditions of soil, wind and weather.

Behind all this is a service that the department can give in making "cooperation" a part of the studies of the young people who will carry on the work of producing the food and clothing of the nation. This looks beyond the mere mechanism of marketing, the mere transfer of goods. It leads into an acquaintance with the intricate and often far-reaching process of putting products in the hands of consumers, together with an appreciation of the consumers' needs and of price factors. Ultimately it will bring the consuming and the competitively producing world within the horizon of the farm boys and girls and, though the Secretary makes no reference to this, give them familiarity with the effect of the tariff upon their economic life. Back of cooperative organization there must be, says the Secretary, "a great human development," and how can that come without taking humanity generally into consideration, since no nation longer lives economically to itself alone? The cooperative movement has had a period of sound growth, and it will undoubtedly play a larger part in our economic life if it accepts the advice and guidance of thoroughgoing scientific research, free of political influence.

A PECULIAR SPEECH.

Attorney General SARGENT is a little "peculiar," as the Yankees say. To turn the dedication of a war memorial into a prohibition meeting displays great originality of taste. While he did not speak specifically of the Volstead act, his intention and meaning are clear. Here is a specimen:

> I have called to your attention what seems to me the disregard of duty, the positive disloyalty of persons of understanding, of influence, who not only violate the law themselves, but encourage others in and knowingly reward them for doing it; and here, in the presence of this memorial to those who gave their lives that their country might endure, I again urge and entreat you to stop and consider the effect of conduct more threatening to the nation and its institutions than any European nation ever was.

What makes the authority of any law? Not its presence on the statute books, where many laws have become a dead letter and others are sure to become so in time. The authority of a law depends upon public opinion. In almost every book of State statutes, at least in the older Commonwealths, are obsolete enactments, justified by the public opinion of their time, but now fallen into disrepute. As to the Volstead act there is a sharp difference of public opinion, as there was about the Prohibition Amendment, to which Mr. SARGENT himself used to be opposed. If a citizen believes, as millions of citizens believe, that it is beyond the province of the Government to direct personal habits, what moral authority to his mind has a law for that direction?

The Government might forbid the use of tobacco. It might forbid bobbed hair or make any other ridiculous excursion into sumptuary legislation. Here is a law that to multitudes carries no moral sanction. Begotten of the enthusiasm of fanatics and the cowardice of politicians, its ineffectiveness and the palpable evils that have sprung from it have turned against it more and more those who tried to accept it, though they were opposed to its principle. If any other law had shown itself so impotent and become more illusory the more money was spent on it, it would have been repealed. Mr. SARGENT wastes his breath in talking about the "positive disloyalty of persons of understanding."

Does he expect that a law rejected by so many thoughtful persons is going to be respected by less thoughtful persons? The morals of Mr. WAYNE B. WHEELER are doubtless admirable, but they cannot be incorporated by law into the morals of those disinclined to receive them. This law is not enforced. No matter with what multitudinous posses of agents and at what cost to the taxpayer, it cannot be enforced, because it lacks the indispensable basis of effective law—a substantial agreement and consent of public opinion.

HINDU-MOSLEM HOSTILITY.

New rioting between Hindus and Mohammedans in the vicinity of Calcutta shows that there has been no abatement in the dangerous tension which recently led to sanguinary encounters in the capital of Bengal. The British authorities have been looking forward with apprehension to the Muharram or Mohammedan New Year, which comes next Monday. The situation is one that goes back nearly five years to the uprising of the Moslem Moplahs in the Presidency of Madras, which first served notice that the truce between Hindus and Mohammedans, achieved in the course of the struggle for Home Rule for India, was in danger of going on the rocks. Since then religious disorders have swept over the greater part of Northern India. Age-old animosities which were thrust into the background by the World War, and the rising spirit of Indian nationalism, are reasserting themselves.

The old explanation that the feud between Hindu and Moslem has been nurtured by the British Government on the principle of divide and rule will not do, as Mr. J. COATMAN points out in his highly informative article in The Atlantic. Setting 250,000,000 Hindus and nearly 70,000,000 Moslems by the ears is apt to create a situation not at all welcome to a suzerain Power. The causes of the conflict are of long standing and are in nature racial, religious and economic. The Hindu and the Moslem mode of life are in sharp contrast. The Hindus constitute an overwhelming majority among the intellectual and moneyed classes. The Mohammedans are predominantly an uncultured peasantry, heavily in debt to the money lender, who is usually a Hindu. At the same time Moslem pride is fed by memory of old military conquests and of the Mogul throne at Delhi. Were the population ratio of one Moslem to four Hindus uniform throughout India, the superior numbers of the latter might prevent actual hostilities. But there are 25,000,000 Moslems to 20,000,000 Hindus in Bengal, 12,000,000 Moslems to 21,000,000 Hindus in the Punjab, and almost an equality of figures in the Northwest Frontier Province.

The Home-Rule movement brought the warring elements together in 1916, when the Indian Congress, a Hindu organization, and the Moslem League entered into the Lucknow Pact. Important political concessions by Great Britain were in the offing, and at Lucknow the two parties agreed upon a partition of seats in the various Legislatures. GANDHI'S non-cooperation movement appealed to Moslems and Hindus alike. Resentment among the Moslems over British policy toward Turkey made them eager for the support of their Hindu countrymen. But Home Rule has also reawakened the ancient strife. With a large measure of self-government attained under the Constitution of 1921, with greater liberties on the horizon, the familiar malady of allies showed itself. Moslems now faced the question how well off they would be in a self-governing India in which the chief influence was wielded by the Hindu community. The danger has been recently exemplified in the opposition of the Hindu homerulers to setting up legislative institutions in the Northwest Province, where there is a small Mohammedan majority.

It is the hope of those who would see peace and progress in India that the present reaction will spend itself. The phase parallels the post-war slump in Europe, where jealousies have followed upon alliance. Hindu and Moslem leaders are bound to perceive that if they cannot work out a modus vivendi the Nationalist aspirations which both share will suffer. India's ability to govern herself will also be brought into serious doubt.

MUZZLING THE EUROPEAN PRESS.

Restrictions on the press in Rumania, coming shortly after the expulsion of the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES, are a further indication of the widespread tendency in Europe today to curtail freedom of speech. Scarcely a week ago MUSSOLINI let it be known that the Government's control over the Italian newspapers would be strengthened. In Russia, also, a strict form of censorship is still exercised, and while in Spain there have been no open attempts to suppress newspapers it is generally accepted that frank criticism of PRIMO DE RIVERA or of the King can be made only at the editor's peril. In France the press is still largely subservient to the Government, and although no actual censorship exists the fear of incurring the displeasure of the politicians in power is great enough to prevent the free airing of opinions.

This is in part a renewal of old Continental traditions. As such, it goes well with the reactionary movement that has swept over Europe since the war. One of the results is to make it much more difficult for American and British newspapers to obtain accurate foreign news. Although correspondents are supposedly free from the limits that hamper local editors, their labor is made all the more difficult because not only can they place less dependence on the native newspapers, but they realize that their cables are read by the Government, and that if these are distasteful many petty obstacles will be put in the correspondents' way when they seek to check up on a story.

The official mind on the Continent has never reconciled itself to frank discussion of both sides of a question. The calm tolerance of the British is to it almost incomprehensible. So also is our practice of permitting newspapers to indulge in the freest criticism of the Government. In the years before the war there had been a tendency toward greater liberality on the part of the Continental Governments in the matter of freedom of the press. The war naturally brought about strict control which, after the armistice, was relaxed for a while. But today governmental intolerance of press opposition is increasing. How far it will go in fostering the spirit of dictatorship is not yet clear. Germany seems to have weathered the storms of revolution and reaction. Holland, the Scandinavian countries and Switzerland have apparently escaped them.

LONG-RANGE WEATHER FORECASTING.

Professor ROBERT DEC. WARD of Harvard University, in a paper on long-range weather forecasting, read before the American Philosophical Society, said that there is no safe and sound basis for the prediction long in advance and given wide publicity that the year 1926 would be "summerless" and that crops would fail in many places. Then with Delphic advice he adds that it may be abnormally cool or it may be abnormally warm, for in such an extended area as that of the United States any Summer is likely to be "abnormally" cool in some sections and "abnormally" hot in others. That is the natural way of seasons in our latitude. "Abnormal" weather is always normal in the Temperate Zone. Whatever happens in July will be "the complex resultant of many variables" whose final product no man can foresee in April or even with any practical definiteness for more than a day or so or at most three or four days ahead, though "weather outlooks" are officially ventured for a week in advance. Nor have animals greater vatic power or instinct as to weather than man. Their thick fur or greater stores of nuts indicate only a state of health or food supply or other conditions precedent.

Moreover, no one can bank on sequences, the traditions as to St. Swithin's Day or St. Martin's to the contrary. Just when a sequence of rain or drought seems to be started the chain breaks. Nor is there evidence satisfying to meteorologists that there is any permanent change of climate, though there may be fluctuations over a period of years. A change which is of interest to the people of North America, noted by one authority, is that the temperature of the Northern United States and Canada has an upward trend, "like a slowly rising tide," while the trend in the Southern States is downward; that is, the contrast between the weather of the North and the South is diminishing. But, again, this trend may not continue and, indeed, there may be a reversion.

All the encouragement that one gets from this report is that while such information as to whether it will snow or rain continuously for hours or for days, and whether it will come in one storm or in many storms, cannot now be vouchsafed in detailed forecasts far in advance, the public will probably be able to secure such forecasts "some time in the future." The change of weather may be the chief or sole "discourse of fools," but its foreknowledge is of the highest concern to those who would be wise in plowing and sowing and reaping, in carrying on commerce and in guarding life and health. Even short-time forecasts are of great value, but no doubt the meteorologist's range of accurate prediction will be extended with profit to mankind till he will be able to predict weather as far in the future as the old proverb which divines the number of "frosts in July" by "the mists of March."

AWAITING SENTENCE.

Sentence for swindling a number of women has not yet been pronounced by the French court which is trying one MAURICE LEVET. Proceedings were moving as usual when hastily adjourned by the Judge. One of the victims of the jilt and pretended publisher craved permission to read to the Court her poem, "To the Lover Who Will One Day Come." The Judge suddenly felt that at least a fortnight's meditation was necessary for a proper decision.

M. LEVET appears to be a Scapin whose deceptions were encouraged by his dupes. He was acquainted with many women who cherished literary ambitions. What could he do if they begged him to accept a little financial help for his literary revue, a paltry few thousands of francs? To be sure, it was unfortunate that his revue existed in the same blissful place where his chateau was built—a Never-Never-Land for vanished funds. It was also unfortunate that he promised his name and himself, silky black beard and all, to each one of the Simple Simonettes who was taken in by his plausibility. But perhaps that was not his fault either. When the Judge asked him whether it was his fatal beauty or the hopes of publication he held out that caused the ladies to force their money on him, he thought that both had had their effect. He was responsible in exposing them to his irresistible charm, but some one else was to blame for the charm itself—perhaps the coiffeur who looked after the silky black beard. He worked no wires and pulled no strings; he may have called those women dolls, but to him they were never puppets.

The extent of his punishment is still undetermined. It may be that the Judge is utilizing the recess of two weeks to inspect the works already read by LEVET. If they are as bad as one suspects, he may make the sentence light on the ground that the prisoner has already been punished enough.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Nobody in Control of Radio.

Among the things left undone by Congress was the long-proposed transfer of the management of radio broadcasting from the Department of Commerce—meaning Secretary HOOVER—to a commission of several members. The need of this change never was clear to anybody except those who have not forgiven the Secretary for keeping down food prices during the war, and to those to whom he has refused to assign wave lengths and time periods. Now the Department of Justice has decided, as did a Chicago court not long ago, that Mr. HOOVER has been exercising in this matter more than his legal powers.

The result is that something like chaos threatens in the field of broadcasting. But the one object of the broadcasters is to be heard by listeners-in, and they know as well as anybody how useless would be their expenditures and efforts if many stations used the same wave length. Therefore, though for the present they have no ruler, they must come to some arrangement for ruling themselves.

They are confronted, of course, by the same problem that got Secretary HOOVER into trouble. No more than he will they have enough separate wave lengths to give out, and the stations that have none will have the old difficulty in seeing why their right to one is not as good as that of others. Their grievance is real enough, but the public views it coldly, for in its opinion there already are too many stations.

The present restriction on the number of wave lengths is not because there are no more, but because, in America, practically all receiving instruments are so adjusted that they can take no lengths shorter than 200 meters or longer than 500. The skilled amateurs go far lower, but mostly for code. In Europe far longer wave lengths are used. We could do the same thing, with a large increase in the number of assignable wave lengths, but the owners of the present receivers would have to have them radically changed or buy new ones.

Teachers Need Teaching.

How much better employed would those be who now use so much energy in denouncing as immodest the dress of modern girls and women, if they would devote themselves to preaching a reform in the clothes of men.

Many of our Summer days right here in New York are warmer than any encountered in either the West or the East Indies, yet the majority of men, except for putting on somewhat lighter underclothes, dress not very differently from what they do in Winter. And their delicate sense of the proprieties makes them wear collars and cuffs, thereby tightly and heavily covering the body at exactly the points where great blood currents are close to the surface and would be cooled if they were exposed to the air.

To look at the two sexes on one of our hot days—to see how comfortable are the women and how uncomfortable are the men—certainly is enough to demonstrate how wildly absurd it is for men to tell women how they should or should not dress. In the tropics men are almost as sensible as the women in dressing, though they probably make a mistake in wearing white, for not tropic animals are white, but those of the two Arctics.

Society Is Not in Danger.

Highly pertinent to much present controversy, and to more of present objurgation, is a passage in HAVELOCK ELLIS'S "Man and Woman," a book written and published away back in the '80s. Then, as now, innovators in social, economic and moral customs were obvious and articulate, and the Victorians were vastly disturbed at what they thought the threat of dangerous and destructive revolutions. To reassure them ELLIS wrote:

> The respective fitness of men and women for any kind of work or any kind of privilege can only be ascertained by actual open experiment, and as the conditions for such experiments are never twice the same, it can never be positively affirmed that anything has been settled once and for all. When such an experiment is successful, so much better for the race; when it is unsuccessful, the minority who have broken the natural law alone suffer. An exaggerated anxiety lest the natural law be overthrown is misplaced. The world is not so insecurely poised. We may preserve an attitude of entire equanimity in the fact of social readjustment. Such readjustment is either the outcome of wholesome natural instinct, in which case our social structure will be strengthened and broadened, or it is not; and if it is not, it is unlikely to become organically ingrained in the species.

Equanimity Not So Easy to Maintain.

ELLIS'S view, of course, is the coldly scientific one, for it quite ignores the consequences to those who make what he calls the unsuccessful experiments. It well may be that those consequences are negligible, but they may involve a lot of wreckage.

Whole nations and perhaps whole peoples have been destroyed because of failure to observe what their fate demonstrated to be "natural law." When the innovators are one's own friends the inclination to drive them back into the paths long proved safe is very strong. Hence the uplifted hands and the loud outcries that follow our flappers around as they skip off into untrodden parts of the social landscape.

Senators of Yesterday and Today.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I quite agree with the views of your correspondent, in your issue of today, as to the defects of the direct primary in connection with the election of a United States Senator.

It might be well, however, to be more definite in comparing the calibre of the present Senate with that of pre-primary days by naming some of the Senators who served during the memory of the writer.

These were Hale, Edmunds, Hoar, Aldrich, Evarts, Conkling, Root, Sherman, Thurman, Bayard, Gray, Beveridge, Voorhees, Vest, Davis, Dolliver, Lamar, Breckinridge, Ingalls, Chandler, and others of equal ability.

Has the direct primary given us an average as high as this? Not by a long shot, and it never will, because the voters who should go to the polls fail to do so, and mediocre candidates are the result of their indifference. THOMAS ROBERTS.

Needs of Park Band Stand.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noticed a letter complaining that no flag is displayed on or near the band stand in Central Park, where so many people congregate nightly, particularly when the Goldman Band plays. It seems proper that a fine flagpole should be erected on the Mall. As to the band stand, it seems that the structure has not been properly completed, at least in regard to the lighting. How unsightly it looks to see the ugly electric fixture tied to the ceiling with a kind of rope! Not alone is this most unsightly, but the lights are glaring.

Also, is it necessary to have four or five different placards posted on the band stand each night announcing the various concerts? Must this be done in such a circus-like manner, without any thought of beauty and environment? A coat of paint for the wooden platforms on the band stand would also do no harm. ELIZABETH B. CRANE.

Another Unnecessary Town Noise.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The city itself is responsible for one of the most unnecessary of the "noises of the town," i. e., the clattering of loose manhole covers. Sometimes a frantic citizen puts wooden wedges around the covers, but the first vehicles that go over them jiggle the wedges out and the noise goes merrily on.

Home! We welcome you home,
Dear sons of the ocean foam.
Not with the loud hurrahs of the street,
But our hearts replete
With the love we hold and shall ever hold
For our sons who were true as our sons of old!

Into our streets, like a leaping flame,
Our sons of the north adventuring came,
Crowned with honor, blazoned to fame.
How we rejoiced to welcome them back
From the trackless skies and the frozen wrack.
How we paused in our hurrying work—
Banker, chauffeur, bookkeeper, clerk—
To flood them with greetings, to welcome them back,
Sons of the skies and the perilous wrack.

Again they come—not the sons of the air
With their wings of fire on the polestar dare,
But the sons of the deep
Where the strong tides sweep,
And the fisher-boats go for their last, great fare.

Welcome, dear sons, who with brave intent
Into the depths of the vast sea went,
Went for us, where the lords of the deep,
The huge sea monsters, float and creep,
Float and creep on the ocean floors
Where the sleepless flood of the sea tide pours.
Welcome, sons, welcome home,
Heirs of the sea, sons of the foam!

We have no loud hurrahs of the street
Our ocean sons to greet—
But in our hearts our love is as sweet,
And our praise is as glorious
As ever we gave
To our captains old,
Barry and Perry and Dewey bold,
Who conquered the wave
And brought back their ships, shattered, victorious!

SAFETY PLAYGROUNDS.

A Plea for Better Support of the Movement.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Two years ago, walking along a road in one of the wildest parts of Northern New Hampshire, I met an old man, a mountain guide and trapper, who told me that when he had gone as a young man to that north country, forty years before, mothers did not dare to let their children go out of their sight because of the danger of wild animals. A greater and more insistent terror than this of the frontier lies heavily upon the mothers of all little children in our cities and even through many country districts today because of the ever-present automobile. Playgrounds not only help the children, they help the mothers and they relieve for motorists both the danger of doing injury and the strain of driving where a little child is likely to dart into the street after its ball. Perhaps the time will come when not only playgrounds but vacant buildings and vacant rooms in churches and schools can be used throughout the week and throughout the year as playgrounds and nursery schools for children of all classes, thus giving to children a greater sense of space, and relief from strain to mothers on whom the necessity for keeping children happy in congested quarters rests very heavily.

There is no task in all our social structure more important than the task of giving adequate care to little children. There is no task that makes such heavy demands on nervous energy and on ability and training. Passengers in a street car all look askance on any woman who is unfortunate enough to be irritable with a little child, but only those who have imagination and sympathy know what demands are made on a mother today when a child's tremendous energy and properly limitless curiosity have to be restrained within the very small space and conventional atmosphere that are the lot of all but the exceptional few in our cities.

A hundred years ago the mother of a family could create on her own farm or within her own home economic values through her loom, her needle and her cooking equal to the values produced by her husband in any but the larger businesses or professions. Today machinery and congestion have taken from her these opportunities, and in many cases even her utmost industry and thrift are not sufficient to stretch the husband's income over the family needs. The result is that an increasing number of women of many classes have to go outside the home to make sure of an income adequate for the family. Sometimes an older woman in the family takes care of the children, sometimes another wage earner comes in from outside, but the result in either case is that the children are deprived many hours of the day of their mother's care, and the modern child is separated from its father in our cities in a way unknown until the last half century. It is possible that this may lie at the root both of "What ails our youth?" and the so-called "crime wave." In any case, the problem of the family and of the home is immensely more complex and difficult than ever before. Mothers have a fear of germs unknown to our grandmothers, as well as the fear of motor cars, and children as they grow a little older have a thousand interests demanding their attention today where twenty-five years ago their interests and horizon were very limited. The newspaper and the movie crowd life with conflicting thoughts, and mothers find it immensely more difficult to direct their children's tastes and interests toward those things that lead to character.

This task always has been and always will be the most rewarding in life in spite of its difficulties, but can we not see to it that more is done to help all the causes that put into the hands of the modern young woman the equipment for her task? Playgrounds, kindergartens, child welfare and the various health movements, all are of great benefit, but nothing has more value than the things that add to a young woman's own physical, mental and spiritual equipment.

It is a curious anomaly that with the enormous wealth in this country the causes of women's education and training have to struggle under a very heavy financial handicap. Women themselves are rarely producers of money and they seldom have access to its source. Perhaps they are timid about asking for it, but at this season of the year every day announcement is made of some large gift to men's education, whereas the gifts to women's colleges are very small in comparison. The Y. W. C. A. of the City of New York, in spite of good work done with remarkable ability and efficiency, was unable last year to secure its budget difference and had to cut its work for the current year by some $20,000. The City Y. W. C. A. in Washington, where Mrs. Coolidge a few weeks ago laid the cornerstone of a building that will serve young women from the whole world as well as the thousands in Government employ in the nation's capital, has been as yet unable to secure the remaining $270,000 needed to complete this building before its dedication, and yet this building is not only "for the glory of God and the service of young women," it is a symbol in the national capital of the nation's estimate of young women, and there is no country in the world where women have as many privileges as in the United States. If the financial support of women's causes were commensurate with the liberty, the freedom and the respect offered by American men to their women, perhaps the solution to some of our serious social problems today could more easily be found.

Nature and the Price of Eggs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof!" I was just reading the Psalms, and I overheard an argument my mother was having with the farmer over the price of eggs. I watched these chickens walking around for the past five weeks. The food they get mainly is from nature.

I would not mind if this farmer was a man who had little children to support. Why should he advance the price?

WANAMAKER HONORS BYRD AND HIS MEN

Presents Medals to Them at Luncheon Celebrating Flight to Pole.

COMMANDER LAUDS 'TEAM'

World Does Not Realize What Volunteers of Expedition Did, He Asserts.

Lieut. Commander Richard E. Byrd, his pilot, Floyd Bennett, and other members of the expedition which made his flight to the North Pole possible, were guests of Rodman Wanamaker at a luncheon yesterday at the John Wanamaker store.

Silver medals were presented to the fliers and their associates by Mr. Wanamaker, who also gave an American flag to Commander Byrd's mother, Mrs. Richard E. Byrd, which was accepted in her behalf by her son. The speakers were Grover Whalen, Mr. Wanamaker, Joseph H. Appel and Anthony H. G. Fokker, builder of the plane which reached the pole.

In his speech, Commander Byrd said he had received inspiration from the transatlantic flight projected by Mr. Wanamaker in 1914.

"I remember before coming into aviation," he said, "the interest I took in your patriotic venture, Mr. Wanamaker, with the great airplane America, which you intended for a transatlantic flight, which project was interrupted by the great war, when you patriotically turned over the plane to the Allies. It was the inspiration which I got from this venture which caused me to recommend early in 1919 that the Navy attempt a transatlantic flight. Commander Towers followed with another recommendation soon thereafter; the Navy took the project up, and you know the result.

Praise for Associates.

"We are more than grateful to you for giving us this opportunity to get together with our shipmates. Since we returned we have been scattered to the four winds and it is good to get together again. I am delighted also that you are honoring them. I do not believe the world quite knows yet how much they deserve it. The members of the expedition are all of the volunteer type. Money could not have bought what they gave. They worked over and above the call of duty and have written an epic which must be preserved, and which, I am afraid, will not be preserved on account of my inability to express myself adequately to the country.

"Our expedition was like a football game. Every one had to do his part in order to have the expedition succeed. The result shows that every one did do his part, and the credit should go to them.

"Financial gain or personal reward was no object to these fellows. They did what they did for Uncle Sam. I am proud of what they did and proud to be one of them.

"When we made our first attempt to get off the snow for the Pole with a heavy load we ended up in a snowdrift and pretty nearly cracked up the machine and ended the expedition right there. The fellows were tremendously crestfallen. I believe a lot of them felt quite guilty, for they had stuck things all over the plane as souvenirs. One fellow stuck a jews-harp in the plane. Another fellow—I think it was Lieutenant Noville—put a match-lighter inside of my reindeer-skin boot. Another fellow stuck his sweetheart's picture behind the gasoline tank. The most surprising thing was that Konter hid his ukelele somewhere in the machine. Since the flight he is never seen without it. Geisler, too, owes us a lot for reaching the Pole, because he took an oath that he would never shave again unless we did reach it.

Troubles for Officers.

"Captain Brennan had a great time running his ship at first with a lot of landlubbers. It was remarkable the way he held his temper.

"As any seagoing man knows, chief engineers and captains fuss and fight most of the time, especially if they happen to be Irish. Mulroy was chief engineer. Brennan was captain. 'Nuff said! But the most remarkable thing was that these two got along perfectly together.

"Then there were the aviation men trying to run things on the ship. Imagine what self-control those old tars, De Luca, Nolan and Slaughter, had to exercise; but they did it. Then there is Captain Bryant—World War veteran and hero—a wonderful soldier and a good seaman, for when he came aboard did he not bring out the fire extinguisher to wipe some mud off the anchor chains?

"Seriously, I never have seen such good fellowship as there was on this expedition. I could pick out every man here and tell you something about him that would make you proud to know him.

"I am firmly convinced that within the near future great air lines will connect America and Europe. Mr. Wanamaker's dream will come true. This will be a great thing for progress, both commercially and spiritually. It will bring Europe not only closer to America in distance but closer in sympathy."

RAISE JAPAN'S NAVAL COST.

Officers Will Ask $160,000,000 for Fiscal Year of 1927.

TOKIO, July 9 (AP).—It was learned at the Navy Department this afternoon that a conference of high naval officials today, at which the Minister of the Navy presided, tentatively fixed the naval estimates for the fiscal year of 1927 at 320,000,000 yen (about $160,000,000), which is an increase of 80,000,000 yen over the present fiscal year.

These figures are understood to include an unstated sum for construction of auxiliary vessels for replacement.

The estimate will soon be presented to the Finance Department for its approval.

KIPLING WITHHOLDS LIST.

Says the Question of Twelve Greatest Writers Is Too Controversial.

BURWASH, England, July 9 (AP).—"The matter is too controversial to give a personal list," Rudyard Kipling told The Associated Press today when asked to name the twelve writers he had suggested as having achieved immortality in the last 2,500 years.

The author's statement, made in an address before the Royal Society of Literature Wednesday night, has caused great discussion in British literary circles, and many lists are being advanced by the critics and writers of letters to the press.

DE GRASSE RETURNS; ONE TURBINE FAILED

916 PASSENGERS ABOARD

All Will Be Transferred to Other Liners Leaving for European Ports Today.

The French liner De Grasse zigzagged back into New York harbor last night at a speed of ten knots, with her port propeller out of action, caused by the turbine on that side having been stripped. Steamships which had passed the disabled liner during the day and arrived ahead of her reported that the De Grasse was steering wildly.

The 532 cabin passengers and 384 tourists in the third class were none the worse for their experience when the liner was made fast at the pier at the foot of West Fifteenth Street at 10 o'clock.

Arthur H. Henderson, general passenger traffic manager of the French Line, went down the bay on a tug with twelve members of the booking staff to arrange for the accommodation of the returning people by vessels leaving today. He said that the Royal Mail steamship Ohio would take all the tourist thirds and 320 of the cabin passengers, which cleared up the situation and left only 212 of the cabin passengers to be accommodated. They will get berths on either the Cleveland of the United States Lines, the Arabic of the White Star Line or the Ryndam of the Holland-America Line, which would land them in France.

H. C. Stuart, Assistant Collector of the port, said that the De Grasse was only 200 miles off the coast and that the customs would not interfere with the transfer of the baggage of the passengers to other vessels.

The passengers said they were sorry they had to come back and take another steamship, as they would lose at least three days of their vacation abroad. Many signed a testimonial commending the Captain for the manner in which he handled the ship.

Customs officials said it was a long time since a liner had to put back to New York and land their passengers through losing a propeller and from engine trouble.

Captain Aubert will have to go to the Custom House today and enter the De Grasse as returning to port through being disabled at sea.

The De Grasse will complete repairs in New York and will remain in port until her next eastbound trip on Aug. 4.

Reliance Arrives Late.

The Reliance of the United American Lines arrived yesterday afternoon from Hamburg. Southampton and Cherbourg several hours late through having to steam the last 945 miles to Sandy Hook with two propellers instead of three. Captain F. L. Iverson, the master, said that on July 6 the starboard shaft broke and threw the propeller off.

There was only one other incident, and that occurred off Sandy Hook yesterday morning when a cutter mistook the Reliance's whistle signals and steered directly across the bow of the liner. Captain Iverson stopped the engines and then put them full speed astern. The cutter escaped being cut in two by a very slight margin.

CUNNINGHAM WILL TESTIFY.

Missing Pennsylvania Politician Appears After Committee Search.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Thomas F. Cunningham, former Treasurer of the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania, has consented to accept the subpoena of the special Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures. Mr. Cunningham, who has been sought by the committee for two weeks, today notified the office of Senator Reed of Missouri that he would respond to service at his Summer home in Atlantic City tomorrow. His testimony is wanted in connection with the report that he contributed $50,000 to the Vare campaign.

As Senator Reed is away, it was thought for a time that Senator La Follette, the only other committee member now here, might examine Cunningham here. But Mr. La Follette will leave for Wisconsin tomorrow. It is now believed Mr. Cunningham will be called to Chicago to appear before the committee when it starts the investigation on July 26 of campaign expenditures in Illinois.

PHILHARMONIC AT ITS BEST.

Gives Artistic Performance of Sibelius's Tone Poem at the Stadium.

The Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Willem von Hoogstraten, gave the season's first performance of Sibelius's tone poem "En Saga" before a large audience at the Stadium last evening. This extraordinarily individual expression of a sincere and original nature made a strong impression. Its closely woven and colorful orchestration had almost a kaleidoscopic effect. Its marked rhythmic quality gave it vitality. There were moments of barbaric and bacchic frenzy, which ultimately died away in muted phrases.

Mr. von Hoogstraten threw himself with renewed energy into the emotionalism of Strauss's "Don Juan." His interpretation moved the audience to unusual enthusiasm.

Brahms's Fourth Symphony filled the second half of the program. Conductor and orchestra cooperated in an artistic performance.

Tonight Strauss's "Emperor Waltz" will be played for the first time at the Stadium. Dvorak's "New World" will be the symphony of the evening.

Kaltenborn Concert Tonight.

Franz Kaltenborn's symphony orchestra will give a concert on the Mall in Central Park at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The program will be as follows:

PART I.

"The Star-Spangled Banner."
"Centennial March".....Wagner
Overture, "Festival".....Lassen
Selection, "Hansel and Gretel".....Humperdinck
Waltz, "Artists' Life".....Strauss
Franz Kaltenborn and Orchestra.
Symphonic poem, "Mazeppa".....Liszt

PART II.

Overture, "1812".....Tchaikovsky
Aria, Polonaise from "Mignon".....Thomas
Irma De Baun.
Selection, "Pagliacci".....Leoncavallo
Prelude.....Leoncavallo
Intermezzo, "Nalla".....Rachmaninoff
Dance Persane".....Delibes
"America."....Guiraud

Cannon Has a Bronchial Cold.

Special to The New York Times.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 9.—Ex-Speaker Joseph G. Cannon is suffering from a bronchial cold. His condition has been serious, but is now improving.

WHITTEMORE RESIGNED TO DEATH ON GALLOWS

'Quicker They Hang Me Now the Better,' He Says—His Wife to Fight On.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 9.—Richard Reese Whittemore declared today he wanted no additional efforts made to save him from the gallows.

"It's all over now," he told newspaper reporters. "The quicker they hang me now the better I will be satisfied. There's no use fighting any more."

Whittemore has lost none of the bravado which characterized his conduct throughout his trial for the murder of Robert H. Holtman, penitentiary guard, before Judge O'Dunne. It was the death verdict in this case which the Court of Appeals upheld yesterday.

Governor Ritchie announced today he would sign the death warrant within a few days. The Governor said he would then wait the customary thirty days before setting the date of execution.

Meanwhile, in the home of her mother, Whittemore's wife presents a strong contrast to Whittemore's hopelessness.

"If they hang Reese," she said today, "I want to hang with him. Life would be hopeless without him."

"I shall carry our appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States," Mrs. Whittemore continued, "and if that fails I shall appeal to Governor Ritchie. I am going to get up a petition to the Governor and show him how many people are on our side."

Both Judge O'Dunne and State's Attorney O'Connor say there are no constitutional questions involved which will enable Whittemore to carry his case to the Supreme Court.

BOY BANDITS KILL POLICEMAN IN BATTLE

Lad of 15, Deserted by Companions After Michigan Bank Robbery, Fatally Wounded.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, July 9.—In a hold-up at the People's State Bank Branch in Plymouth this afternoon by four youthful robbers, a Detroit patrolman was killed, one of the robbers was fatally shot and a Plymouth farmer was shot twice. A wide hunt is being made for the three bandits who abandoned their car, their dying companion and $5,506 stolen from the bank.

Patrolmen Earl J. Kobinski and Kenneth McPherson, driving a scout car, met the robbers' car speeding from Plymouth. Policemen and robbers opened fire, one bullet killing Kobinski and another fatally injuring Dan McCarthy, 15 years old, of Columbus, Ohio.

At 2:45 P. M. one of the youths entered the bank and asked the cashier for change. A few seconds later a second boy entered and covered the President of the bank, J. B. Hubert, and two customers. Then a third joined them and forced the bank employes and customers into a rear room, while the other two scooped up cash and bills behind the counter.

While they were thus engaged, Eli Bolican entered. The robbers started for the door, firing as they ran. Two of the shots hit Bolican. The youths joined a companion waiting outside in a touring car and sped away, still firing back at the bank. Patrolman Kobinski and McPherson were in the Schoolcraft Avenue Station when information came that the bandit car was headed toward Detroit. They started at once to intercept them.

According to witnesses, the robbers were all under 20 years old and were dressed in the prevailing "sheik" fashion. The three still at large escaped by running when they abandoned their car in Eaton Avenue. Arthur Sheehan, 16 years old, was named by McCarthy as one of his companions.

BOOKKEEPER ROBBED OF $1,748 PAYROLL

Held Up in Hallway After Trip From Bank—Crowd Chases Thugs' Car.

Irving Brodsky, a bookkeeper for Sigmund Conforti, a contractor of 355 East 116th Street, was held up by a young man in the ground floor hallway of that building last night and robbed of an envelope containing $1,748 in payroll funds.

Conforti had sent Brodsky to the private bank of Lionello Perera & Co. at 2,261 First Avenue to get the money with which to pay off a group of workmen employed on an excavating job in the Bronx.

As Brodsky stepped into the building on the second floor the robber jumped out, pressed a pistol against the bookkeeper's side and snatched the envelope. Brodsky was forced to the rear of the hallway and warned to make no outcry.

The robber ran to the street, where an automobile with an accomplice at the wheel was waiting. As the car sped away Brodsky raced to the street and his cries aroused the neighborhood. A large crowd chased the car, but it soon disappeared.

Senator Curtis Leaves Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Senator Charles Curtis, the Republican leader of the Senate, whose tonsils were removed yesterday by a Washington surgeon, left the hospital today. After a brief rest here he will leave for his home in Kansas. Mr. Curtis entered the hospital Wednesday night, and the operation was performed yesterday morning. He rallied quickly and today was in good enough shape to return to his residence in this c

MOTHER ALPHONSA DIES SUDDENLY

Widow of Lathrop, the Author, Devoted Life to Penniless Cancer Patients.

DAUGHTER OF HAWTHORNE

Took the Veil When Husband Died —Built Institution in Westchester—Funeral Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

HAWTHORNE, N. Y., July 9.—Mother M. Alphonsa Lathrop, a nun of the Dominican Order, died suddenly today of heart disease in Rosary Hill Home here, an institution she founded for the care of penniless victims of cancer.

Mother Alphonsa, who was 75 years old, became interested in the care of cancer victims more than thirty years ago. She was a daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne, the novelist, and the widow of George Parsons Lathrop, author and journalist, and was born in Lenox, Mass. The former Rose Hawthorne married Mr. Lathrop in London on Sept. 11, 1871, and when he died on Sept. 19, 1898, she at once prepared herself for the Dominican Order, taking the veil in 1899.

After entering the order, Mother Alphonsa continued the cancer work she had started during her husband's life. She established a cancer cottage at 423 Cherry Street and with four other nuns cared for seventeen patients, whose cases had aroused the sympathy of Mother Alphonsa as the result of a stay in the poor districts along the waterfront when she was Mrs. Lathrop.

Twelve years later Mother Alphonsa, with the assistance of Sister Mary Rose and their friends, erected a five-story building at 71 Jackson Street, known as St. Rose's Free Home for Incurable Cancer. The institution was dedicated by the late Cardinal Farley and had beds for 100 patients.

As the number of needy patients increased, Mother Alphonsa and her sisters in the order organized the Servants of Relief for Incurable Cancer and opened the Rosary Hill Home in Hawthorne, Westchester County.

The homes maintained through the efforts of Mother Alphonsa depended entirely on individual gifts for their support. Her little group of workers begged the necessary funds from people all over the country and depended partly on the results of advertisements placed in various newspapers.

On April 18 last Mother Alphonsa received the Gold Medal of the New York Rotary Club for outstanding humanity during the previous year. The medal was presented by Pirie Macdonald in the presence of nuns of the Dominican Sisters of the Congregation of St. Rose of Lima and fifty Rotarians. It was on this occasion that Mother Alphonsa posed for her first photograph.

In 1897 she wrote "Memories of Hawthorne," a book dealing with the life of her father. In her younger days she had shown talent as a poet.

Funeral services will be held on Monday at 10:30 A. M. in Rosary Hill Home.

GUGGENHEIM SERENADE BY GOLDMAN BAND

Patron of Park Concerts Gets a Surprise on His Seventieth Birthday.

The sixty-eight members of the Goldman Band, Edwin Franko Goldman conducting, gave a surprise serenade yesterday for Daniel Guggenheim, their patron, at his home at Sands Point, L. I., as part of the celebration of his seventieth birthday. A large number of relatives and friends from neighboring estates were present.

Mr. Guggenheim knew nothing of the presence of the musicians until he walked out on the lawn of his estate and found them playing a number to greet him.

Mr. Goldman paid a tribute to Mr. Guggenheim for the service he has rendered to music lovers. Among Mr. Guggenheim's many philanthropic activities was the establishing of a fund, with the cooperation of his wife, to provide free band concerts in Central Park. This fund supports the Goldman concerts, which are held three nights a week on the Mall in the park and four nights a week at New York University.

There was a huge crowd at the concert at the university last evening. During the intermission Clifford MacDonald of Brooklyn, who has attended concerts for years, ascended the platform and suggested that, as it was Mr. Guggenheim's birthday, the audience rise and pass a vote of thanks to Mr. Guggenheim as one of the donors of the concerts. The audience immediately rose and stood for a full minute. Mr. Goldman was asked to convey this public tribute to Mr. Guggenheim.

The program consisted principally of Schubert works. Waino Kauppi, owing to slight indisposition, did not play his solo.

500 GIRLS ANSWER CALL FOR DANCERS

Gertrude Hoffmann Judges Recruits of Every Size and Condition of Pulchritude.

A crowd of girls, estimated to be more than 500 in number, swarmed over the stage of the Century Theatre last night in answer to a call made by Gertrude Hoffmann for recruits for three new troupes of dancers. The time was set for 7 o'clock, according to the announcement in order that girls working in stores, offices and shops would have a chance to try out.

The aspirants were of every age, size and condition of pulchritude. They appeared before Miss Hoffmann singly and in groups, and for nearly three hours she judged them for their beauty and dancing ability. When she finally called a halt, about 10 o'clock, some seventy-five had been enrolled. These girls, it was said, will start a two years' training course under Miss Hoffmann.

532 Blind Get City Relief Checks.

532 blind men and women in New York City received their July checks yesterday from the Blind Relief Fund, according to the Department of Public Welfare. The Board of Estimate has appropriated $200,000 this year to care for the city's blind. For the convenience of the blind many of these checks are cashed at the New York Association for the Blind at 111 East 59th Street.

MARQUIS VILLALOBAR, SPANISH ENVOY, DIES

Was Ambassador to Belgium—Represented Allies at Brussels During the War.

BRUSSELS, July 9 (AP).—The Marquis of Villalobar, Spanish Ambassador to Belgium, died here today.

The Marquis, who was born in 1866, was long in the diplomatic service of Spain. He was appointed Minister at Washington in 1909 and transferred to Lisbon five years later. In 1913 he was transferred to Brussels, where he served during the World War. As a neutral envoy he represented the interests of the allied nations.

During the early part of the war Villalobar protested to the German Governor General in Brussels against the manner in which submarine warfare was being carried out.

"The Americans," he said, "are exasperated and are on the verge of joining the Allies, which will mean the defeat of the Central Empires."

Later events showed how true an understanding of the temper of the American people he had gained during his service at Washington.

A decree of divorce was granted to Mrs. Frank Duff Frazier at Palm Beach, Fla., in January of this year. Mrs. Frazier, who is a daughter of Lady Williams-Taylor of Montreal, charged that her husband deserted her in 1924. She received the custody of their 4-year-old daughter and alimony of $15,000 a year.

DR. ZIMMERMAN, FRIEND OF POOR, DIES

"Mayor of Greenwich Village" in Last Message Wrote, "Give Everybody My Love."

GAVE AWAY ALL HE OWNED

Funeral Services by His Brother Were Rehearsed Before He Died—Body Taken to Baltimore.

Dr. Edwin Zimmerman, known as the "Mayor of Greenwich Village," died early yesterday morning in New York Hospital after a month's illness from cancer of the throat at the age of 68. He died penniless but happy, having spent his last days and hours giving away his earthly possessions and bidding his neighbors farewell.

His last message, writen on a small pad before he lapsed into the last sleep, was: "Give everybody my love."

Funeral services were held last night at 8 o'clock in the Benedict Funeral Parlors, 150 West Thirteenth Street. At the doctor's request they were conducted by his brother, the Rev. Leander M. Zimmerman of Baltimore, Md., who has been at his bedside ever since he was taken to the hospital.

A few days ago, when the doctor felt that the end was near, he asked his brother to prepare for services. The Rev. Mr. Zimmerman then sketched briefly what he intended to say and showed it to the doctor, who seemed very pleased.

The Rev. Dr. Jeremiah Zimmerman of Syracuse, N. Y., another brother, attended the services, also the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Knubel, President of the United Lutheran Church in America. Two other brothers survive, David and Theodore Zimmerman of Westminster, Md., and a sister, Ellen, who also lives in Maryland.

Funeral Parlors Crowded.

The parlors were crowded with the doctor's friends, representatives of local organizations, and many poor people whom he had aided. It was said that he had more non-paying than paying patients. Some of those present had their bills, which he had receipted, "Paid in full by God."

The Rev. M. Zimmerman stressed four points in his brother's life—his attitude toward his fellow men, irrespective of creed; his record in civic and charitable work; his career as a physician, as the "poor man's doctor," and his abiding faith.

There was a stream of visitors to the bedside of the doctor in the hospital. In each case there was an exchange of sympathetic glances and smiles and the "Goodbye" written on the pad, for the operation performed in an effort to prolong his life had deprived the doctor of his voice.

He left no will, for he had given away all his possessions before he died.

A Native of Maryland.

Dr. Zimmerman was born in Manchester, Carroll County, Md., Feb. 12, 1858. He was one of twelve children, three of whom became clergymen. He was graduated from Western Maryland College in 1876, from the University of Maryland School of Medicine in 1879, and came to New York in 1880, where he had since practiced.

He was a founder and charter member of the Medical Association of the Greater City of New York, and a member of the New York City Medical Society. He was a 32d Degree Mason, being a member of York Lodge, No. 1, F. and A. M., and of Mecca Temple, Mystic Shrine.

For twenty-five years he was an official of the Perry Street Methodist Episcopal Church, and for decades was a delegate of the New York Church Extension and Missionary Society and five times a delegate to the General Conference of his Church. His wife, who was Miss Janet Auchterlonie, whom he married in 1894, died some years ago.

Prominent in his civic work was the extension of Seventh Avenue from Eleventh Street through to Varick Street. He also had the rust-eaten car tracks removed from West Eleventh Street.

The doctor's body was taken to Baltimore last night, and interment will be in Loudon Park Cemetery in that city at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Akim Volinsky, Jewish Writer, Dies.

MOSCOW, July 9 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Akim Volinsky, also known under the name of Flexner, the noted writer and theatrical critic, died yesterday. J. C. Miller,

MRS. WOODWORTH ASKS TO QUESTION WIFE NO. 1

Alleges That Series of Marital Affairs Made First Marriage of Perfume Maker Invalid.

An application by Mrs. Harriette Collier Woodworth for $15,000 alimony in a suit for divorce from Chauncey C. Woodworth, a perfumery manufacturer, on the ground that a divorce she got from Woodworth in Yucatan, Mexico, in 1923, is void in this country, and his subsequent marriage to Lynda Valerie Woodworth is not valid, came before Supreme Court Justice McGoldrick yesterday. At the same time Mrs. Lynda Valerie Woodworth, who asserts that her marriage is valid, asked for an order to examine the plaintiff on allegations that the plaintiff had not been competent to contract a marriage with Woodworth because of a series of previous marital affairs separations, annulments and divorces.

When the case reached an argument Arthur C. Mandel, for the plaintiff, decided to withdraw his application for alimony and also a motion to strike out the answer of Mrs. Lynda Valerie Woodworth, who is joined as a defendant because she is the corespondent named, and also to suppress part of an affidavit by the defendant Mrs. Woodworth. Justice McGoldrick permitted this and then heard argument on the fourth motion by Samuel Untermyer in behalf of the defendant Mrs. Woodworth to examine the plaintiff.

In connection with the demand that the plaintiff testify concerning all her matrimonial ventures, it was alleged that she had married Woodworth in Indianapolis in 1919, and that they had separated in 1922, after which Woodworth had paid her $50,000 and she had gone to Paris to get a divorce. She decided that the court there would be excessive, it was alleged, so she went to Yucatan and got a decree. Woodworth, who is rated as a millionaire, married Mrs. Lynda Valerie Woodworth at Palm Beach on April 16, 1925.

The present wife of the defendant demands that the plaintiff tell about an alleged marriage to one Broome in Texas in 1908, to one Boehs in California in 1913, and to one Sweet in Illinois in 1916, and also that she say whether or not she married another man in 1916. The defendant's wife insists that the purpose of the present action is to break up her marriage with Woodworth, which has been a happy one, and also to extort money from him.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The commission announces examinations for these positions, applications to close July 24, examinations to be held at points in various parts of the country:

JUNIOR PHYSICAL ANTHROPOLOGIST—For vacancy in the National Museum, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C., and vacancies in positions requiring similar qualifications. Duties are under the immediate supervision of the curator of physical anthropology, to catalog, number and arrange in order for placing in drawers all skeleton material received; to supervise the cleaning and preservation of anatomical material and to make scientific measurements of bones.

IMMIGRATION PATROL INSPECTOR—Vacancies in the Immigration Service, Department of Labor, at $1,680 a year, and in positions requiring similar qualifications, at this or higher or lower salaries. Appointees to this position will be required to perform guard duty in coast territory, along the International boundary line between the United States and Canada and at other assigned places for the purpose of detecting and preventing the illegal entry of aliens into the United States. The conditions under which this work is carried on are closely comparable in nature and requirements to the duties of a soldier under actual field conditions. In this service, which is essentially a mobile police organization, appointees will be called upon to spend much of their time in the open. Assignments to duty may at times involve contact with smugglers and other criminal characters; the work for this reason may be attended by some risk and personal danger.

JUNIOR OBSERVER IN METEOROLOGY—For vacancies in the Weather Bureau throughout the United States and in positions requiring similar qualifications. The salary is $1,320 a year. The duties of the junior observer are to perform under immediate supervision, ordinary routine work in meteorology, such as to take regular meteorological readings and to code and decode telegraphic data; to clean and care for the instrumental equipment at a moderate-sized station; to assist in checking, correcting and computing various climatological and aerological forms and records; to make chalk plates and stereotype casts for weather maps.

RELIANC

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—The western disturbance has continued to move slowly eastward and is now central over the upper lake region, with a trough extending southwestward to Mexico and from there northeastward to Oregon (lowest pressure, 29.36 inches, Escanaba, Mich., and 29.52 inches, Red Bluff, Cal.).

Another disturbance is central east of Newfoundland (lowest 28.98 inches); for Friday morning. Pressure is relatively high and rising in the vicinity of Bermuda (30.26 inches), and from Saskatchewan and Manitoba southward over the Rocky Mountain region and the Plains States (digest 30.08 inches, Lander, Wyo., and Battleford, Saskatchewan).

The disturbance over the lake region will continue to move eastward, and it will be attended by showers and thunderstorms within the next twenty-four hours throughout the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, Tennessee and the Southern Appalachian. Mostly fair weather will prevail east of the Mississippi River on Sunday, except that local thunder showers are probable in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States.

Following the passage of this disturbance, cooler weather will overspread the Ohio and Middle Mississippi Valleys and the lower lake regions Saturday and Saturday night and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States and the Southern Appalachian regions Saturday night and Sunday.

BIRTH OF THE STATE ENACTED IN PAGEANT

Scenes of July 9, 1776, In Old White Plains Court House Revived at Celebration.

COLONY'S CONGRESS MEETS

Roles of Delegates Are Taken by Citizens Who Depict Stirring Incidents of Those Days.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 9.—The 150th birthday of the State of New York was celebrated here this afternoon and evening by a pageant depicting the scenes attendant upon the meeting on July 9, 1776, in the old court house in White Plains, when the Provincial Congress of the Colony of New York broke away from the British Crown, ratified the Declaration of Independence and swore allegiance to the United States of America.

The pageant was produced under the auspices of the University of the State of New York and the Westchester County Historical Society in the armory, on the site of the old court house, which was burned to keep it from falling into the hands of the British.

Residents of White Plains enacted the part of the delegates from the various counties of the Colony of New York, as it was in 1776, special costumes having been made for the occasion. Dixon Ryan Fox of Scarsdale, Vice President of the Westchester County Historical Society, presided at the two presentations, and Dr. Alexander C. Flick gave a synopsis of the events which led to the calling of the Congress here.

Among those taking part in the pageant were State Senator Walter W. Westall, as Colonel Robert Van Rensselaer; Charles C. Fenno, as Major Alexander Webster of Charlotte County; Harry Mercer, as John Sessions of Cumberland County; Frank E. Clarke, as Zephaniah Platt of Dutchess; Frank J. Lamb, as Anthony Rutgers of New York County; Dr. William Carroll, as Colonel Wildam Ellinsion of Orange; Floyd S. Coles, as Cornelius Van Wyck of Queens; John A. Greer, as Matthias Burnett Miller of Suffolk; Thomas F. Watkins, as General Nathaniel Woodhull of Suffolk; F. G. Smith, as John Moore of Tryon County; Ivan Flood, as the Rev. Ichabod Lewis of Westchester, and Humphrey J. Lynch, as John McKesson of Westchester.

A facsimile of the hand-bill authorized by the Congress, containing its resolutions and a copy of the Declaration of Independence, was on the program of the pageant. There is only one copy of this handbill in existence, so far as known, Dr. Flick explained, and that is now in the possession of a resident of California. It shows General Nathaniel Woodhull of Suffolk County as President of the convention, and, although delegates from Ulster, Kings and Gloucester were not present, they later endorsed the proceedings.

The incident of Benjamin Smith, a Quaker from Rye, enacted by Forest Lunt, refusing to take the oath of Secretary and being invited to leave the Congress by General Woodhull, attracted considerable attention as it was an occurrence not generally known.

Several descendants of members of the Provincial Congress were honor guests at the pageant tonight.

BEAR MOUNTAIN OBSERVANCE.

Sesquicentennial Ceremonies Held on Site of Revolutionary Forts.

Special to The New York Times.

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., July 9.—The sesquicentennial anniversary of the acceptance by the Provincial Congress of New York of the Declaration of Independence, on July 9, 1776, was celebrated this afternoon on the site of the capture of Forts Clinton and Montgomery with a military display, historical tableaux and addresses.

Joseph P. Monohan of the Orange County Historical Society, wearing the buff and blue uniform of an officer of the Continental Army, read the Declaration as he stood in the middle of a hollow square of Regular Army soldiers, Marines and Boy Scouts.

Participating in the ceremony were a company of the Sixteenth Infantry under Captain A. S. Le Gette, the band from the United States Military Academy at West Point, a detachment of Marines from Iona Island Naval Station under Captain Roberts and Boy Scouts from the Scout Summer headquarters in Harriman Park.

Addresses were made by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. and John W. Gott, President of the Orange County Historical Society. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. William P. McKeon, chaplain of the 156th Field Artillery and pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Newburgh. The Rev. Willis B. Klipatrick of Calvary Presbyterian Church, Newburgh, gave the benediction. An exhibition drill by the West Point troops and a Colonial minuet under the direction of Miss Helen R. Brown were other features of the program, which was under the direction of a committee consisting of Arthur E. 'Brundage, Postmaster of Newburgh; William J. McGiffert, Orange County Treasurer; Milton A. Siegfried, Mrs. Ralif Sieweke, Miss Helen R. Brown, Robinson Bentley, Lee Woodward Ziegler, Orin C. Baker and George C. Peck.

SAYS 'M'PHERSON CAR' WAS PARKED IN MEXICO

Agua Prieta Official Declares Big Sedan Was Seen on Night Before Evangelist Appeared.

LOS ANGELES, July 9 (AP).—Ernesto Dubion, President of Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico, telegraphed to District Attorney Keyes here today that he had information to the effect that the "big blue sedan," mentioned several times in connection with the investigation into the kidnapping story of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, was seen parked near Niggerhead Mountain, below the Mexican town, at 8 o'clock on the evening of June 22.

Mrs. McPherson appeared on June 23 at Agua Prieta, 30 days after she was believed to have been drowned at Ocean Park.

Mr. Keyes telegraphed to the authorities at Douglas, Ariz., the American border town opposite Agua Prieta, to take affidavits from the persons who reported to President Dubion.

With the further examination of witnesses the county Grand Jury postponed until next Tuesday the investigation into the alleged abduction of Mrs. McPherson.

Keen interest was shown in the hearing yesterday, more than twenty persons reporting to police that they paid a man in clerical garb $2 each for tickets purporting to entitle the holders to seats at the Grand Jury session.

ELIAS REFUTES CHARGE ON CARUANA OUSTING

Copies of the Papal Delegate's Declaration in Mexico Genuine, Says Consul.

Arturo M. Elias, Mexican Consul General in New York, replied yesterday to the charge made by former Judge Alfred J. Talley as Chairman of a meeting of the Catholic Interests Committee of the Catholic Club that photostat copies of what purported to be the declaration of Mgr. George J. Caruana to Mexican immigration authorities prior to his ousting from Mexico, showed evidences of having been forgeries.

"The accusation made by Judge Talley and his friends is ridiculous," said the Consul General at the Consulate, 225 West Thirty-fourth Street. "We have freely furnished to the press and to others photostatic copies of Mgr. Caruana's declaration. They are genuine copies and they have neither been tampered with nor forged. We assert the genuineness of the document. It is photographic evidence. It is for those who dispute its authenticity to prove that it is fraudulent if they believe it to be so.

"I see that one of the two handwriting experts who reported to Judge Talley's committee cited 'evidences of erasure on that part of the declaration where the photostat purported to show that the papal delegate had declared himself a Protestant.' The other so-called handwriting expert is quoted in the press as having said that 'several other portions of the copy aroused suspicion.'

"Let me say that the belief that Mgr. Caruana, the papal delegate, falsified his official declaration to the Mexican Government does not rest exclusively upon his written reply 'Protestant' to the question, 'What religion do you profess?' Another question in the official questionnaire requires the applicant to describe his 'profession, office or occupation.' In answer to this query, as the photostat shows, Mgr. Caruana wrote himself down as 'Prof.' or a teacher, whereas he was in reality the papal delegate."

TOWN MUST TRANSPORT CHILDREN TO SCHOOL

Court Holds Education Head Was Right in Enforcing Action at Brookhaven.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 9.—Judge Chester B. McLaughlin of the Court of Appeals, in an opinion handed down today, held that the State Commissioner of Education was within his rights when he directed the Board of Education of Union Free School, District 2, of the Town of Brookhaven, Suffolk County, to provide transportation for young children to take them to and from school.

The Board of Education had neglected to provide transportation and Commissioner Frank P. Graves directed the board to provide, by the levy of a tax, funds for the transportation of children of school age living so remote from the school building that they could not otherwise attend school.

The order of Commissioner Graves was made on March 21, 1924, after he had made an investigation of complaints of parents. The board, instead of obeying the order, called a meeting of the voters of the district and the proposition was voted down.

Judge McLaughlin's opinion was as follows:

"This view, it seems to me, is erroneous when the provisions of the Constitution relating to the common schools of the State and the provisions of the education law are considered. The education law permits the formation of small school districts into a union free school district, and once the formation has taken place the Board of Education is given broad powers to the end that all of the children of the district may be educated.

"If a Board of Education is derelict in its duty in this respect, or refuses or neglects to carry out the object for which the district has been formed, the Commissioner, under the education law, is clothed with power to compel action.

"After a very careful consideration of the education law, having in view the purpose sought to be accomplished by it, I am clearly of the opinion that the Commissioner had jurisdiction of the subject-matter and power to make the orders in question."

HARVARD MEN IN LIBERIA.

Medical Expedition Will Study Disease in Interior Africa.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 9.—A cablegram was received here today from Dr. Richard P. Strong saying that the Harvard Medical School expedition to study disease in the interior of Africa has arrived at Monrovia, Liberia, and is ready to proceed into practically unexplored territory.

The expedition left the United States early in May to study plant and animal life in Central Africa and also to study the diseases of the natives. Dr. Strong, Professor of Tropical Medicine at Harvard, is in charge of the expedition, and took with him as assistants George Shattuck and Dr. Max Theiler, both of the medical school; Dr. Glover M. Allen, zoologist, and several others.

After leaving Liberia the expedition will explore the interior along the Congo River, where a special study of sleeping sickness will be made.

MEXICAN PAPER SUSPENDS.

El Pais, With Catholic Leaning, Has Business Difficulties.

MEXICO CITY, July 9 (AP).—The morning newspaper El Pais, which has strong Catholic tendencies, has suspended publication because of financial difficulties, but its publishers hope to make arrangements to resume.

The paper was launched last January, and the present suspension is said to be entirely due to economic conditions and to have no relation whatever to the recent Government regulations prohibiting political comment by religious publications.

Another morning paper, El Democrata, also suspended recently because of business difficulties. The capital now has only two morning dailies, El Universal and the Excelsior.

STATE PARK BODY APPEALS LAND CASE

Long Island Commission Fights Judgment for Pauchogue Land Corporation.

HEARING IS SET FOR OCT. 4

Presiding Justice Reserves His Decision on Continuation of Temporary Stay.

Attorneys for the Long Island State Park Commission gave notice yesterday of an appeal to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn from an order of Supreme Court Justice Lewis L. Fawcett, who denied the commission's application for a reopening of a default in the judgment for $22,000 granted against its members individually and in favor of the Pauchogue Land Corporation. This judgment was given by a jury before Supreme Court Justice S. B. Strong in an action based on the commission's seizure of the Taylor estate at Islip, L. I., for a public park.

A temporary stay of the judgment order was granted on Thursday by Presiding Justice William J. Kelly of the Appellate Division. In his chambers yesterday he heard arguments on the question of continuing this stay and reserved decision, although he designated Oct. 4 for a hearing by the Appellate Division on the appeal.

George B. Carrington, attorney for the commission, argued before Justice Kelly yesterday that the decision on the order of default should not be allowed to go into effect until the main appeal had been determined by the higher court.

"The stay should be continued," he said, "first, because it involves issues of public interest, and, second, because the judgment against the commission contains an injunction which would prevent it from holding possession of the property."

Charles H. Tuttle, attorney for the land corporation, argued that his client should not be deprived of the fruits of the judgment it had obtained, as it had been deprived illegally of its property. He said, however, that he would agree to a stipulation halting proceedings for immediate collection of the damages, providing the other side showed diligence in prosecuting its appeal.

The Commissioners, who are each individually liable for $7,333 of the judgment of $22,000, are Robert Moses, Chairman; Townsend Scudder and Clifford L. Jackson. Justice Fawcett held that the commission had caused a deliberate default in the trial of the suit against it.

MISSING GIRL, FOUND, BLAMES BOBBED HAIR

Feared Parents After Having It Cut, She Says—Reward of $1,000 Offered for Her.

Lucille Hardy, a fifteen-year-old schoolgirl of Englewood, N. J., wanted her hair bobbed, but her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Hardy, refused permission. However, on last Saturday morning, after her parents had started on the previous evening for Norfolk, Va., and her brother had gone away for the week-end, Lucille had her hair cut. Then she was afraid to go home, so, without leaving her address, she went to visit a friend, Margaret Noonan, at the bungalow of Mrs. John Dunn at Sea Breeze, Staten Island.

That, at least, was Lucille's story when Captain Ernest Van Wagner, head of detectives in Staten Island, found her bathing at Sea Breeze yesterday afternoon and asked her to "come out and get dressed" because quite a number of persons were looking for her, such as New York and New Jersey detectives, private detectives, Interstate Park police and New Jersey State troopers.

Mr. Hardy, who is a certified public accountant living at 170 John Street, Englewood, offered $1,000 reward for the finding of Lucille when he returned on Tuesday from Virginia. He also appealed to Governor Moore for the aid of troopers. Despite this intensive search, however, Mrs. Dunn did not know that Lucille had not her parents' permission to make the visit.

Captain Jacob Abrahams and Detective Sergeant James Mahoney of Englewood, with Mr. Hardy, escorted Lucille home. She said she was very sorry to have caused so much trouble.

LONDON, July 9.—Averaging 142 miles an hour, Lieutenant E. R. C. Scholefield, in a Vickers Vixen two-seater plane with a 450-horsepower engine, was leading last night in the race for the King's Cup at the Hendon Airdrome on the outskirts of London.

Captain Hubert Broad, in a two-seater Moth machine, was second, with an average speed of 91 miles an hour. Lieutenant H. W. G. Jones, third, and H. H. Perry, fourth.

Captain Broad, who competed for the Schneider Cup in the United States last year, started 2 hours and 59 seconds before Scholefield. Tonight when the planes returned to Hendon he was five minutes behind him.

The race, which is over a triangular course, with the base at Hendon, is for 1,464 miles. It is expected to end late tomorrow afternoon.

PRAISES TOLERANCE HERE.

Vatican Organ Hails Religious Freedom in This Country.

ROME, July 9 (AP).—Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, has published an article describing at great length the freedom of religion which exists in the United States.

The paper at the same time contrasts the attitude of the United States with that of Mexico, speaking of the "persecution of Catholics" in the latter country.

The Osservatore praises the stand of the American authorities, particularly as expressed in speeches by Secretary of Labor Davis and Mayor Walker during Cardinal Bonzano's stay in the United States for the recent Eucharistic Congress at Chicago.

Prepare for Silver Bay Meeting.

Thirty-five young women representing various branches and centres of the Y. W. C. A. of New York City had supper on the roof of the Central Branch Y. W. C. A., 610 Lexington Avenue, last evening and discussed plans for the Silver Day Conference of the Y. W. C. A., July 13 to 27, to which they will go as delegates. New York delegates will be distinguished by white dresses with blue and yellow ties.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE CHURCHGOER

Episcopal Chaplains Held 4,023 Services in Hospitals and Prisons Last Year.

LUTHERAN WORLD SESSION

It Will Be Held In Copenhagen Late In 1929, Dr. Morehead Notifies National Council There.

The annual report of the New York Episcopal City Mission Society, 38 Bleecker Street, which was made public yesterday, says that 4,023 services were held by its twenty chaplains last year in city hospitals and prisons with an aggregate attendance of 213,264. Of these 24,478 partook of Holy Communion. There were 170 confirmations and 1,310 baptisms. The Rev. Dr. L. Ernest Sunderland, the superintendent, said: "The field is larger than the clergy are able to cover. We should have more of them. Much has been said about delinquency, and it is a growing problem, but one which we are trying to meet through prevention.

A cablegram was made public yesterday at the offices of the National Lutheran Council, 437 Fifth Avenue, from the Rev. Dr. John A. Morehead, now in Dresden, saying that the Executive Committee of the Lutheran World Convention, which has been in session in that city for a week, has decided to hold the second World Conference in Copenhagen late in 1929. Dr. Morehead, who is the director of the committee, will spend the next few weeks as one of a deputation of three to visit Lutherans of Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia and France. The first world conference ever held in the 400 years of Lutheran history was at Eisenach, Germany, in August, 1923.

A series of questions involving political, economic and social problems encountered by foreign missionaries on the field will be submitted by Dr. T. H. P. Sailer, associate in religious education of Teachers College, Columbia University, to 300 young student volunteers assembled at Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y., for the next four days. Among the topics will be "What Have Missions to Do with World Problems?"

The Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler, president of the Lutheran Synod of New York and New England, will install the Rev. Wilmer M. Zuehlke tomorrow morning as pastor of the First English Lutheran Church, Blasdell, N. Y.

The lecturers this week at the annual conference for ministers and other Christian workers in Union Theological Seminary, Broadway and 120th Street, will be the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, the President-elect; Professor Frederick Foakes-Jackson of the Faculty an dthe Rev. Dr. Gaius Glenn Atkins of Detroit.

The Rev. Dr. Herman Biezing, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Niagara Falls, has declined the presidency of Wagner Lutheran College, near Stapleton, S. I. Some weeks ago he was elected to succeed the Rev. Dr. A. H. Holthusen. Dr. Biezing said he felt his work was in the pastorate.

The second party this season of Fresh Air children, together with mothers and babies, will leave early next week under the auspices of the Five Points Methodist Mission, 69 Madison Street, for Cornwall-on-the-Hudson.

Cardinal Hayes will return today from St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, where he has been conducting an annual retreat for priests of the Archdiocese of New York since last Tuesday. He is accompanied by Mgr. Stephen J. Donahue, his private secretary.

The Rev. W. E. Bauer, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Scarsdale, has accepted a call to the chair of history in the new Lutheran University, Valparaiso, Ind.

Edgar G. Gyger has been appointed head of the Christian Science Committee on Publication for the State of New York, with headquarters at 342 Madison Avenue, succeeding Charles E. Heitman, now associate editor of The Christian Science Monitor.

The Rev. Paul G. Prokopy of Chicago, Executive Secretary of the Walther Lutheran League, has been called to the pastorate of Redeemer Lutheran Church, in the Woodside section of Newark, to succeed the Rev. August F. Brunn, who resigned to become director of Lutherland, in the Pocono Mountains.

A Young People's Conference will be held beginning today and continuing ten days at Stony Brook, L. I.

Natbi Camp-Belle, a Summer camp for young women under the auspices of the National Bible Institute, 340 West Fifty-fifth Street, will open today and continue through Sept. 11. It is at Copake, Columbia County.

The Rev. William M. Horn, pastor of the Lutheran Chapel, just outside the entrance to Cornell University, has received the honorary degree of "Doctor of Divinity" from Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa.

The Rev. J. Woodman Babbitt, pastor of Olivet Memorial Church, 63 Second Street, is on his way to England to attend the World's Sunday School Convention in London.

There will be a recital at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the Rockefeller Memorial Carillon in the Park Avenue Baptist Church, at Sixty-fourth Street, by Percival Price, the carillonneur.

BONZANO LEAVES CHICAGO.

Legate Says Congress Surpassed All Previous Experiences.

CHICAGO, July 9 (AP).—Cardinal Bonzano, the Papal Legate to the recent Eucharistic Congress, bade farewell to Chicago today, declaring the gathering was the greatest manifestation of religion he had ever withessed. He will sail from New York for Italy on July 24.

Archbishop Daniel Mannix of Australia and the Right Rev. John McCarthy, Bishop of Sandhurst, Australia, and members of the Italian delegation went to New York on the same train on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Papal Legate had a special, and in departing gave an apostolic blessing to "city, State and nation."

"Pope Pius will be happiest when he receives my report regarding the congress," the Cardinal said, "for he, above all in Rome, was sure, and so stated before I started for the congress, that the promise of Cardinal Mundelein of 1,000,000 communions would not only be fulfilled but would be exceeded."

Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago and a big throng bade the Legate goodbye at the depot.

ONE PLEADS GUILTY AT TRIAL OF DWYER

Jack Kirsch, Called Man Who 'Located' Liquor Abroad for Ring, Springs Surprise.

FIRST WITNESS TESTIFIES

Says Dwyer Hired Him to Take Charge of Two Ill-Fated Rum Ships.

VAST PROFITS ARE CITED

Prosecutor Says Syndicate Landed $40,000,000 Liquor Here—Names Ex-Government Men.

Just before the Government called its first witness in the liquor conspiracy trial of William V. Dwyer and others before Federal Judge Julian W. Mack and a jury in the United States District Court yesterday, Jack Kirsch, one defendant, withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty to each of the three counts in the indictment.

This action was taken by Gustave A. Teitelbaum, Kirsch's attorney, just after Assistant United States Attorney Herman F. Stichman," in his opening address to the jury, had said the Government would prove that a syndicate headed by Dwyer had illegally brought into the United States more than $40,000,000 worth of liquor between Oct. 1, 1923, and June 1, 1926.

The plea came as a surprise to both sides. Mr. Teitelbaum stepped forward and shook hands with Mr. Buckner, saying he wished to plead his client. Some of the ten or more attorneys for the defendants overheard the statement and when Mr. Teitelbaum turned to address Judge Mack there was a storm of protest. Judge Mack called attorneys for both sides to the bench.

Then Mr. Teitelbaum called Kirsch to the bench and the latter entered his plea of guilty. No explanation was offered, nor was anything said as to whether Kirsch would turn State's evidence. When the jury was called in again, Judge Mack announced merely that Kirsch was "out of the case." He will be sentenced at the conclusion of the trial. Kirsch was described by Mr. Stichman as the man who "located liquor at foreign ports for the Dwyer combine."

Jury Finally Completed.

The jury was completed at 3 o'clock after almost three days spent in its selection. One of the eleven men picked on Thursday told Judge Mack yesterday he had not been thoroughly examined and felt he could not do justice to the Government because of his prejudice against the prohibition law. Five others of the third panel were excused for similar reasons. The jury is made up as follows:

Samuel Frank, pipe manufacturer, 1,745 Grand Concurse, the Bronx, foreman; Irving Meyrowitz, salesman, 54 East 179th Street, the Bronx; Seymour G. Hammel, purchasing agent, 302 West Eighty-seventh Street; John S. Braude, jeweler, 601 West 113th Street; Isaac Keppler, coffee merchant, 857 East 176th Street, the Bronx; Simon Preiser, insurance, 2,352 Walton Avenue, the Bronx; George Ilimensee, auditor, 1,701 Clay Avenue, the Bronx; Frank E. Snowden, clerk, 2,482 Tiebout Avenue, the Bronx; Peter J. Conroy, insurance broker, 2,021 Valentine Avenue, the Bronx; Edward Tabor, dry goods, 625 West 164th Street; S. Lawrence Gelband, insurance, 1,209 Hoe Avenue, the Bronx, and Samuel Nathanson, shoe merchant, 370 Riverside Drive.

Mr. Frank, the foreman, caused both sides some worry when he announced that, just about July 15 each Summer, hay fever atacks him severely. He asked if the trial would be over by that time, but was told it probably would not. It was admitted that Mr. Frank's hay fever might yet hold up the trial.

Mr. Stichman in his opening address, outlined the three counts in the indictment. The defendants, he said, were charged with violating the prohibition and traffic laws in smuggling liquor into this country, in failing to pay the customs duty and in concealing the liquor here.

Calls Dwyer "Bootleggers' King."

"The head of the ring," continued Mr. Stichman, was William V. Dwyer, undisputed king of the bootleggers, to whom all other operators paid tribute at a set rate per case of liquor for the privilege of bringing in liquor from Rum Row under Dwyer's protection. Jack Kirsch located the liquor for the Dwyer ring; he was the agent at foreign ports. John J. McCambridge superintended the operations of the larger boats (it has been alleged the "ring" operated twenty or more vessels) between New York and the larger sources of supply.

"Anthony Cassino and William Gallagher, provided with funds, took their places at the piers in Weehawken and New York to oversee the unloading of the rum boats and to give proper thanks to the officers of the law for their protection. E. C. Cohron and George Clyde maintained at 132d Street and East River the famous Marine Garage, where the speed boats of the combine were built and repaired and their crews recruited.

"William J. Maloney, Harry E. Rairden and Charles Snow, with twelve others, acted as supercargoes for Dwyer. Arch M. Eversole and Walter Wieder had interests in specific cargoes and also had boats of their own which were operated under the general system of Dwyer's protection. Paul Crim and Edward Gallagher were members of the Coast Guard who, just prior to Jan. 1, 1925, helped out this man Dwyer, whose boats they had been protecting, by twice bringing in 500 cases of liquor on board their own Coast Guard boats.

"Jacob Aaron, alias Jimmy Murphy, and Louis Maul were handy men who were used by McCambridge. Samuel Futtermen was one of the hundreds of middlemen to whom sales of liquor in quantity lots were made."

Some of the defendants named by Mr. Stichman are not now on trial, either because they have not been apprehended or because of a severance of trial. The Government called as its first witness the "mysterious Mr. Smith," who said he was Charles Augustus Smith, a "mariner," formerly in Dwyer's employ aboard rum-running boats. Smith said that in 1923 he had been employed by James McAllister, head of a towing company. Through McAllister, he continued, he met McCambridge, who sent him to see Dwyer.

"I had been sent to Providence, R. I., by McAllister," the witness said, "to tow a ship to sea. When I returned I asked McAllister if I could get the job of handling that ship. He sent me to McCambridge who told me he knew the owner of the ship, who was William V. Dwyer. I met Dwyer in Room 1105 in Loew's State Theatre Building, Broadway and Forty-fifth Street, in March, 1923. He questioned me about my ability and later telephoned me and put me in charge of the boat Dorin.

Says Liquor Was on Board.

"Did he tell you what was on that boat?" asked Mr. Stichman.

"Yes, liquor," answered Smith. "Dwyer told me the liquor was to be transferred to another ship. I was told to take the Dorin to Nassau. We laid out there fourteen days in a bad storm. Finally we were picked up by a coast liner and our ship set adrift. When we returned to New York I met Dwyer and he asked me what he should pay the different members of the crew. I told him we had no money, and he gave me $100 to provide lodgings and food for the crew for one night. The next day he gave me a check which I cashed at a bank, and paid off the crew."

The witness said that about a month later he was put aboard the ship William A. Morse as navigator by Dwyer and told to go to St. Pierre et Miquelon. He said Dwyer had told another man on board the ship to get as many cases of liquor aboard as he could. He had bad luck with this ship also, Smith testified, as she was caught in the ice off Halifax, and he had to put in there for repairs.

The case then was adjourned until 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

Professor Says Our Women Rival Helen of Troy in Beauty

In addressing 2,000 teachers and students from all parts of the country last night before the Summer session convocation at Columbia University Professor William A. Boring, Director of the School of Architecture, declared that America has women as beautiful as Helen of Troy to guide its sculptors. "Our men are as godlike in form as the Apoxymenus in the Vatican Galleries," said Professor Boring.

Professor Boring had for his subject "Tendencies in the Art of Today." He declared our buildings stand up well, but not naturally, seeming to be held together with steel and cement, in conscious effort.

"Modern experiments in art are to be accepted with caution," he declared, "never because of a theoretical explanation, but only in response to an appeal to good taste. Nature is as beautiful here today as that which inspired Horace to write his imperishable odes."

SCHIEFFELIN IS UPHELD BY COURT OF APPEALS

Wins Action to Stop Salary of O'Brien, Superintendent of City Police Building.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 9.—William Jay Schieffelin's action against Thomas E. O'Brien, Superintendent of Buildings of the New York Police Department, and others to prevent payment of salary to O'Brien, which action Mr. Schieffelin lost in the lower courts, was reversed by the Court of Appeals today. The contention of Mr. Schieffelin, through his attorney, Leonard M. Wallstein, that the office was one that must be filed after competitive examination was upheld.

Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo wrote the court's opinion, in which he pointed out that in 1895 a Bureau of Repairs and Supplies had been established and that O'Brien had been in charge practically ever since. The Legislature to make his tenure more secure, enacted Chapter 624 in 1923, which changed the title of the office and fixed the salary at $5,000. O'Brien had previously been a Lieutenant at $3,300 a year.

Mr. Wallstein insisted that the effect of the law of 1923 was to create a new office, but the defendants argued that it was merely to give legislative approval of a pre-existing practice.

"We cannot read the statute," Judge Cardozo wrote, "as accomplishing anything less than the creation of an office. Its opening sentence informs us that this is the effect intended. The office being thus created, the incumbent is protected in his enjoyment of it by the provision that he shall not be removed or dismissed, except in the same manner as other members of the force. We cannot reconcile a tenure thus secured with the tenure of one who holds by virtue of a revocable assignment."

APPEALS THE GOFF CASE.

E. Paul Yaselli Takes Charges Against Senator to Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Charges of malicious prosecution at the hands of Guy D. Goff, now a Senator from West Virginia, were revived in a Supreme Court petition today by E. Paul Yaselli, a New York shipping man. When the charge was brought in the Federal courts in New York they dismissed it.

The controversy had its inception some years ago when Goff was counsel for the Government's Emergency Fleet Corporation. Yaselli asserted in his petition that after his company, the Italian Star Line, had purchased a ship from the United States, Goff threatened to send him to jail unless he consented to his company being placed in the hands of a receiver. He refused and was indicted on a charge of defrauding the Shipping Board, but was acquitted.

To get the indictment, Yaselli said, Goff "fraudulently" obtained appointment under Attorney General Daugherty as a Special Assistant. He also accused Goff of subornation of perjury and contended that immunity should not shield a prosecuting officer "who conspires willfully and maliciously to get himself appointed as prosecutor in order that he may prosecute the person he seeks to punish."

BRITISH CITIES SOOT-LADEN

Fireplaces Add to Laundry Bill, Says Health Minister.

LONDON, July 9 (AP).—The Briton's love for old-fashioned fireplaces adds to his laundry bill in cities because of 2,500,000 tons of soot poured into the air, it is stated by Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health.

The fireplaces produce five times as much soot as industrial furnaces, Mr. Chamberlain declared in advocating the Government's smoke abatement bill before the House of Commons.

Country people get 20 per cent. more sunlight than those who live in the cities, he said, and inhabitants of Manchester pay 15 cents a week more for their laundry than those of nearby towns, where there are no manufacturing plants.

KEHOE TRIAL IS SET IN MILK GRAFT PLOT

Former Assistant Corporation Counsel to Face Charge of Conspiracy Wednesday.

TANK SHIPMENT IS TESTED

Harris Permits Trial of New Method in Getting Milk From Up-State Points.

Judge Max Levine, in General Sessions yesterday, fixed next Wednesday as the date for the trial of William H. Kehoe, former Assistant Corporation Counsel, on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the milk graft. The date was fixed on motion of Chief Assistant District Attorney Ferdinand Pecora.

It was announced in court by Mr. Pecora that Harry Danziger, who is under indictment in the Bronx and in Queens for his connection with the milk frauds, was ill in the East New York Hospital.

Judge Cornelius F. Collins, in General Sessions, denied an application to inspect the minutes of the Grand Jury made by counsel for Adolph C. Schwartz, a former Health Department chemist, who is under indictment for conspiracy. Judge Collins denied a similar motion on Thursday made by counsel in behalf of Kehoe.

The first consignment of milk shipped from up-State sources to this city in tank cars arrived yesterday morning at the Lackawanna Railroad yards in Hoboken. The new method of transportation was undertaken by the Borden Farm Products Company. When the tank cars reached the terminal the milk was transferred into three milk tank motor trucks and sent to the pasteurization plant. The milk was pumped from one tank to another by air-pressure pumps.

"The shipment of milk in tanks was approved only as an experiment," said Dr. Louis I. Harris, Commissioner of Health. "Before tanks can come into general use the Health Department will have to have satisfactory assurance that the temperature will be maintained, that the transfer from tank to tank is carried out in a way that will safeguard the city's health and that the tanks are so protected that milk from unauthorized sources cannot be added as the journey progresses."

Dr. Harris said good progress was being made in the poultry graft investigation. He said he had received unexpected assistance in the case he is building up against an unnamed attorney he has charged with having collected tribute from poultry dealers for years. This assistance, the Commissioner said, was in the form of canceled checks and check stubs. One check, Dr. Harris said, showed that $1,500 in graft had been collected.

CLASH OVER POULTRY PLANS.

Ottinger Says Harris Fails to Cooperate on Move for Director.

Conflicting views on the live poultry inquiry and plans to remedy the situation continued to be expressed yesterday by Health Commissioner Harris and Attorney General Albert Ottinger. The latter, who returned from the water power hearing in Niagara Falls, charged that Dr. Harris had failed to cooperate with the Attorney General's office.

Mr. Ottinger also expressed disapproval of a plan to name Major David L'Esperance "the Landis of the poultry industry." Dr. Harris has said that the "greatest aid I have received has been from Major L'Esperance, who has been selected by the reputable poultry dealers to aid them in cleaning house."

Concerning this Mr. Ottinger said:

"This suggestion interferes with the development of the proposal I made several months ago, and upon which I am now working, to create a poultry exchange, where prices shall be fixed by open bidding, wherein we shall have the cooperation of civic bodies, chambers of commerce, members of the Cabinet—in fact, cooperation nation and State wide. I propose to suggest the name of a man totally disinterested in the poultry enterprise on one side or the other.

"In view of the plans which I have announced, common courtesy would have suggested, in the light of this promised cooperation, that he [Dr. Harris] confer with me before announcing his alleged plan for the creation o fa so-called chamber of commerce."

HEIRS OF C.F. NEHER SOUGHT

He Is Thought Dead and Is Beneficiary of a $65,000 Estate.

Heirs and relatives of Charles Frederick Neher, who was born in Germany in 1835, are being sought in connection with the distribution of a $65,000 estate created by the death of Neher's brother, it was announced yesterday at the offices of Whitman & Knauth, 46 West Fortieth Street. Neher, who was possibly the sole heir of his brother's estate, is presumed to be dead. He came to this country in 1851 and as far as can be ascertained has left no legal record since then.

According to the alleged widow of Neher's brother, Charles Frederick Neher was a member of the New York police force and died about twelve years ago. The name could not be found on the records of the Police Department, however, or among those of the Health Department.

FORMER BROKER CLEARED.

Magistrate Throws Out Grand Larceny Charge Against F. K. Marquand.

The charge of grand larceny preferred by Frederick H. Smith, retired business man, of 167 Penn Street, Brooklyn, against Frederick K. Marquand, former broker, was dismissed yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Jesse Silberman in Tombs Court because Smith had a trading account with Marquand and their relations were those of debtor and creditor.

Marquand was charged with procuring a loan on forty shares of Southern Railway common stock owned by Smith from the Continental National Bank, at 25 Broad Street, and appropriating the money obtained to his own uses. He was arrested on Tuesday night at his Summer home in Northport, L. I.

COBHAM GETS A MECHANIC.

Man Is Sent From London to Take Elliott's Place.

LONDON, July 9.—W. J. C. Moore has been selected to take the place of A. B. Elliott, Allan Cobham's mechanic, who was killed by an Arab bullet while their plane was flying over Mesopotamia Tuesday.

Moore will travel overland from England to join Cobham at Basra. When he arrives, in about two weeks, Cobham will continue his flight to Australia.

New York Reservists Get Sea Duty Thrill As Destroyers Crash in Night Off Newport

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—New York Naval Reservists had the biggest thrill of their Summer cruise in the darkness early this morning when the destroyers Lawrence and Hatfield, each carrying about fifty of the "citizen sailors" crashed at sea during night battle manoeuvres.

The ships were only slightly damaged, but the New Yorkers had the experience of turning out for real collision duty, closing bulkheads and getting mats over the side to prevent ingress of water as coolly as if it were a practice drill.

The men aboard the Hatfield and the Lawrence are from the Second and Fourth Fleet Divisions of the First Battalion of New York City.

The reserve officers aboard the Hatfield include Lieutenant James J. Hickey, Lieutenant R. H. Wilcox, Ensign G. D. Kissam, Ensign R. J. Chambers, and Lieutenant Joseph D. Green, Supply Corps.

Those aboard the Lawrence include Lieutenant N. G. Thomson, Lieutenant L. I. Davidson, Lieutenant H. D. Bieran, Lieutenant J. P. Stabler and Ensign P. W. Siegrist.

Upon the arrival of the destroyer squadrons at Newport this morning the Lawrence and the Hatfield were moored to the repair ship Dobbin and the New York reservists are now busily engaged in sight seeing in Newport, where they will spend the week-end.

BURGLARY CHARGED TO 4 'HUMAN FLIES'

Two Caught at Loft Building —Window in Seventh Story Is Found Open.

CAPTOR ALSO SCALES WALL

Prisoners, Subdued With Blackjack and Pistol, Implicate Two Other Negroes.

Four negroes, alleged to be members of a gang of "human fly" burglars operating in loft buildings in the city's lower west side, were arrested early yesterday morning by the police with the cooperation of watchmen from the Holmes Protective Association. Two were caught leaving a building and put up a fight. One was shot in the left arm and the other was subdued with a blackjack. The other pair was arrested in a flat in Harlem.

Just after 2 A. M. the Holmes Association was notified that men had been seen crossing a roof adjoining a twelve-story loft building at 326-336 West Thirty-sixth Street. Watchmen were sent there, and on the way they picked up two patrolmen. They arrived in time to see two negroes emerge from a tenement carrying a huge burlap bag and place it in a taxicab.

As the police approached, the negroes fled. John McCoy, a watchman, overtook one negro, and Patrolman McCaffery captured the other after winging him.

The prisoners were taken to the loft building with the burlap bag, which contained silk, dresses and piece goods. The police could not ascertain which firm had been robbed until McCoy, turning "human fly" and scaling the building to the seventh floor, found a window that had been pried open.

Taken to the West Thirtieth Street Station, the prisoners said they were William Murphy of 336 West Forty-fifth Street and Samuel Davis of 408 West Thirty-sixth Street. An ambulance surgeon treated Davis for his bullet wound and Murphy for lacerations of the head.

Meantime, McCoy, who had remained in the building, heard glass breaking, saw two other negroes dart across an adjoining roof. He fired several shots at them, but they got away.

After questioning Murphy and Davis, detectives were sent to the apartment of Mark Spencer at 101 West 132d Street and there arrested Spencer and Frank George of 220 West 144th Street.

STATE HOUSING BOARD PLANS RENTAL STUDY

Darwin R. James Is Elected Chairman at First Meeting to Prepare Program.

The new State Housing Commission held its first meeting yesterday at the headquarters of State Architect Sullivan Jones, in the Flatiron Building. The meeting lasted about two hours.

Darwin R. James, President of the East River Savings Bank of Brooklyn, as expected, was elected Chairman. Oliver M. Cabana of Buffalo was elected Vice Chairman. He was not present. The commission decided that, for the time being, it will occupy the quarters recently vacated by the old State Commission on Housing and Regional Planning, on the eighteenth floor of the Flatiron Building.

A decision was reached to make studies of specific blocks in various parts of the city so that the commission could determine that a certain type of building erected on the stipulated block, would cost approximately a certain sum, and that rooms in the building, therefore, could be rented at a certain price.

This study will be the first constructive undertaking. No decision was made as to the blocks, but a block in Brooklyn, two on the lower east side of Manhattan and one on the upper east side will be chosen as examples. The Commission discussed a general program, but no committees were appointed. All matters of detail, including the employment of experts and establishing a permanent staff, were left for a later meeting.

Julius Henry Cohen, it was said, would be counsel for the commission. He was counsel to the old commission and has made a study of the housing problem.

At the meeting besides Mr. Jones and Mr. James were Aaron Rabinowitz, Louis Pink and James Walkett.

TRIES TO KILL WIFE; SEIZED AFTER CHASE

Husband Shoots Woman and Their Son, 2—Jammed Pistol Saves Sister-in-Law.

SEPARATED AFTER QUARREL

Refusal to Return Given as Cause of Attack—Prisoner Confesses, Police Say.

Thomas Hamill, 28 years old, a boiler inspector of 553 Jersey Avenue, Jersey City, yesterday morning broke into the room where his wife has been living since she left him last Saturday, fired one shot at her, another at their 2-year-old son, James, and then attempted to shoot Mrs. Hamill's sister, Catherine Murphy.

After the shooting Hamill fled to the City Hall, followed by a crowd of several hundred persons, and was arrested by Policemen Thomas Lillis and Wilbur Smith as he ran from a rear exit. The police say a revolver was found in Hamill's pocket and that he confessed to the shooting.

Mrs. Hamill and the child are in the Jersey City Hospital in a critical condition.

Last Saturday, after a quarrel, Mrs. Hamill left her husband, taking with her James and another child, Rose, 6 years old. She left the little girl with friends and went to a rooming house at 69½ Wayne Street where her sisters, Catherine and Julia Murphy, live with another young woman, Dora Hanley. Early yesterday Hamill forced his way into his wife's room, but left when a small boy in the house went for a policeman.

Hamill reappeared later with another man, said to be Bernard Clossey, 28 years old, of 133 Grand Street, a nephew of Boulevard Police Chief William Clossey. When Mrs. Hamill refused to go back with her husband, he is said to have discarded a coat which he carried over his right arm, and started shooting. Clossey tried to wrest the weapon from him, but when Hamill fired he ran from the house.

The police said that after shooting his wife and son Hamill tried to shoot Catherine Murphy, but that the pistol jammed, and when Miss Murphy screamed Hamill ran from the house.

DENY CLARK CLAIMANTS ARE SENATOR'S HEIRS

Witnesses Say He and Bride Were in Utah on Day Parents of 3 Women Married.

Special to The New York Times.

BUTTE, Mont., July 9.—The late Senator William A. Clark of Montana, with his bride, Kate Stauffer, whom he married at Connellsville, Pa., March 17, 1869, boarded a stage coach at Corinne, Utah, for Helena, Mont., April 25, 1869, the day of the marriage at Stewartsville, Mo., of William A. Clark and Tobitha C. (Kate) Brooks, parents of the three women suing for daughters' shares in the $47,600,000 estate of Senator Clark, according to testimony introduced at the trial of the case today.

Witnesses who testified that Senator Clark and his Pennsylvania bride were on the stage from April 25 to April 29, 1869, were Mrs. Susan Smith Mendenhall, 88 years old, and her son, Harry L. Smith, 65, both of Bozeman, Mont. The mother and son said they were passengers in the same stage coach throughout the four-day trip over the plains.

James H. Carmichael, a resident of Augusta, Mont., for forty years, told the jury today that he had seen William A. Clark of Stewartville and the Montana mining magnate and had found them to be distinct individuals. The witness said he lived at Stewartsville until 1886, and that upon his departure from Montana relatives of W. A. Clark, who had deserted his wife and three daughters there, had asked him to try and find the absconded druggist in the West.

Carmichael said that he later saw Senator Clark frequently at Helena and although he observed him closely, could see no mark or resemblance to the Stewartsville man of the same name.

Among the witnesses heard today was M. L. Sreator, 82, veteran minister of the Church of Christ, who told of marrying Senator Clark and Kate Stauffer.

MRS. BUDLONG TELLS HER STORY IN COURT

Defendant in Divorce Suit Takes Stand and Denies Cruelty Charges.

WAS GOOD WIFE, SHE SAYS

Repetition of "Broadway Chickens" Joke in Corbin Dinner Verses Bores Judge Blodgett.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 9.—Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong, who is opposing the suit of her husband, Milton J. Budlong, for a divorce, took the witness stand in her own behalf today and emphatically denied all her husband's charges of nagging and humiliation and accused some of the witnessses for the plaintiff, notably Mrs. Catherine Frederick of New York City, of "lying" about alleged scenes at the Budlong home.

Asserting that she had always been a good wife and kind to Mr. Budlong, she continued:

"No one knows it better than Milton J. Budlong.

"There has never been any refusal on my part to live with Mr. Budlong," she added. "That was never so before and is not now. I had to keep him from amusing other women. I don't mean that he did anything that you could call misconduct, but little, annoying things."

The defendant in the case, acting as her own counsel, related her story to the court after she subjected Abbott Phillips, one of her husband's attorneys, to a severe cross-examination, and after her husband had closed his side of the case.

Court Reproves Defendant.

Mrs. Budlong's story was somewhat disconnected, and once the Court expressed impatience at her failure to stick to the essential questions involved and cease arguments.

Some of the jokes referred to by the defendant as having featured a dinner given for her and her husband appeared to bore Judge Blodgett, and at the repetition of one of them concerning "Broadway chickens," he abruptly rose and ordered a brief recess, remarking: "There is nothing original in that."

The greater part of the questions put by Mrs. Budlong to Mr. Phillips were overruled on objection of counsel for the plaintiff.

Mr. Phillips said, replying to Mrs. Budlong on the so-called "shirt episode" in the New York City apartment, that he had been instructed by Mr. Budlong to break down the door.

"He was afraid you might do something to yourself," said Mr. Phillips, "because poison and razors were in the room, and if you did he could never forgive himself."

When Mr. Budlong's counsel closed their case, Mrs. Budlong at once moved for a dismissal of the petition on the grounds that the alleged acts of cruelty had not been proved. The Court denied the motion and Mrs. Budlong took the witness stand to give her own version of the marital troubles of her and her husband. She was still telling her story when court adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

Wife Denies All Charges.

Mrs. Budlong's recital for the most part was a general denial of the allegations made by her husband. At one point she declared:

"I couldn't have been a better wife than I was nor kinder to Mr. Budlong, and he knows it, in spite of our squabbles."

Toward the close of the day the Court was prompted to say:

"You haven't got down yet to the important things of the case and I don't know when you will."

Mrs. Budlong said that she wanted three days in which to put in her defense because her husband had had that length of time.

"I don't see where I can make an argument," she added.

"That is all you have been doing. We've got to finish it up," said the Court.

Mrs. Budlong declared that no matter which way the Court decided the case, it would be taken to the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Budlong admitted once during her testimony that she had been jealous of Mr. Budlong and "had to hold him from other women" and added that her husband did annoying things, "such as paying too much attention to other women." She said that her husband was interested in "a certain woman" while they were at Atlantic City.

"I wrote to Mrs. Frederick not to have us at her house when this woman was present," said Mrs. Budlong.

Speaking of a birthday party that the Corbins gave for Mr. Budlong, she said that there was a little verse at each plate relating in jocular vein "our peculiarities."

"At my plate there was a verse about a key, because they said I was always locking my door and keeping Mr. Budlong away from other women," she continued. "The verse at Mr. Budlong's was something about him not liking to buy roast beef, but liking chickens on Broadway.

Joke Bores the Judge.

"There's nothing original about that," declared Judge Blodgett, as he rose and declared a short recess amid laughter throughout the court room.

"It is not true when Mrs. Frederick said I asked for money and a necklace," said Mrs. Budlong, resuming after the intermission. "If she said she feared scenes at my home, she is lying.

"All this talk about yachts and pearls is utter nonsense." She testified she did, however, have a joke with Mr. Budlong who had a large sum of money due him. It was "when we get our money I will get my pearls."

"It was no such sum as has been mentioned in the testimony," she asserted.

As to the matter of money, she said that she had never discussed it with her friends. She admitted that she had discussed it with Mr. Frederick, "but he is dead," she added.

Denying the testimony of other witnesses, she said:

"They never heard me ask for certain sums of money, or that I would leave Mr. Budlong and divorce him. My desire was to have a home and that was the reason I asked for money."

"I don't expect to make liars out of them all," said Mrs. Budlong in referring to witnesses who had testified for Mr. Budlong.

Several times during the afternoon Mrs. Budlong halted and wept a little, but soon recovered her composure and most of the three hours that she was on the stand she spoke up in a strong, clear voice. She broke down only when she was telling of the children and their illnesses and how much she cared for them.

The case will be continued tomorrow afternoon.

Radio, Phone and Plane Used To Save German Patient's Life

BERLIN, July 9.—Three of the newest products of science were used in conjunction with efforts to save the life of a man suffering in a Munich hospital. When the diagnosis of his case showed that he had a strange and rare tropical disease, his physiciany said that the only chance of saving his life was to obtain a special serum, in stock only in Hamburg.

A radio-telephone, connected through local switchboards, brought the physician in contact with the serum manufacturer in a few seconds, and then a special plane was chartered to carry the medicine from the northern to the southern German border, a distance of more than 500 miles.

From the diagnosis to the delivery of the serum only a little more than six hours elapsed.

DR. CUMMING BACK ON THE BERENGARIA

Surgeon General Says Sanitary Congress Seeks to Control World Health Laws.

TO LOOK INTO CREW TESTS

Declares Dispatch About Inspection Aboard Paris Lost United States a Vote at Recent Conference.

Surgeon General H. S. Cumming, head of the United States Public Health Service, returned yesterday on the Cunarder Berengaria from Paris, where he has been attending the International Sanitary Conference, at which delegates from sixty-three nations were present.

"One resolution that was adopted," said Dr. Cumming, "was that the international sanitary laws should be under control of the International Committee, and not under the League of Nations at Geneva. It was desired that the committee should cooperate with the Health Section of the League of Nations and the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau, but reserve to itself the privilege of an independent existence.

"The conference, after some discussion, agreed that the nations should determine on their own information whether or not quarantine measures are to be invoked.

"The International Sanitary Conference also recognized the necessity for fumigation every six months of rat-infested ships and recognition of quarantine against typhus and also against smallpox."

About the enforcement of the medical inspection of ships' crews entering the port of New York, which had been enforced during the two months he was abroad, Dr. Cumming said: "I intend to go thoroughly into the matter with the Secretary of Labor and also come to New York to board some of the big liners and watch the examination. From my personal knowledge, the crews of the regular passenger ships are a good class of men and there are very few changes made at the end of the seventeen days' voyage. I was making a speech at the conference in Paris, in which a big vote was likely to be cast in our favor, and I mentioned the cordial relations between the United States and France and how amicably the officials of the two countries worked together, when an excitable Frenchman rose up and waved the dispatch about the crew of the Paris at me, which lost us the vote."

After the Sanitary Conference Dr. Cumming visited the various health stations of the United States Government in England, Holland, Belgium and Southern Germany, and he said the plan of inspecting immigrants abroad was working out well. He added that the plan had been extended to Denmark and Norway on July 1.

Dr. J. A. Amyot, Deputy Minister of Health for Canada, also returned on the liner after attending the Sanitary Conference.

Except the officers of the deck department on the Berengaria, the crew did not appear to be aware of the whale that rocked the liner on June 28 as she was nearing the French coast, which incident was cabled to New York. Staff Captain G. R. Dolphin said that he had seen a few whales off the starboard on the day before reaching Cherbourg. "The biggest one," Captain Dolphin added, "tried to cross our bow. He was biffed by the stem of the Berengaria abaft his beam, which threw him off, and I saw him swim away, but I do not think he was hurt much."

Dr. Spencer Nairne, the Assistant Surgeon of the Berengaria, brought over a 6-year-old raven for the Central Park Zoo, which he had kept since it was very young. "The name of the raven is Sam," said Dr. Nairn. "Sam does not talk but uttters sounds which are awe-inspiring to the ear when he is angry. He will steal anything, and always made a point of going through the meat safe on Sunday mornings when our family were at church."

The Right Rev. Thomas E. Molloy, Bishop of Brooklyn and Long Island, returned on the liner from a trip through Europe, including Rome, where he had an audience with the Pope.

LEFT $500,000 TO BUY COAL.

Philadelphian Provided Money for Eventual Use of Poor.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP).—The bulk of an estate, variously estimated between $500,000 and $1,000,000, will go toward buying coal for worthy poor families under the terms of the will of Israel Hecht, real estate dealer of this city. The will was admitted to probate today. Mr. Hecht died July 3.

The provision will become effective on the death of his widow, who is to receive during her lifetime the income from the estate. Three trustees to administer the fund were named by Mr. Hecht.

The object of the foundation, as set forth by the will, is to "prevent suffering among the poor, and thus assist in contributing to the maintenance of life and health among them."

"No worthy poor family shall be denied by reason of any discrimination because of race, creed, color or nationality," the will declares.

PROGRESSIVES PLAN NEW PARTY ACTIVITY

Executive Committee Says Candidates Will Be Named In Many States.

REPORTS SUCCESS IN WEST

Cites Brookhart Victory and McKinley's Defeat as Encouraging Signs.

OLD PARTIES ARE ATTACKED

Statement Declares Administration Is Silent on "Big Burglary" in Pennsylvania.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Evidence of another attempt to restore to activity the Progressive Party, or the Conference for Progressive Political Action, as it was known in 1924, when it nominated La Follette and Wheeler at Cleveland, is given by an announcement from the headquarters of the organization's Executive Committee in Baltimore.

The committee maintains that it is fully organized, that it has established branches in many States, among them New York, and that it has endorsed or will name candidates for various offices this year in Iowa, Illinois, Washington, California, Wyoming, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts and Maryland. It claims to have saved the credit of the Progressive cause by liquidating the 1924 campaign deficit of $7,000.

Emphasis is laid on a statement that 5,000,000 men and women, "unafrightened by reactionary bugaboos," voted for Senator La Follette for President and for Senator Wheeler for Vice President two years ago, and that the results were such as to warrant the Progressives in carrying on.

The committee states that it derives its authority from action taken by the party's national convention held in Chicago in February, 1925. It has proceeded since then with its organization and now numbers twenty-one men and women, all of whom, it is asserted, are pledged to Progressive principles. Of these six are women, including Mrs. Gordon Norris of New York as First Vice Chairman. Other New York members are J. A. H. Hopkins and Arthur Garfield Hays. A strong appeal is made for progressives to name members from States which so far have failed to enroll.

Attack Coolidge and Dawes.

Vigorous attacks are made on President Coolidge, who, it is charged, is "hiding behind a humorless sham dubbed the Spokesman of the White House." Vice President Dawes is described as a "national joke." The committee pays its respects to Secretary Mellon in this way:

"With the head of the Treasury Department capping his extraordinary services to obese privilege at the expense of the exploited rank and file by conspiring to buy the nomination of a Senatorial henchman in Pennsylvania and boasting of the virtue of the act, the Administration is again speechless. It merely shrugs its shoulders, utterly indifferent, or surprised that any person of sound mind who watched it bully and buy its way into power should expect it to behave otherwise, while it seems to say, sotto voce: 'Blessed be big burglary, both as to ballots and bullion.'"

The committee declares that the Democrats are "as false to Jefferson as the Republicans are to Lincoln," and adds: "Never more than now, never so much as now, was there need of such a movement as got under way in 1924 under the leadership of Senators La Follette and Wheeler. Unless there is a new birth of freedom, a new consecration to democratic ideals, America is within sight of political disaster."

Sees Gain in the West.

The nomintion of Smith W. Brookhart as the Republican Senatorial candidate in Iowa and the defeat of Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois are cited in support of the declaration that the "Progressive leaven" is working in the West.

Announcement is made by the committee that William H. Johnston, former President of the International Association of Machinists, has been obliged to give up the chairmanship owing to illness, and Mercer G. Johnston has been chosen to fill the vacancy. Other officers are: Peter Witt of Ohio, Second Vice Chairman, and Dr. Donald R. Hooker of Maryland, Treasurer.

Other members of the committee are H. S. Samuels of Idaho, John B. Davison of Iowa, J. Edwin Spurr of Oklahoma, Mrs. Mabel C. Costigan of the District of Columbia, Robert H. O. Schulz of Massachusetts, Glenn P. Turner of Wisconsin, Charles Kutz of Pennsylvania, Miss Henrietta Additon of Pennsylvania, Mrs. P. J. Carlson and Frank H. Hall of Illinois, Miss Florence Halsey of New Jersey, Edgar C. Snyder of Washington, Ernest Kroner of Oregon and Bert Martin of Colorado.

LONG ISLAND TRAIN IN CRASH

Sunrise Special Runs Into Locomotive—Two Porters Hurt.

The Sunrise Special, all Pullman train of the Long Island Railroad, running between Montauk and New York, collided with a locomotive which had backed on the main track near Amagansett station about 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Both locomotives were derailed and nearly a hundred yards of track were torn up. Two Pullman porters were slightly hurt.

According to the engineer of the locomotive he did not know that the train was approaching until too late to get his engine out of the way.

PARIS DECREE BARES ROMANCE OF DESERT

Chicago Girl, Now Held Not to Be Frenchman's Wife, Joined His Gobi Caravan as a Man.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 9.—The romance behind the marriage of Count Jacques Bouly de Lesdain of France and Miss Mabel Bailey of Chicago in the Gobi desert twenty-two years ago, which yesterday was declared null and void in a Paris court, was disclosed during the trial.

The Count, while a young man attached to the French Consular Service in the Far East, became attracted by the mysteries of the unknown parts of China, so he organized an expedition in June, 1904, to explore Thibet and Mongolia.

Mabel Bailey, a pretty young American, said to be the daughter of a Chicago railroad official, was employed at the time in missionary work in China. Hearing of the Count's expedition, she conceived a plan to join it, disguised herself in men s clothes and obtained employment among the camp personnel.

She was soon discovered, but pleaded eloquently to be allowed to continue the journey. It was impossible to allow her to return alone and difficult to provide an escort, so the Count gave way.

Married by Missionary.

A friendship sprang up between the young people which soon developed into a lover's romance, and when the caravan encountered two Belgian missionaries, the couple went through the wedding ceremony at Chabernoov.

After two years of wandering in districts, many of which were never visited by a white man, the Count brought his young wife home to France and introduced her to his family. The harmony which reigned between the couple in the desert, however, seemed soon to come to an end under the changed conditions. After a little while Count de Lesdain abandoned his wife, who went to reside in London with her little daughter, Pauline, while he pursued his adventurous career in many parts of the world as explorer, author and journalist.

Some time before the war de Lesdain brought legal action in the French courts, asking that the marriage be annulled, while his wife brought a counter-action defending her own rights to her title and the little girl's claim to her father's name.

On the appeal yesterday by the wife against a previous decision, the Count contended that, according to French law, a Frenchman marrying abroad must have the ceremony performed either by a French diplomatic agent or according to the custom of the country in which he is at the time.

Neither of these conditions was fulfilled. The Belgian missionary was not a diplomatic agent of France. The Mongolian custom governing marriage consists in either getting a wife by capture or buying her from her family. In the first Mongolian method the two are seated on horses. The man rides up at breakneck speed, tears the girl from her horse and gallops off triumphantly, while the villagers applaud.

Accepted by His Family.

When a bride is purchased ten ewe lambs are paid for a maiden and twenty for a young widow. The Count could not very well send ewe lambs to America to Miss Bailey's parents, and horses were not available, as the caravan employed camels.

The Countess contended that while the conditions of French law had not been fulfilled at the time, which was impossible, the wedding ceremony was carried out in perfect good faith by both parties. Furthermore, the Count had the marriage certificate given them by the missionary registered in Peking in the official register at his entered in the official register at his home in the north of France.

His family, she said, had accepted her as his wife, while the Count himself, in his book on Mongolia and Thibet, repeatedly refers to her as his wife, and publishes a photograph bearing the inscription "Count and Countess de Lesdain."

The Court, while declaring the marriage void, admitted the circumstance of good faith. Miss Bailey had been persuaded of its validity, while the Count for years had treated her as his legitimate wife. Therefore the Court held the marriage was "putative." Miss Bailey and her daughter enjoying its civil consequences. While the union is null in law it thus is valid in equity.

PARIS DIVORCE GRANTED MRS. EBEN S. DRAPER

Husband Is a State Senator in Massachusetts—Married Here After A.E.F. Romance.

PARIS, July 9 (AP).—Mrs. Eben S. Draper, formerly Miss Ruth L. Carroll, received a divorce today from State Senator Draper of Hopedale, Mass. The question of alimony was not mentioned in the suit.

A previous report that Senator Draper had brought the proceedings arose through confusion of the case with that of Ernest Draper of Brooklyn, who filed a suit against his wife, née Childs.

BOSTON, July 9 (AP).—Mrs. Eben S. Draper was Ruth Lawrence Carroll, daughter of Mrs. William Bloodgood Trowbridge of Darien, Conn. Draper is the son of Governor Eben S. Draper of Massachusetts.

They met in France in the World War. She was a Red Cross nurse and he was a Captain in the Twenty-sixth Division. After the war they were married in New York.

Mrs. Draper has been in France for several months. Mr. Draper went abroad in May.

Draper's family has been prominent in American history. His mother was the daughter of General Benjamin Helm Bristow of Kentucky, who was the choice of President Grant for Secretary of the Treasury. Senator Draper's uncle, General William S. Draper, was a General under Grant in the Civil War and was later Ambassador to Italy.

Since returning to Massachusetts Captain Draper has been elected twice to the State Senate.

NORWAY RAISES DUTIES.

Odds 33 1-3 to 50 Per Cent. on Goods Not Listed in Treaties.

OSLO, July 9 (AP).—A bill providing for a temporary increase of from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent. in customs duty, on goods not covered by trade treaties, has been adopted by the Storthing.

The measure is to compensate for the loss in revenue due to the reduction of the gold surcharge on customs duties because of the rise of the exchange value of the Norwegian krone.

HELEN WING TO WED DR. ARTHUR GRAVES

TAKE STEP TO CUT NATION'S FIRE LOSS

International Association of Fire Engineers Plan a Wide Campaign.

A fire prevention campaign throughout the country, to be directed by firemen, was announced last night at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the International Association of Fire Engineers at the Hotel Roosevelt. New York's Fire Chief, John Kenlon, and James Armstrong, Chief of the Fire Department at Kingston, Ontario, who is President of the association, endorse the project. Kenlon said:

"Our business has been that of fighting fires, and that is still our business, but I am for any practical measure that will reduce fire hazards for the public and curb the tremendous loss yearly in lives and property. Every fireman knows that many of the disastrous fires of the nation are in some degree due to negligence and might have been prevented."

The Fire Department heads from all sections of the country worked all day yesterday in executive session at the Advertising Club to outline ways and means for the proposed campaign. They decided on some features for a start of the work, which are to include fire prevention lectures in the public schools, practical suggestions in printed form to be distributed to homes and business places and meetings in cities and towns, where talks on the subject will be made by practical firemen.

Among those present were:

Jay W. Stevens, State Fire Marshal of California; Chiefs Thomas R. Murphy of San Francisco, George W. Scott, Los Angeles; George Heyden, Buffalo; George Johnson, Waltham, Mass.; William F. Daley, Brockton; P. B. Carter, Collingwood, N. J.; D. E. Johnson, Bridgeport; J. A. Mulcahey, Yonkers, and Ross P. Davis, Philadelphia.

The committee decided to ask for cooperation from the Federal Government, and with this in view an invitation was ordered sent to Herbert Hoover to attend the annual convention of the association at New Orleans on Oct. 19.

"Carmen" in Forest Park, St. Louis.

THREE GROUPS TO BID FOR KANSAS CITY STAR

Trustees of the Newspaper Properties Meet Buyers—Early Offer Is Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 9.—The trustees of the William Rockhill Nelson Trust, William Volker, J. C. Nichols and Herbert V. Jones, met today to receive offers for The Kansas City Star and Times properties.

Several prospective purchasers and their representatives were present, but no formal offer had been filed with the trustees. It was indicated, however, that several would be made later.

These groups were represented:

Frank E. Gannett, publisher of The Rochester Times-Union and other New York State newspapers; Stanton Griffis, partner in the private banking house of Hemphill, Noyes & Co., New York City, and Sidney Maestre of St. Louis, Vice President of the Mercantile Trust Company of that city.

Also Luke Lea, former United States Senator from Tennessee, and Morton Jourdan, Mr. Lea's attorney, of St. Louis; F. G. Bonfils of The Denver Post.

Clyde M. Reed, former Chairman of the Kansas Public Utilities Commission conferred with the trustees, and said he probably would make an offer for The Star in his own name, but declined to name any men who might be associated with him.

ALIENATION SUIT SETTLED.

Brattleboro Doctor's Action Against W. F. Robertson Dropped.

Special to The New York Times.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., July 9.—Suit for damages of $150,000 for alienation of his wife's affections, which was filed in the April term of the Windham County Court by Dr. Edward R. Lynch, head of Melrose Hospital, Brattleboro, against Winfred F. Robertson, paper manufacturer, of Hinsdale, N. H., was withdrawn today.

Trial of the case had been set for next Monday, but this afternoon attorneys for both sides filed with the County Clerk a stipulation that the case should be entered as "settled and discontinued" without the terms of settlement being made public.

The sum named in Dr. Lynch's suit is the largest in an alienation case in this county, and the parties to the suit are all well known in Southern Vermont. The wife, Edwina Whitney Lynch, has pending a suit for divorce from Dr. Lynch, which was heard last Spring, but on which John C. Sherburne, the presiding Judge, has not yet rendered decision.

HURT IN CANADIAN WRECK.

Four Americans Suffer Injuries in Ontario Train Derailment.

PORT ARTHUR, Ontario, July 9 (AP).—Four residents of the United States were injured today when a Canadian National passenger train was derailed a half mile east of the crossing at Wild Goose, Ontario. A washout which carried away 300 feet of the railway track, was the cause.

The injured are Mrs. Margaret Prouse of Philadelphia, arm broken and back injuries; Miss Sibyl Prouse of Philadelphia, minor leg injuries; Miss Violet Prouse of Philadelphia, shock; F. L. Tromble of New York City, shoulder wrenched and minor back injuries.

The train was en route to Port Arthur

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Close Lower, After Irregular Variations — Money 4½, Francs Recover.

In the stock market as a whole a fairly distinct reaction occurred yesterday, carrying down most of the active industrial shares 1 to 3 points. The downward movement was interrupted by occasional recoveries, presumably representing the manoeuvres of professional "pools," but the drift toward lower prices was resumed and a good part of the market ended around the low figures of the day. The declines affected railway shares as well, although the news and reports were exactly what they had been when they were made the basis of a general advance of the railway shares, earlier in the week. But that is the well-known way of a "professional market"; stocks do not go up or down on news, but news is carefully produced to explain the market after it has moved at all emphatically.

A slightly firmer rate for loans running to the Autumn or to the end of the year attracted some attention. Its immediate cause was not entirely clear, but it merely repeated the market's action of this week last year, when the moderate advance in rates that occurred in the Autumn months was foreshadowed. At present there is no visible indication of any greater "tightening" of time-money rates than last year's advance from the 4 per cent. of the middle of the year to the 5 per cent. which prevailed from the middle of October onward. Under existing conditions, it is not easy to see how anything short of a "business boom" with urgent requisitions on credit could create a semblance of money stringency.

For a time yesterday the franc continued its late recovery of the day before to such purpose as to retrace nearly all the lost ground of Wednesday and Thursday. This time the advance originated in Europe, where reports that Caillaux had effected a definite arrangement of the French debt to England made evident impression. There appeared also, from the cables, to be a prevalent idea that some kind of communications were in progress between the French Government and responsible foreign bankers. If the Chamber of Deputies were to relinquish its attitude of pure recalcitrancy, affairs would unquestionably move on the lines of such negotiation. But no one pretended to guess what would be the action of the politicians, and in the late New York market the franc sold down again below Thursday's closing price.

Two indications of the course of trade activities were presented yesterday. One was the Iron and Steel Institute's report on steel production in June. As regards the completed half-year, the figures showed that all past records of a consecutive six months' output had been handsomely exceeded. For the first half of a year, the highest achievement prior to 1926 was the 23,326,965 tons of 1923, but the past half-year has reached 24,260,537. As for June itself, the decrease of 194,683 tons is not far away from expectations, but it compares with a decrease of 250,520 tons in the preceding June and of 576,358 in June of 1924. It thus conforms with other evidence going to show that relaxation of activity on the approach of Summer has been much less than usual this year. A still more notable comparison is with the actual June output of other years, which shows last month's output of steel to have been 546,202 tons above that of 1925, and only about 16,000 less than in the high-pressure June production of 1923.

The other weather-sign of sustained activities came in the statement of checks drawn on the banks of the United States in June. As has been the case in every preceding month of 1926, the money value of such "clearings" was much the greatest ever reached in any corresponding period; the increase over May, moreover, being nearly $500,000,000 greater than in June last year. It should always be emphasized, in drawing inferences from such a comparison, that commodity prices averaged last month 4 or 5 per cent. below June, 1925; a fact which, if volume of trade had remained the same, would necessarily have affected this year's showing adversely. It is true that average prices on the Stock Exchange were higher last month than in June, 1925, and transactions also somewhat larger; but that fact will hardly impair the significance of the bank exchanges as a whole.

AMERICAN SMELTING GETS EAGLE-PICHER

Negotiations for Purchase by the Guggenheim Interests Near Completion.

PRICE ASKED IS $45 A SHARE

Ohio Corporation, Capitalized at $20,855,500, Has 20 Mines and Plants in Several States.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, July 9.—Negotiations are to be tentatively closed on Monday by the American Smelting and Refining Company, in which the Guggenheim interests predominate, for the purchase of the plants and mining properties of the Eagle-Picher Lead Company, it was announced here today following the return of John B. Swift, President of the Eagle-Picher company, from New York. Mr. Swift issued the following statement:

"The American Smelting and Refining Company made an offer through the Guaranty Trust Company, New York, for the Eagle-Picher properties several months ago. We met the officers of the Guggenheim corporation and held several conferences. It will require a month or more before the details of the negotiations will be worked out, but on the basis of present indications they are likely to be consummated.

"We asked $45 a share for Eagle-Picher common. Our book value showed $34 to $35, but the recent appraisal of the refineries and plants of the company showed a reproduction value of $38,000,000, or $4,500,000 more than the former estimates. This is without the value of the mines, the appraisal of which will not be completed for a month. There are twenty mines, many of which have large tonnages blocked out.

Concerning rumors that the Sherwin-Williams Company and the National Lead Company were negotiating for the Eagle-Picher properties, Mr. Swift said the Guggenheim deal was the only one pending.

The Eagle-Picher company owns extensive mines in the Joplin, Mo., district and at Picher, Okla. It has manufacturing plants located here, at East St. Louis and Chicago, Ill.; Picher and Henryetta, Okla.; Joplin, Galena, Kan., and Newark, N. J.

The company is one of the oldest of its kind in the country. The Eagle White Lead Company was established in 1883 and in 1906 took over the Picher Lead Company, an Oklahoma corporation. In 1916 the two were merged into the Eagle Picher Lead Company, with Oliver S. Picher as President. Following his death two years later Mr. Swift, who was Chairman of the board, succeeded him.

The Eagle-Picher Lead Company was incorporated under the laws of Ohio about June 1, 1916. In addition to its mines and smelting plants, it owns gas and oil fields and a gasoline absorption plant in Okla.

Since 1919 the Eagle-Picher has taken over the Hammer White Lead Company at East St. Louis, the Midland Chemical Company and the Ontario Smelting Company. It also owns majority of voting stock of the Consolidated Lead and Zinc Company.

Capitalization of the Eagle-Picher consists of $855,500 authorized 6 per cent. non-cumulative preferred, $100 par, $855,300 of which is outstanding, and $20,000,000 outstanding $20 par common stock. Dividends have been paid consistently since 1922 on both preferred and common stocks.

NEW OBSTACLE IN WAY OF VAN SWERINGENS

Short Line Railway Association to Oppose Abandonment of Local Railroads.

The American Short Line Railway Association is taking steps to present its contention to the Interstate Commerce Commission at the time of the forthcoming Nickel Plate hearing, that contention being that short railroads in Nickel Plate territory should not be abandoned.

As the proposed system of O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen runs through a section of the country swarming with local lines, railroad men believe, this situation will be another hurdle for the brothers. The absence of legislation providing for condemnation of short lines at a fair value is said to increase the difficulty of the problem.

The Van Sweringen brothers and their counsel, W. A. Colston, conferred with the Pere Marquette committee yesterday, but failed to arrive at a decision, according to their own statement.

O. P. Van Sweringen, spokesman for the railroad promoters, told newspaper men that definite progress had been made, but it would not be possible to make any public statement regarding the outcome of the conference until next week. The committee adjourned at 1 o'clock, not to meet again until next Monday.

E. N. Brown, chairman of the Pere Marquette board, said after the meeting that the whole matter of accepting the terms proposed by the Van Sweringen brothers was far from being settled. No special meeting of the Pere Marquette board will be called until the subcommittee has arrived at definite recommendations to be made to the directors.

CHAIN STORE BUSINESS CONTINUES UPWARD

Sales Increases by Four Companies in June Range From 9 to 52 Per Cent.

Reports of chain store system sales for June and the first half of the year continue to show good business. Increases by four companies reporting yesterday range from 9 to 52 per cent.

The S. S. Kresge Company reports June sales of $8,834,366, compared with $7,897,351 in the same month last year, a gain of 11.8 per cent. For the first six months of this year the sales reached $49,837,307, or a gain of 11.6 per cent. over the $44,654,910 reported in the same period of last year.

Sales of Childs Company for June reached $2,113,289, against $1,809,716 for June last year, an increase of 16.7 per cent. For the six months sales were $12,637,233, against $11,507,729 last year, an increase of 9.8 per cent. In June there were 4,098,007 meals served in 107 stores, as against 3,648,943 meals served in 105 stores in June, 1925.

June sales of Loft, Inc., were $601,194, against $502,949 in June last year. For the second quarter of this year the sales were $2,114,470, against $1,968,277 in the same quarter of last year.

J. I. Newberry Company reports sales for June of $758,188, an increase of 52.61 per cent. over June last year. For the first six months the sales were $3,504,833, an increase of 41.22 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Support for Lire Appears From a New Quarter—French and Belgian Heavy.

Business in the foreign exchanges yesterday was featured by an attempt to support the Italian lira through another bank than that which hitherto has looked after this detail. Up until early afternoon this cloaked buying was a success, and the rate had a vigorous run-up from Thursday, but at that period offerings appeared too plentiful to absorb and there was a sharp tumble downward. From a high of 3.58¼ cents, an overnight advance of close to 14 points, there was a dip to 3.46¾ cents at the close, which effaced all but two points of the earlier gain.

French and Belgian francs moved just as they had previously, onslaught of selling forcing both down for losses, although in the case of the French unit not far enough to establish a fresh low. The Belgian bill, however, touched a new point at 2.33½ cents, for a loss of 6 points. The decline in the Paris bill was 3¼ points, at 3.54¾ cents. It was a one-way market again, with 2 and 3 points interspersing sales in as many minutes. No one could vouchsafe the opinion that support of either bill was in operation.

Sterling was moderately easy in the preliminary trading, but later came back to $4.85⅛, unchanged. Scandinavians were an improved group, but Holland and Spanish were heavy. Far Easterns reacted, and in the South Americans a loss in the Brazilian followed reports of uneasiness in that country as a result of the recent boom in the milreis.

MILLER CO. DEFENDS ITS BOND PRACTICES

Statement Charges Inaccurate Analysis of Figures by Pennsylvania Official.

DEFAULTS BELOW NORMAL

Company to Reply in Court—Hopes Its License in State Will Be Restored.

G. L. Miller & Co., whose license to sell securities in Pennsylvania has been suspended by the Pennsylvania State Bureau of Securities, issued a statement yesterday outlining their position. Specific denial of several allegations made by Peter G. Cameron, Secretary of Banking, were made.

It was announced on July 1 that a group of labor bankers, trade union executives and business men had acquired control of the company and that G. L. Miller, its President, would retire from active management, his place to be taken by Luke J. Murphy, formerly executive Vice President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Trust Company.

The Company's Statement.

The statement authorized yesterday by G. L. Miller & Co. was as follows:

"We have just received a copy of the answer to our petition, which answer was filed yesterday by the Secretary of Banking in the Dauphin County Court.

"The filing of this answer is actually a victory for G. L. Miller & Co., as we have been in court since early in June in an endeavor to have the Bureau of Securities disclose the grounds upon which it acted in suspending our registration without stating cause, as was provided for in the law and which is an inalienable right, the violation of which is almost unprecedented.

"Although we made repeated requests for a statement of these grounds, such statement was continually denied us, and our action in court was for the very purpose now achieved by the filing of this answer.

"The Bureau of Securities has most evidently misinterpreted or misunderstood the data and records placed in its hands by us. There is absolutely nothing in that data or those records which would form a sustainable basis for the allegations made in this answer. As a matter of fact, a good part of these allegations, especially those referring to the 'one man control and domination of the company,' are irrelevant, due to the change in controlling interest of the company which was recently announced.

Says Figures Are Inaccurate.

"The figures given in the analysis of bond issues floated by this company are very inaccurate, and the terminology used in referring to them is such as might give a misleading impression of the actual situation. This undoubtedly is due to only partial understanding of the first mortgage real estate bond business.

"The inaccuracy of the figures quoted in the answer of the Secretary of Banking is clearly shown by a check-up of the company's records as of the same date used in the published analysis. At that time, instead of '$9,194,000 in bond issues being in default,' there were bond issues in arrears whose total par value was $3,559,000. Not all of this total of bonds can be said to have been in default, since the arrearages were temporary and partial in extent. When it is considered that the company's bond issues total $49,416,000, the amount of issues temporarily and partially being carried by the company represents a below-normal condition and one that should not give the investor the slightest cause for anxiety. Any one who has any knowledge of the real estate mortgage bond business knows that the underwriting of a large volume of bond issues necessarily results from time to time in certain delays and inconveniences which make it necessary for the company to temporarily protect its investors by meeting certain obligations. This is a duty which is not only being discharged by G. L. Miller & Co. but by every other reputable first mortgage bond house in the country.

Self-Supporting Bonds.

"Another inaccuracy and mistaken terminology is found in the answer of the Secretary of Banking, which claims bonds 'not in default and self-supporting' total but $6,407,000. Our records show that there were $29,627,000 in bond issues that were not in arrears but were in 100 per cent. good standing. The Secretary's answer further included an item 'bonds still carried by advance charges, $30,102,500.' How this figure was computed we do not know, as our records show a total of only $16,200,000 of bond issues upon which the interest is being paid by carrying charges arranged at the time the bonds were issued. This arrangement is customary and standard practice in the real estate mortgage bond field.

"We are at a loss to account for the reference to $3,712,000 in bonds as 'formerly in default,' as this is but an indication of an improvement in conditions which should no longer enter into the picture, since these bonds are not now in arrears. It may, however, be regarded as proof of the contention of this company that where it is necessary to meet arrearages the condition is only temporary and the company has discharged its obligations and adequately safeguarded the interest of the investors and all concerned.

"It is the accepted practice and the proud record of all first mortgage real estate bond houses to stand between their investors and any possible loss. This criticism of us is a criticism of the practice of protecting investors, which practice should not be condemned, but heartily commended, by all who have the interests of investors sincerely at heart. If, however, this be a practice on the part of G. L. Miller & Co. which is to be condemned, then every other first mortgage real estate bond house is to be likewise condemned.

"Now that we know for the first time upon what grounds the Bureau of Securities acted, we can speedily go about an adjustment of the difficulties, and confidently expect to demonstrate the true facts, so that our registration may be quickly reinstated in good standing.

Regrets Suit Was Necessary.

"We regret that we were compelled to appeal to the courts for assistance and for information to which the court has ruled we were entitled. There was a new point of law involved in the controversy, which undoubtedly appeared to the Bureau of Securities should be construed and decided by the court, and our action should not be regarded in any manner as an evidence of antagonism to the Bureau of Securities. It was, however, necessary, in justice to ourselves and in fairness to the thousands of investors whom we represent and whose interests we will protect to the limit of our ability and resources.

"We believe that we will be given an ample and fair opportunity to clear up these misunderstandings with the Bureau of Securities. Our reply will be made in due course and form to the bureau and to the court, and in the interim we will not endeavor in any way to try the case in the public press."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

With a few notable exceptions, stocks slipped into lower ground yesterday. The selling was not hasty, nor did it have the appearance of being excited; rather it was considered in the financial district as the natural week-end profit-taking after the considerable advances which have occurred. Steel common lost 2½ points and there were considerable losses in Allied Chemical, American Can, Chesapeake & Ohio, du Pont, Mack Trucks, Père Marquette, Union Oil of California and United States Rubber. The exceptions to the decline were to be found in J. I. Case Thrashing Machine, Brooklyn - Manhattan Transit, Dodge preferred, Fleischmann, Postum Cereal, Southern Pacific and Wheeling & Lake Erie. The opinion was expressed quite freely in Wall Street that, despite the declines, the market was giving a good account of itself. Stocks were well taken on the decline and the pools were described as being willing to fight the decline every quarter of the way.

Brokers' Loans and the Market.

The publication yesterday of the official totals of Stock Exchange loans, despite the material increase shown, were not a market factor of importance. As a matter of fact, the "sting" had been taken out of these figures, as far as the market was concerned, by their very reiteration. The first few publications became considerable factors in the market, but Wall Street is accustomed to them now and looks on a change of $25,000,000 or so up or down as nothing to worry about. As a matter of fact, it is doubted in the financial district if the brokers' loan reports will exert a material influence unless there is a great swelling or very marked decrease in the total. In other words, it would take an extreme condition one way or the other to affect financial sentiment to any extent.

California Starts Something.

Despite the distance, and the difficulties which attend trading in the stock market in New York because of the difference in time, Californians are reported to be a considerable market factor at present. They have been kicking up the dust in Union Oil of California and are now dabbling in California Packing and Postum Cereal. The business of Stock Exchange firms with branches on the Pacific Coast was said yesterday to have increased measurably in the last few weeks.

***

Steel Tonnage Report Today.

The United States Steel Corporation will make public at noon today its report of unfilled orders at the end of June. Estimates which usually command respect in the financial district point to a decrease of between 150,000 and 200,000 tons. The decrease at the end of May was 218,276 tons and at the end of April in excess of 500,000 tons. Indications are that the situation has not changed greatly since May. Deliveries by the Steel Corporation in June are believed to have averaged close to 45,000 tons a day for the twenty-six working days.

Sterling Tends to Yield.

Although most of the interest in yesterday's foreign exchange market was again in the franc, which first rose sharply, following the foreign lead, then lost all its gain before the close, a good deal of interest was taken in the very gradual sagging of sterling rates. Although yesterday's lowest rate of $4.85⅝ has been approximated recently, it is actually the lowest reached since two months ago. Attention was called to the fact that it was in the latter part of July last year that sterling similarly began to sell off. It had been at $4.86⅛ late in May, but it touched $4.85⅛ on the first day of July and $4.84⅞ before the month was over. Last year this gradual downward movement was preliminary to the considerable dip in rates during September and October, which resulted in the large outflow of gold from London, not only to other European points, but to New York. Interest in the present movement was naturally accentuated by the feeling that the British trade position must have been so shaken by the embargo on fuel that financial London will go into the season of heavy Autumn importations under a serious handicap.

To Strike or Not to Strike.

One of the organizations representing the labor unions questions the power of the new Mediation Board in settling a dispute when a railroad refuses to recognize and deal with a labor union and substitutes a company union for it. This very thing is likely to occur, railroad men said yesterday, in the present instance of the Western Maryland strike, which the management of that road has not recognized. Western Maryland officials have filled the ranks vacated by the striking employes and operation of the property continues uninterrupted. The unions, however, have laid plans to appeal to the Board of Mediation, and if the procedure prescribed by the new law is followed, there seems to be nothing left for the board but to report the matter to the President in order that a fact-finding committee may be appointed to investigate the cause of the grievances.

Volume of Bond Financing.

Persons in the financial district who are waiting to see whether bond financing is due for a seasonal decline, noted with interest yesterday that this week's volume showed a substantial decrease from that of last week. Signs of a decrease have been apparent for some time in the State and municipal field, and this trend continued during the week. Foreign financing also provided a contrast with recent large transactions in this field, but financing in the industrial group showed an increase.

Philadelphia and Its Railroads.

The Philadelphia newspapers have recently called upon the people of that city and of Pennsylvania to protect their railroads from absorption by the large trunk lines of the East. Whether this move was at all responsible for the rise of Reading common stock yesterday to the highest price since 1920 might be hard to tell, for it is pretty well established that the New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio are continuing to strengthen their position against a third party. The New York Central has entered with a "gentleman's agreement" to step aside for the B. & O., if the necessary material is available for rounding out the Central system.

Soliciting European Traffic.

General Atterbury and the principal traffic officer of the Pennsylvania Railroad have sailed for Europe on a mission combining business and pleasure. Among other things, it is believed that they intend to strengthen their traffic relations in London and Paris, which still provide a vast amount of long-haul movement for American railroads. It has been the custom in the past for large American firms to route both export and import traffic, but many railroad men see a tendency on the other side toward closer control of this privilege.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1926.

Stock Exchange call money continued firm at 4½ per cent., this despite withdrawals estimated at $20,000,000. Dealers said with the calling by the interior, just as much comes in from local sources and as demand is not very brisk sizable blocks are left unloaned each day. Time money tightened up, and for the first time on this movement 4½ per cent. was paid for six months' loans, while four months' was done at 4¾, and an occasional trade at 4½ per cent. Brokers reported a better inquiry, commercially, for money, evidenced by the current Reserve Bank statement and the withdrawals which country banks are making upon their balances here. Call loans against acceptances also hardened, moving up ½ to 4 per cent. Bank bills were unchanged.

NEW RULE MAY HELP BANKS GET BUSINESS

Elimination of the Compulsory Exchange Charge Expected to Bring Increase.

ACTUAL CASH LOSS IS SEEN

Large Clearing House Members Plan to Offset This by an Interest Adjustment.

Commenting yesterday on the amendment of the New York Clearing House constitution making it optional for member banks to charge for exchange and collection on checks drawn on out-of-town banks, William C. Potter, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, said:

"The change should enable members of the Clearing House to draw considerable banking business here from other cities. Undoubtedly it will be of great benefit to New York City banks.

"While charges for exchange and collection are optional under the new amendment, in practice it is to be expected that all out-of-town checks will be free of these charges. The only exceptions would be checks which, so to speak, are not routed in the ordinary way through Federal Reserve districts. On these member banks will be able to make charges."

Plan to Offset Loss.

Banks will largely offset their loss of revenue from exchange and collection charges by interest adjustment on sums deposited through checks drawn on out-of-town banks, it was explained yesterday. Thus, an amount deposited in a commercial interest-paying account through such a check will draw interest only after a lapse of time sufficient for the check to travel to and from the point at which it is payable. In other words, New York banks will be required to pay interest on sums thus deposited only after the amounts are actually in their possession.

The time schedule to be followed will be the same as that established by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to determine "when the proceeds of items will become available," it was said. Checks drawn on Boston, Philadelphia, Richmond, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Buffalo will receive interest one day after receipt; those drawn on such cities as Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis, Nashville and St. Louis, two days; El Paso, Denver, Salt Lake City and Seattle four days, and San Francisco and Los Angeles five days. The time on other distant cities will be eight days.

Cash Losses Up to $175,000.

The actual cash loss to New York banks as a result of lifting of exchange charges will vary from $36,000 to $175,000 annually it was estimated. One executive, however, said that the benefits would more than offset these apparent losses. As an instance, he said that as a result of the change one of his bank's out-of-town clients had agreed to increase his New York balance by $100,000.

The change in the exchange charge rule will also help members of the Clearing House to meet competition from non-members in New York City. This competition particularly affects banks with branches uptown and in outlying districts. It was said that banks doing business entirely in the downtown district would lose as a result of the new rule.

UNUSUAL INDUSTRY IN JUNE.

Electrical Reports Place It 12.6 Per Cent. Above Last Year.

Industrial activity of the nation was 12.6 per cent. greater in June than in the corresponding month last year, The Electrical World reports. June and July, it is said, are normally the low months in industrial activity, but this year has failed to follow the past in seasonal activity.

The rate of activity of general industry is based by the magazine on the monthly electrical energy consumption of some 1,700 large manufacturing plants in various industries. The returns indicate that in June general activity was 17.1 per cent. above the average monthly rate for the last three years.

JUNE CLEARINGS SHOW INCREASE OVER MAY

Total of $44,163,009,912 Heaviest Since April and the Largest June on Record.

Bank exchanges in June aggregated $44,163,009,912, an increase of 4.1 per cent. over May, and 2.1 per cent. over June, 1925. It was the first month since March that drawn checks at the principal clearing houses of the country exceeded the total in the preceding month. It was likewise the largest June on record, displacing the 1925 figure which previously had held this position.

All Federal Reserve districts reported substantial increases in June over May with the single exception of Atlanta, where the total fell 5 per cent. under May, and by comparison with June a year ago was lower by 2.4 per cent.

The jump in exchanges had been more or less forecast by the monthly and quarterly reports of some of the leading industrial corporations made public recently, these revealing mail-order and chain store sales running at sharp gains over earlier records. Purchases made for the Independence Day holiday, in advance of the observance of the day, swelled the total in the last week in June and helped in the increase.

New York City clearings reached a total of $24,194,989,584, which was 8 per cent. in excess of the May turnover, and 9.9 per cent. larger than that for June, 1925. Outside of New York there was an aggregate of $19,968,020,328 in drawn checks, an increase of 4.9 per cent. over May, and of 3.9 per cent. over June, 1925.

June clearings for the country as compiled by the Commercial and Financial Chronicle compare as follows with those of previous months and years:

TO EXCHANGE UTILITY STOCK

Worcester Gas and Electric Merger Plans Recommended.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 9 (AP).—The merger of the Worcester Electric Light Company and the Worcester Gas Light Company, authorized by the Legislature, will be carried through on the basis of an exchange of stock if the stockholders follow the recommendations of the two boards of directors and the terms are approved by the Public Utilities Commission.

The Worcester Electric Light Company will give one share of its stock for each two and one-half shares of the common stock of the gas company. The gas company has outstanding 82,000 shares of this stock of a par value of $25, or a total of $2,050,000. For this the stockholders will receive 32,800 shares of Electric Light stock of a par value of $820,000.

The Worcester Gas Light Company has outstanding common stock of $2,050,000 in 82,000 shares of $25 each. The Worcester Electric Company has a capital stock of $2,400,000, also in shares of $25 par value.

Insurance Co. to Increase Stock.

Proposal to increase the stock of the Northwestern National Insurance Company from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 has been made to stockholders, it was announced yesterday. The increase will be effected by offering $500,000 of stock at par to shareholders to be paid in four instalments during the year and the distribution of $500,000 of the stock in dividends.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS SHOW SHARP DROP

Offerings Amounted to Only $53,004,000 Against Last Week's $106,252,000.

UTILITIES AGAIN LEAD LIST

Florida Power and Light's $12,000,000 5s Largest Single Issue—Flat Next With $10,000,000.

The bond offerings this week aggregated only $53,004,000 against a total last week of $106,252,000 of which $61,500,000 were foreign issues.

The public utility group led the list in the amount of offerings. A $12,000,000 issue of 5 per cent. bonds due 1954 by the Florida Power & Light Company was not only the largest offering in this group, but the largest individual offering in any group. Other utility offerings totaled $3,500,000 of 5½s, $2,500,000 of 5s and $1,500,000 of 6½s.

The second largest offering, and the one that probably attracted most interest, was an issue of $10,000,000 Flat Company 7 per cent. twenty-year sinking fund debentures by J. P. Morgan & Co., First National Bank, National City Company, Guaranty Company, Bankers, Trust Company, Lee, Higginson & Co. and Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co. This was the first issue of its kind to emanate from Italy. The standing of the Fiat Company, which is Italy's largest industrial and one of the largest in Europe, together with the return on the bonds, and the speculative interest attaching to their accompanying stock-purchase warrants were features of this issue.

Offerings of bonds by groups this and last week compare as follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Public utility	$19,500,000	$18,300,000
Industrial	17,420,000	10,750,000
Foreign	13,000,000	61,500,000
State and municipal	3,084,000	10,562,000
Farm loan	.....	3,000,000
Railroad	.....	2,140,000
Total	$53,004,000	$106,252,000

Railroad financing, which recently provided two or three substantial offerings, did not appear in the week's offerings nor did the farm loan division.

The industrials provided some substantial offerings. A $8,720,000 issue of 6 per cent. sinking fund bonds of the Long-Bell Lumber Company led the list in this group and there was also a $4,250,000 issue of Braun Lumber Company serial gold 5½ per cent. notes.

Fourth Philadelphia-Camden Cable.

A fourth cable tie-in has been arranged between the Philadelphia Electric Company and the Public Service Electric and Gas Company to assure substantial auxiliary electric service in the southern part of New Jersey. The new cable will extend from the Delaware station of the Philadelphia company to the State Street sub-station of the Public Service Company in Camden.

The Central Union Trust Company has been appointed registrar for 16,000 shares Class A stock of People's Light and Power Corporation.

The Seaboard National Bank has been appointed co-transfer agent of Class A common (no par) stock of People's Light and Power Corporation.

The Chemical National Bank is prepared to deliver definitive White Sewing Machine Corporation 6 per cent. ten-year sinking fund debentures, due 1936, with permanent common stock purchase warrants attached, in exchange for outstanding temporary bonds and warrants.

LAWYERS MORTGAGE GAINS.

Half Year Was Best in Its History —Sales Were $44,716,573.

The semi-annual report of the Lawyers Mortgage Company, made public yesterday, shows that the six months ended June 30 were the most successful in the company's history. Sales of guaranteed mortgages, including extensions, were $44,716,573, and net gain in outstanding guaranteed mortgages $20,085,451.

Since the company was organized it has guaranteed $921,472,383 of mortgages, of which $653,165,082 have been paid in full, leaving outstanding $268,307,301.

Gold Mining Co. Has Deficit.

The Alaska-Juneau Gold Mining Company reports a deficit for June after expenses, interest, and capital expenditures, of $28,300. Gross earnings for the month were $137,500, as against $165,600 last year.

READING HITS PAR IN ACTIVE TRADING

Common Stock Moves Up to 50 for First Time Since 1920 —Buying a Puzzle.

For the first time since 1920 common stock of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad touched par yesterday in sales aggregating nearly 22,000 shares. On the one hand buying was attributed to the local pride of Philadelphians eager to maintain the independent status of the road and on the other to the Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central, which are making sure that no third railroad or railroad promoter obtains control of the Reading.

The New York Central tentatively agreed more than a year ago to allocate the Reading-Jersey Central lines to the Baltimore & Ohio. This action was taken at an informal conference with the Consolidation Committee of the Interstate Commerce Commission, attended by P. E. Crowley, Daniel Willard and J. J. Bernet of the Nickel Plate. Samuel Rea, as President of the Pennsylvania, refused to sign the agreement, which was contingent upon three other complete systems being formed.

The Lehigh & New England was to be continued as an open bridge route to New England, a plan which the Reading has upset by offering to lease it for 999 years.

The question now puzzling railroad men is whether the Baltimore & Ohio has suddenly taken an aggressive attitude in trunk line consolidation plans or if the buying of Reading and that road's petition to lease the Lehigh & New England are prompted by the public-spirited citizens of Philadelphia.

Birmingham Electric Net Rises.

Net income for May of the Birmingham Electric Company reached $187,594 after expenses, taxes, interest, &c., against $141,576 in May last year. Gross for the month was $770,859 and the net after taxes, $261,773. Interest, &c., were $76,511. Net income for the twelve months ended May 31 last was $2,197,815, against $1,842,059 in the preceding year. Gross was $9,007,276 and interest, &c., were $908,054. After preferred dividends of $246,754, a balance remained of $1,951,061.

Urania Crude Oil Advanced.

The Louisiana Oil and Refining Company yesterday advanced Urania crude oil 10 cents a barrel, to $1.25.

$5,460,000 DIVIDEND FOR NASH MOTORS

Board Declares $1 Semi-Annual, $1 Extra and Fixes 50-Cent Quarterly Policy.

NEW DIRECTORS ELECTED

Company Has Consolidated Net Income of $6,010,824 in the Second Quarter.

Special to The New York Times.

KENOSHA, Wis., July 9.—The Nash Motors Company will distribute profits of $5,460,000 to stockholders on Aug. 2, as a result of action taken today at the semi-annual meeting of directors here.

A regular dividend of $1 a share was declared and in addition an extra dividend of $1 a share plus the establishment of a regular 50-cent quarterly dividend as definite policy hereafter.

The company reported that for the second quarter of the 1926 fiscal year, covering the three months ended May 31, the net consolidated income of the Nash company and its subsidiaries was $6,010,824, making total earnings of $10,148,336 for the first six months.

Announcement was also made of the election of Earl H. McCarthy, Kenosha, and George C. Lee of Lee, Higginson & Co., Boston, as directors.

Charles W. Nash, President of the company, expressed himself as satisfied with the soundness of general business and with the prospects for a continuance in growth of Nash sales and in the expansion of plants of the company.

Postum Merger Rumor Doubted.

Because of the recent strength of Postum Cereal and California Packing, rumors have developed again in Wall Street that a merger between the two companies is a possibility. Banking and brokerage circles close to them doubt, however, that such negotations have been or will be undertaken, in as much as they failed last Fall. California Packing officials have been quoted as saying the company is not for sale.

SHARP GAINS MADE IN UNLISTED STOCKS

Industrials and Utilities Rise in Over-Counter Trading—Bank Shares Strong.

MARKET FIRM AT CLOSE

Johns-Manville Up 10 Points—Curtis Publishing Gains—Chain Stores Active.

The over-the-counter market was firmer yesterday and less irregular than in the last four or five days. There were sharp gains in some industrials and utilities and continued strength in bank shares. The market closed fairly strong.

Johns-Manville was the outstanding industrial feature of the early trading, rising 10 points, but later yielding several points. In response to the earnings statement published yesterday, Curtis Publishing common moved up 2 points and the preferred 1 point. West Virginia Pulp and Paper, Phelps Dodge, Atlas Portland Cement, Barnhart Brothers and Aeolian preferred were active performers. Small losses were registered by Gamewell Company, Allied Packers prior preferred, Borden Company, Ziely Processes and Great Northern Paper. The actives in the late trading were American Cyanamid, Rubberoid, Sheffield Farms, Van Camp Packing, Royal Baking Powder, Miller Train Control and Smith Corona Typewriter.

Among the utilities, Consolidated Traction advanced 3 points, while Bangor Railway and Electric preferred, Kentucky Securities preferred, New York Steam and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie each moved up a point. Many other issues in this section were active and strong all day.

Lawyers-Westchester Mortgage and Title went up 6 points in the early trading, Seaboard 5 points, Central National and New Netherlands, 3 points each, and American Exchange, Chase National and Liberty National 2 points each. Several issues lost in the late trading.

Chain stores shares were featureless, reflecting favorable June sales reports. Telephone and telegraph issues were generally firm as a result of the increase in gross earnings reported by seventy-one companies to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The insurance stocks were generally quiet.

UTILITY NOTES CALLED.

San Angelo Water to Retire 8 Per Cent. Issue on Sept. 1.

The San Angelo Water, Light and Power Company has called for payment on Sept. 1 next the entire issue of its ten-year 8 per cent. notes, due March 1, 1931, at 105 and interest.

The Connecticut River Company has called for payment on July 15, at 110 and interest, the full issue of its first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds, due Jan. 15, 1934. Bond tenders have been asked for an amount of the Bloomington & Normal Railway and Light Company's first and general mortgage 5 per cent. bonds, due Jan. 1, 1928, until July 21 next, at not exceeding 102½ and interest.

Bank Sues Paige-Detroit Car Co.

BOSTON, July 9 (AP).—Suit for $130,000 against the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company of Detroit was filed in the Suffolk Superior Court today by the Equitable Trust Company of New York. The bank, seeking to recover on a written guaranty of the punctual payment of all drafts, exchanges, notes and other commercial paper which it discounted, says the Paige-Detroit Company owes it $107,719 with interest.

Exchange's Money Turnover Heavy.

The official money statement issued by the Stock Exchange yesterday was as follows: "There was a heavy day's turnover but funds were available at all times and money was in supply at the close."

Oil Fire Prevention Body to Meet.

The General Committee on Fire Prevention of the American Petroleum Institute will hold its midsummer meeting at the Statler Hotel, St. Louis, July 22 and 23. Among seven topics listed for discussion will be the proposed regulations for the construction and operation of marine oil terminals. These are being prepared by the Committee on Flammable Liquids of the National Fire Protection Association, and this will be their first presentation for consideration by the petroleum industry.

PAPER CO. SECURITIES LISTED ON EXCHANGE

Committee Has Several Applications Pending—Three Companies Get Carb Privileges.

The Stock Exchange Committee on Stock List has listed Albany Perforated Wrapping Paper Company permanent certificates for preferred and common stocks. The temporary certificates will be stricken from the list on July 16.

The committee has pending applications to list the following securities:

New York Air Brake Company, 100,000 additional no par common shares.

Davison Chemical Company, $3,000,000 five-year 6% per cent. gold coupon debentures, due Jan. 1, 1931.

Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing Company, $7,000,000 additional $10 Class B shares.

American Machine and Foundry Company, $2,000,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred, non-voting, and 200,000 no par common shares.

City of Cologne, Germany, $10,000,000 twenty-five year 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold coupon bonds, municipal external loan of 1925, due March 15, 1950.

Seaboard Air Line Railway Company, $2,500,000 Seaboard & Roanoke Railroad Co. first mortgage 5 per cent. coupon bonds extended from July 1, 1926, to July 1, 1931.

The Sub-Committee on Securities of the Curb Exchange has removed 1,000,000 shares of the Bradford Mines, Ltd., from the list, and 150,000 shares of the John T. Connor Company from unlisted trading privileges. The following have been admitted to unlisted trading privileges:

Anglo-Persian Oil Company, Ltd., 8,950,000 shares ordinary stock par value £17,000,000, and 3 of 5 per cent. cumulative first preference stock, par value £1, and 3,500,000 shares of 9 per cent. cumulative second preference stock, par value £1.

Cincinnati and Suburban Bell Telephone Company, 600,000 authorized shares of $50 par capital stock.

Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company, 500,000 authorized shares of $100 par capital stock.

Postum Merger Rumor Doubted.

Because of the recent strength of Postum Cereal and California Packing, rumors have developed again in Wall Street that a merger between the two companies is a possibility. Banking and brokerage circles close to them doubt, however, that such negotations have been or will be undertaken, in as much as they failed last Fall. California Packing officials have been quoted as saying the company is not for sale.

CONDITIONS IN TRADE AND INDUSTRY FAIR

Slackening in Some Quarters, Due to Summer Let-Down, Weekly Reviews Say.

CROPS CONTINUE BETTER

Attacks of Insects on Cotton Being Combated — Steel Mills Are Active.

The state of trade and industry today is varying, with a slight deterring effect in wholesale and retail trade caused by the holidays and with industrial operations for the most part continuing at strong, high levels, except in the few cases where the Summer let-down has occurred, but even this latter has in no case been of a serious nature.

Crops continue to improve as a result of the continuing good weather and a heavy marketing of wheat in the Southwest has aided trade somewhat. Business in the Northwest, however, has been quieted by the Spring wheat situation. Cotton has reported considerable damage to the crop by insects, but on the whole it is improving gradually. Corn has been backward. The steel mills are active with a good degree of new orders and a greater strength to scrap. June building has increased somewhat over May and last year, but the first half-year total shows a slight sagging.

Dun's Weekly Review of Trade comments on the situation as follows:

"The mixed business conditions which still prevail do not obscure the fact that favorable phases have recently become more numerous and that sentiment has improved. Holidays and semi-annual inventorying naturally checked activities, yet in certain important lines there has been less than the usual mid-year let-down. This is conspicuously true of the steel industry, where demand for several weeks has been unexpectedly large, and the heavy pig iron sales have continued to be a feature at different centres, notably in the Middle West. Some buyers of that basic material, finding present prices attractive, have extended their commitments through the fourth quarter, while relatively low quotations in some other channels also have stimulated purchases.

Freight Traffic and Bank Clearings.

"All previous records of railroad freight traffic at this time of year continue to be exceeded, while this week's bank clearings at cities outside of New York are moderately above those for the corresponding period of 1925. Commercial results for the first six months have not in all instances met early forecasts, but have been encouraging on the whole, despite the handicap of an abnormally late Spring. In recent weeks agricultural prospects have become distinctly more favorable."

Bradstreet's says:

"Retail trade was apparently slowed down by the holidays, and in spite of warmer weather and numerous reduction sales was about equal to a year ago. Wholesale distribution was also quiet, although there was a fair amount of business done in the small lots. Future buying was light, however, retailers being disposed to await further crop developments and price movements, particularly in textiles, before placing orders. An effort to stimulate trade was seen in the opening of the Spring woolen lines for 1927 by the principal producer nearly three weeks ahead of the usual date, with prices about 9 per cent. below those quoted for 1926.

"The steel mills are operating at a higher rate than is usual at this time of year, with the holiday suspensions short; new orders, especially for structural goods and pipe line supplies, are fairly heavy and scrap prices are again tending upward. Sheets, however, are dull and pig iron sales somewhat smaller. Automobile plants have further curtailed production for inventories, and the number of men employed at Detroit is 23,000 below a year ago. Building in June exceeded May by 4 per cent., but the gain over a year ago was only 1.10 per cent. For the first six months of 1926 a decrease in building of 2.6 per cent. is shown under the like period of last year."

NEW BARNSDALL OIL WELL.

1,000-Barrel Flow Obtained In Padleford Sand—Other Operations.

In a stratum from which it had been considered physically impossible to produce oil, the Barnsdall Corporation has brought in its Rosencrans No. 4 in the Padleford sand in California at 3,960 feet with a daily capacity of 1,000 barrels of clean oil and 2,000,000 feet of gas, it was announced yesterday.

The Transcontinental Oil Company has brought in its Ross well on the Nigger Creek structure southwest of the Mexia field in Texas with an initial flow of 500 barrels daily. The well was later reported flowing at the rate of 3,000 barrels daily.

The Gulf Oil Corporation has completed well No. 23 Lopez for initial production of 5,000 barrels at 1,630 feet and well No. 26 Lopez for 1,500 barrels at 1,695 feet.

The Shaffer Oil and Refining Company has brought in its Laughlin well No. 10, near Tulsa, Okla., with an initial capacity of 2,000 barrels.

Grain Traders to Meet.

A meeting will be held Monday afternoon of all members of the Produce Exchange interested in trading in grain futures. Consideration will be given to the rules proposed for regulating grain futures trading at New York, with delivery at Buffalo.

CURTIS AEROPLANE GOES TO $7 BASIS

Dividend Increased $1 a Share —20% Stock Distribution by Electro Controller.

Several companies declared other than the regular dividends yesterday. The most outstanding was a semi-annual payment of $3.50 a share on the 25,231 participating preferred stock of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, which represents an increase of $1 a share a year and places the stock on a $7 annual basis.

This increase absorbs the full 7 per cent. preference value of the stock, but under the participation feature it shares with the common stock in additional earnings up to 42 per cent.

The Melville Shoe Corporation declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents on the common and 2 per cent. on the preferred. In the preceding quarter an extra payment of 50 cents was made on the common.

The Electric Controller and Manufacturing Company announced payment of a 20 per cent. stock dividend on Aug. 1 to stock of record July 20.

A dividend of $1.70 has been declared on Central Union Trust Company receipts for American shares of De Beers Consolidated Mines Company, Ltd.

The Standard Publishing Company omitted the regular quarterly dividend for the June quarter, in order to turn those funds back into the business. Owing to a depression in trade, Baldwin's Iron and Steel Company of London passed final dividends on both classes of preference stock.

$4,250,000 IN LUMBER NOTES

Offering Is to Finance Detroit Merger—Utility Issue Sold.

To finance the consolidation of four companies with sixteen lumber yards in Detroit and its suburbs, the Security Trust Company, Detroit Company, Inc. (correspondent of the Detroit Trust Company), First National Company of Detroit, Bank of Detroit and Nicol, Ford & Co., Inc., are offering $4,250,000 of Braun Lumber Corporation serial 5½ per cent. gold notes. They are offered at a price to yield 5 to 5.50 per cent. and mature serially from 1927 to 1937.

The companies involved are the Braun Lumber Company, Arthur L. Holmes Lumber and Fuel Company, Hartwick Lumber Company and the William P. Ternes Company. Fisher & Co. has guaranteed principal and interest.

The Georgia-Carolina Electric Company has sold to Redmond & Co. and J. G. White & Co., Inc., $1,500,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent. gold notes due 1929. Public offering will be made soon.

UNION OIL NET INCREASES.

Six Months' Income $6,200,000, Equal to $1.63 a Share Earned.

For the six months ended June 30, last, the Union Oil Company of California reports net income of $6,200,000, after interest, depreciation, depletion, Federal taxes, &c., equivalent to $1.63 a share (par $25), earned on $94,500,000 of capital stock. This compares with $5,900,000, or $1.56 a share in the first half of 1925.

Gross after Federal taxes and interest was $12,250,000, against $11,800,000 in the same period of last year.

Net income for the quarter ended June 30 reached $3,500,000, or 92 cents a share, comparing with $2,700,000, or 71 cents a share in the preceding quarter.

Small Fire In Woolworth Building.

Fire was discovered in the elevator switch room on the forty-third floor of the Woolworth Building at 3:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fire crept along insulation a few feet, but had been extinguished when firemen went up in elevators. The ground-floor lobby was crowded with persons who followed the firemen into the building. None of the tenants became excited.

Loses $5,000 in Bonds.

Hamilton C. Platt of 144 Sylvan Place, Leonia, N. J., a obnd salesman for G. L. Miller & Co., reported the loss of $5,000 in first mortgage bonds to the police of Hoboken yesterday morning. He said a brief case containing the bonds had disappeared from the running board of his automobile on the way to Jersey City on the previous evening.

Palestine Has £1,200,000 Surplus.

JERUSALEM, July 9 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The fiscal year just closed shows a Palestine Government surplus of £1,200,000, according to an official report. The profits netted by the railways amount to £100,000. It is understood that the British Government probably will claim a part of the surplus for money advanced on account of a future loan.

Italian Rentes Advance.

The Italian Government consolidated 5 per cent. rentes closed yesterday in Rome at 91.75, against a previous closing of 89.10, according to cable advices to the National Institute of Exchange from Count Volpi, Italian Minister of Finance.

8.7% GAIN FOR WEEK IN BANK CLEARINGS

Total of 23 Cities Reporting $8,650,710,000, Compared With $7,958,071,000 Last Year.

NEW YORK CITY GAIN, $10.1%

Report Includes Transactions for Only Five Days Owing to the Holiday.

Bank clearings this week, reported for only five days owing to the holiday on Monday, amounted to $8,650,710,000, an increase of 8.7 per cent. over the corresponding five-day period a year ago, when the amount was $7,958,071,000. Clearings at New York City aggregated $5,230,000,000, against $4,750,000,000 last year, a gain of 10.1 per cent. The total for twenty-two principal cities outside New York was $3,420,710,000, an increase of 6.6 per cent. over the five days in 1925.

Of the twenty-two outside cities sixteen showed increases for the week, the best gains being at Boston, Baltimore and Los Angeles. The largest decreases were at Minneapolis, Atlanta and Louisville. For July to date the average daily clearings are 2.1 per cent. in excess of the average for the corresponding period of 1925.

Will Study the Cotton Industry.

The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants will undertake an experimental research program to develop the facts about the industry. Bertram H. Borden is Chairman of the committee which has the investigation in charge.

WOOL PRICES STEADY.

Ten Per Cent. Cut on Light Goods by Woolen Company Has Little Influence.

BOSTON, July 9 (F).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"While trading in wool this past week has been only moderate, there has been a fair volume of wool sold and prices have remained fully firm, despite the unsettling factors of strikes both in this country and abroad, the opening of light-weight lines for next season at unexpectedly low prices and the imminence of the London Colonial auctions, next Tuesday. Activity in the West has narrowed, largely owing to the fact that the clip is getting well cleared from first hands, especially west of the Mississippi River.

"The opening of lightweight lines by the American Woolen Company at a 10 per cent. reduction in prices on the average over a year ago was the outstanding development of the week and, while the prices are lower than expected, the fact that prices are guaranteed against further reductions should be a stabilizing influence of great value.

"Foreign markets are hardly changed. Merinos are expected to open firm at London on Continental support, while crossbreds, due to the continued English coal strike, offer a problem."

FIND BUSINESS FUTURE GOOD

Dodge Brothers Dealers Report Heavy Demand for Auto Equipment.

Reports received by Dodge Brothers, Inc., from its nation-wide organization of dealers indicate that manufacturing and commercial interests generally are looking forward to a continuance of the prosperity which has marked the first half of 1926. Purchases of motor truck equipment in the United States, shown by the retail deliveries of Graham Brothers, were larger last week than in any previous week in the company's experience. A total of 888 trucks were delivered to customers, against 746 during the previous top week ended May 1.

Dealers report that the heavy current demand for trucks has resulted from increasing confidence of purchasers in the continuation of good business, justifying additions to and replacements of their equipment.

SLOWER WEEK IN DRY GOODS

Neither Current Nor Road Sales Up to Those of Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was slightly less than last year during the corresponding period.

"Road sales did not quite reach the total of the same week a year ago.

"There was about the same number of customers in market as during the corresponding week in 1925.

"Collections were about equal to the same period last year."

RUBBER HOLDS FIRM ON STRONG CABLES

March Position the Feature With 60-Point Gain—Trading in Street Market Quiet.

Prices of crude rubber futures showed a firm undertone again yesterday, and many selling orders were absorbed in easy manner. Quotations at the close were down 10 points to 60 points up. Total sales involved 217 lots.

There were many switches from near-by to early Winter months. March was the outstanding feature, with a gain of 60 points, with September, old, and January up half a cent. December, new, was firm at the outset but closed 10 points off.

Brokers attributed the continued strength of prices to London cables showing spot sheets up ⅛d at 20⅛d, together with favorable local reports on the arrivals for the next week. Singapore was also firm.

The range of prices for the active deliveries here was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Thursday's Close.

Larchmont Bank in Community Trust.

The Larchmont National Bank and Trust Company has been added to the list of trustees of the New York Community Trust. This marks the third time an institution outside of New York City has been taken into the trust, the other two instances being last week when the Westchester Title and Trust Company and the County Trust Company of White Plains were affiliated.

OIL MINORITY LOSES ITS $3,279,081 AWARD

Atlantic Refining Gets Reversal of Decision in Superior Stockholders' Suit.

CASE ORDERED DISMISSED

Federal Court of Appeals Finds No Evidence of Fraud by the Appellant Company.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals set aside today the $3,279,081 damage award to the minority stockholders of the Superior Oil Corporation against the Atlantic Refining Company, and ordered Judge Hugh M. Morris of the Federal District Court of Delaware, before whom the case was tried, to dismiss the suit.

At the same time the Court overruled Judge Morris's decision invalidating a ten-year contract, dated from June, 1920, under which the Atlantic company was to purchase Superior's entire petroleum output. The decision by the Court of Appeals was unanimous.

Judge Morris had held that the Atlantic Refining Company, with the aid of Robert M. Catts, President of the Superior Corporation, had fraudulently obtained 325,000 shares of no-par stock at $8 a share while it was being sold to others at $16 to $19. Judge Morris also had upheld the contention that the ten-year contract had been obtained by fraud.

The decision of the Court of Appeals, written by Judge Joseph Buffington, calls attention to the fact that the Superior majority stockholders were opposed to the suit against the Atlantic Refining; that the bankers' syndicate, which paid $16 a share for the stock, and the Old Dominion Oil Company, which turned over properties worth $5,000,000 to the Superior on the basis of $16 a share, were not complaining, and that of the more than 90,000 shares of stock issued by the Superior only 10,000 shares were represented in the minority suit.

In conclusion, Judge Buffington said the evidence did not support the charges that the Atlantic Refining had been involved in any fraud and that if Mr. Catts had manipulated the stock of the Superior Corporation he had done so without the knowledge of the Atlantic Refining executives.

SPECIALTIES GIVE LIFE TO TRADING ON CURB

Main List Quiet, However—Bucyrus and Johns-Manville Up 16 and 8 Points, Respectively.

Ignoring a tendency toward softness which permeated the main price list on the Curb Exchange yesterday, several specialty issues forged to the front on active dealings and imparted some enthusiasm to a market that otherwise moved in listless fashion. Johns-Manville, showing complete recovery from its recent weakness, ran up 8 points to 163 and thereby carried off major honors. Borne & Scrymser continued its rise and made a new high for the year at 256. U. S. Gypsum also registered new tops and Ford Motor of Canada ran up 4 points to 502. Bucyrus, a wide mover, jumped 16 points to 240.

Independent oils were firm. Public utilities did nothing out of the ordinary nor did Standard Oil securities, although the price tendency was easier. News from Tampico that Gulf Oil had brought in two large wells failed to move that stock.

Coal stocks ruled quiet as did motors and rubber shares. Radio, theatre and motion picture issues were dull but selling developed in Standard Publishing which sold off to a new low at 9. Courtaulds Ltd. also was pressed for sale and dropped 3 points to 29⅝.

Aside from activity in Transcontinental Oil 7s no important fluctuations occurred in either the domestic or foreign bond departments.

DURRELL IN COLOMBIA.

Arrival of Banker Revives Report of $80,000,000 Loan Plan.

BOGOTA, Colombia, July 9 (AP).—The arrival here of J. H. Durrell, Vice President of the National City Bank, New York, accompanied by his secretary, has given rise to reports of an $80,000,000 loan to the Government on the change of administration in Colombia, Aug 7. At that time Miguel Abadia Mendez will take the office of President, to which he was elected last February, succeeding General Pedro Nel Ospina.

The subject of a loan to be used for public works and railroad construction was brought before the last Congress, but discussion was postponed because of the political situation preliminary to the Presidential election.

BUS HEARINGS IN 13 CITIES.

I. C. C. Inquiry to Be On All Summer—In New York Sept. 10.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Hearings on motor bus transportation systems will be held by members of the Interstate Commerce Commission in thirteen cities in various parts of the country during July, August and September.

Commissioner Aitchison and Examiner Flynn will conduct the hearings in Portland, Ore., Aug. 7, and in San Francisco, Aug. 12. Commissioner Esch and Examiner Flynn will conduct the hearings in Chicago, July 27; St. Paul, July 30; Los Angeles, Aug. 17; Denver, Aug. 25; Detroit, Sept. 1; Boston, Sept. 8; New York, Sept. 10; Asheville, N. C., Sept. 15; Dallas, Sept. 20; Kansas City, Sept. 24, and Washington, Sept. 29.

AUSTRALIA HAS SURPLUS.

New Auto Taxes Imposed to Build Roads.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 9 (AP).—Treasurer E. C. G. Page introduced a budget in the House of Representatives today, showing a surplus for last year of £287,000 in addition to £2,500,000 paid into the trust fund for special services.

Provision is made in the budget for raising a loan of £2,000,000 for transferring the Parliament to Canberra.

The budget imposes increases in taxation of two-pence on a gallon of gasoline, 15 per cent. on automobile tires and 2½ per cent. on motor chassis. The increase will yield £1,500,000 yearly and will be used for a ten-year £35,000,000 road construction program.

ALTON'S VALUATION PUT AT $53,454,000

Commerce Body Fixes Property Used at $75,960936 as of June 30, 1919.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—The old unregulated days of railroad financing were recalled today by the announcement of the Interstate Commerce Commission, placing the tentative valuation of the owned transportation property of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Company at $53,454,000 and that of its total property used at $75,960,936, based upon conditions as of June 30, 1919.

These figures confirm a fact which the markets have registered for years —that the Alton was greatly overcapitalized in the Harriman reorganization of 1900. The company is now in the hands of receivers, having defaulted on its $22,000,000 first lien 3½s. These were the bonds issued in 1900.

When the original Chicago & Alton Company was acquired in 1900 by Mr. Harriman and his associates, its road and equipment were listed at $46,630,195, which, with allowance for additions made since, appears conservative. It had a capital stock of only $18,751,100 common stock, $3,479,000 preferred stock and $18,583,850 bonds, plus $1,500,000 of Joliet & Chicago stock outstanding. Its balance sheet presented an unusual opportunity for new financing, one item of $18,583,650 being listed as "uncapitalized expenditures for construction," while the accumulated surplus stood at $2,229,019.

The new company of 1900, on acquiring the capital stock of the predecessor corporation, issued $19,543,000 preferred stock and $19,543,000 common stock, besides the $22,000,000 bonds.

Years ago the financial methods by which the old Alton was converted into an overcapitalized concern were investigated by the Federal Government, and Mr. Harriman contended at that time that values and accumulated earnings of the old company provided a proper basis for the capital structure of the new.

COTTON PRICES RISE IN ACTIVE MARKET

Apprehension Increases Over the Crop Outlook Due to Rains in Cotton Belt.

An increasing degree of apprehension over the crop outlook owing to persistent showery weather caused the most active cotton market of the year and prices rose sharply over half a cent yesterday.

After opening up 15 to 30 points, quotations advanced steadily and closed at the top at a net gain of 47 to 60 points. While the actual territory receiving moisture proved less extensive than during the previous two days, precipitation was greater than usual at this season of the year and predictions were for a continuation of showers over the greater portion of the belt today. Spot quotations at Southern markets were advanced 38 to 63 points and spot cotton in New York is quoted at 19.05.

Though sentiment in foreign circles has been slow to respond to recent developments in the South owing to disturbed industrial conditions abroad, the receipt of insect reports from so many sections influenced the course of Liverpool yesterday. A sharp rise of $2 a bale carried October contracts on the foreign exchange to 9d. and this brought active arbitrage buying in the local market.

Action of Liverpool, combined with eleventh hour covering of July obligations prior to the expiration of trading at noon today and the execution of overnight buying orders from commission house sources, furnished the largest volume of business of the season. July opened at an advance of 30 points or more, and under steadily increasing demand rose 60 points before the close of the session.

New crop deliveries were active from the opening call, houses with Southern connections buying heavily, particularly from sections where insect complaints have been most severe. Orders appear to be well distributed throughout the list from October to May, and frequently during the course of the day October, December and January were quoted at about the same figure.

After absorbing all contracts for sale on the basis of 17 cents, which represented a rise of a cent a pound from low levels of Tuesday, a further sharp gain of a quarter of a cent carried May above 17½ cents. Realizing operations developed the last hour, but without material influence on the course of prices.

OKLAHOMA GAS CO. SOLD.

Purchaser Is Understood to Be Pope Richardson & Co.

TULSA, Okla., July 9 (AP).—Sale of the Oklahoma Natural Gas Company was announced here today after a meeting of stockholders.

M. C. Sharp, Vice President and General Manager, said 86 per cent. of the stock was represented and that the decision to sell was unanimous. Terms of the sale as outlined in a recent letter to stockholders will be followed out exactly, he added. In this letter it was promised that $7,870,000 would be paid in cash for the company's properties with $12,500,000 more to be first mortgage bonds and by 26,000 shares of common stocks in the new company, formed to operate the properties.

Mr. Sharp did not name the purchaser, but it is understood to be the New York banking firm of Pope Richardson & Co.

SOVIET INDUSTRY FAILS IN PRODUCTION

Head of Economic Council Says Basic Capital and Trained Labor Are Disappearing.

OFFERS PARTIAL SOLUTION

Urges Elimination of Waste in Energy and Red Tape Hampering the Machine.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company. By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, July 9.—Félix Dzerjinsky head of the Supreme Soviet Economic Council, has just made a speech which may be qualified as an event of first-class importance, because he not only expresses with great frankness the present economic difficulties of Russia and the official Government attitude thereto, but makes an open attack upon the "heresies" of the so-called "opposition" leaders, and commits himself beyond any shadow of doubt to full support of the Government policies.

M. Dzerjinsky puts the economic position of the Soviet Union thus:

The "basic capital," that is, the whole of the apparatus of production taken by the revolution from the former leaders, is being utilized to the limit and is being used up. This also applies to the national stock of skilled workers trained by the former bourgeois industry. Simultaneously it is evident that production is utterly insufficient for the needs of the country. "There is a most immense and prodigious goods famine," is Dzerjinsky's phrase.

Necessary to Provide Trained Workers.

Therefore, it is necessary to proceed without delay to meet the industrial requirements and to adopt an intensive training of new workers. The latter point is as important as the influx of 400,000 untrained workers into industry, as these have materially lowered the average individual production.

But who is to bear the cost of meeting the industrial requirements? This vital question Dzerjinsky does not answer, which, perhaps, is not the least interesting feature of his whole speech. But he does say who should not bear it. It must not, he declares, be carried out at the expense of the peasants, who already have borne the heaviest share of the revolution.

Professor Alexander Preobajensky, one of Russia's leading economists and educators, who formed one of the Trotsky "opposition" in the Winter of 1923-1924, has advanced the theory that the burden should be put on the peasants. His views are supported openly or secretly by others.

This speech by M. Dzerjinsky is the first public allusion by one of the Government leaders to the recent activities and doctrines of the groups whose policies were rejected by the last two Communist Party congresses, and who, generally speaking, tend to favor the urban proletariat rather than the peasants; while the present official Government policy is directed toward redressing the balance for the peasants' benefit. These groups have not abandoned their struggle, and though it is perhaps an exaggeration to suggest that they are attempting to make an open bid for the workers' support, they have been the subject of this criticism.

M. Dzerjinsky reminded his hearers that in the Fall of 1923, when the disproportion between the prices of goods and agricultural products reached an apex, the peasants simply stopped buying and goods cluttered up the warehouses and stores until prices were markedly lowered. The same would occur again if it was attempted to increase the peasants' burden.

Prices 300 Per Cent. Higher.

As it is, in many cases goods are three times dearer in their relation to food prices than before the war. Nor will the Soviet State admit the "Menchevik heresy" held by Socialists abroad and certain persons here, that a new bourgeoisie may be built up from persons in private enterprise and the richer peasants to bear the cost of industrial requirements, or undertake it themselves. This may suit the capitalist countries, but won't go here.

The only solution Dzerjinsky offers is an improvement in administrative methods, the elimination of "unheard of" red tape and waste of time and labor which is now clodding the industrial machine. It is true, he says, that there is an excess of workers in the shops. This is impractical to a degree, and they had better be unemployed or working shorter shifts. But that problem is inconsiderable compared with the enormous waste of energy and red tape, of which he gives several instances.

Though Dzerjinsky does not formulate a direct answer to his question of who will bear the cost of industrial re-equipment, it is clear, he says, that efficient management would enable industry itself to do it.

This may be true in theory, but the problem of supplying goods at reasonable prices and in adequate quantity to the peasants will come to a head this Fall. The problem of replacing worn-out machinery is scarcely less urgent, whereas the task of putting industry on a thoroughly efficient basis may require years.

LEFT ESTATE TO MRS. GRANT

Adrian C. Honore Willed More Than $1,000,000 to Sister.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Most of the estate of more than $1,000,000 of the late Adrian C. Honore, real estate operator and a brother of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer, was left in trust to his sister, Mrs. Ida Honore Grant, widow of Frederick Dent Grant, according to the will filed today. Mr. Honore died at the age of 79 in Tampa., Fla., last Tuesday.

A bequest of $500 went to Princess Julia Grant Cantacuzene. Mr. Honore declared that the Princess "has been most amply provided for by my sister, Bertha Honore Palmer."

The remainder of the estate, consisting of $90,000 in Chicago real estate, and property in Florida, valued at $1,000,000, was left in trust to Mrs. Grant, widow of the late Major Gen. Frederick D. Grant. She and her son, Ulysses S. Grant III, are to act as trustees.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Spot Cotton Goes to 19.05 Cents, Highest in Two Months—Grains Up.

A jump of 35 points in spot cotton, to 19.05 cents, featured yesterday's wholesale markets. This is the highest level in two months, and followed a series of advances for the contract grades, as these received the benefit of higher cables, better demand from the trade, and reports of boll weevil damage.

Cash grains also rallied for some sharp advances. Other articles were firm and unchanged.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities, in the New York market unless otherwise noted, were:

WHEAT MARKETS REACH NEW MARKS

Gains Nearly 3 Cents at Chicago and Kansas City and 4 at Minneapolis.

EXPORT CONTINUES SLOW

Rock Island Moves 6,000 Cars of Grain From Southwest — Other Grains, Except Corn, Up.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Wheat values were on the upgrade after an easy start and advanced to a new high on the present movement, finishing with net gains of 1⅞@2⅜ cents, July leading. The latter showed independent strength and closed 1 cent over the September, against ½ cent over on the previous day. There was heavy buying by shorts and also by commission houses, as well as reinstating of lines recently sold out, and the surplus in "the Pit" was quickly absorbed. Sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves on the way up.

So far this week the Rock Island Railroad has handled around 6,000 cars of grain in the Southwest. Cash wheat premiums were firm in all markets except St. Louis, which was 2 cents lower, and mills are aggressive buyers. Minneapolis led the advance and closed 2@3⅞ cents higher on futures, while Kansas City gained 2½@2¾ cents. Liverpool was up ⅛@⅝ pence. The July has advanced 9¼ cents from the low of last week.

The recent private reports suggested a Winter wheat crop of 562,000,000 bushels, against 543,000,000 in June, while the Spring wheat was placed at 207,000,000, or 9,000,000 bushels under the June figures. Anything under the private estimates would probably be regarded as bullish, and anything over the reverse. Northwestern messages indicate that there has been further deterioration in Spring wheat since the first of the month, which will not show up in the report.

The rapidity with which the cash wheat moving in the southwest is being absorbed by mills is a factor of no mean importance as far as the July delivery is concerned, and elevator interests and exporters have, to some extent, withdrawn from the market, as the premiums have not declined as much as expected.

In parts of the Canadian provinces damage is showing up in the way of white heads as the result of the recent extreme heat, but taken as a whole the reports are generally very good.

Movement in the southwest shows a tendency to decrease. In part, this is due to the heavy rains in parts of Kansas, the holding tendency on the part of farmers and the car shortage.

Export demand was again disappointing, with sales of 300,000 bushels hard Winter in all positions. It was said on good authority that 2,000,000 bushels of Manitobas had been sold on direct offers to England the past week. At the Gulf first and last half August were quoted at 3½ cents over Chicago September.

Primary arrivals were 1,941,000 bushels; week ago, 1,780,000; last year, 1,218,000. Shipments were 1,116,000 bushels; week ago, 647,000; last year, 955,000.

Closing of spreads between wheat and corn, the latter being sold, was largely responsible for the rather easy finish, with prices unchanged to ½ cent lower on corn, the former on the July, which gained about ¼ cent on the September. There were also buying of September and selling of December by commission houses.

Eastern cash demand was better, with sales of 260,000 bushels in all positions, and it was estimated that 200,000 bushels had been booked to arrive during the day.

Primary arrivals were 386,000 bushels; week ago, 470,000; last year, 193,000, and shipments, 424,000 bushels; week ago, 482,000; last year, 504,000.

Oats closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher, with trade largely in the way of changing between the various deliveries.

Houses with seaboard connections and local interests were good buyers of rye, and the close was 2¼@2⅝ cents higher, with unfavorable crop reports from the Northwest again a factor.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

PLOTS DOMINATE THE BRONX MARKET

Vacant Parcels Lead Sales, With Several Buyers Announcing Housing Improvements.

RITCHEY ESTATE SELLS

Holding Company Plans Six-Story Elevator Apartment for Pelham Parkway Site.

Vacant parcels again dominated the Bronx market yesterday with brokers reporting a good demand for properties fronting on Pelham Parkway. Several plot buyers announced their intentions of improving their purchases with multi-family houses.

The Ritchey Estate sold the plot at the southeast corner of Pelham Parkway and Wilson Avenue and including the corner of Neil Avenue, to the Ackey Holding and Operating Corp., through Fred G. Hamitsch, as broker.

The plot which is in both a residential and business zone, comprises about six and one-half lots and has a frontage of 100 feet on the Bronx and Pelham Parkway, 190 feet on Wilson Avenue and 58 feet on Neil Avenue.

The purchasers, who have refused an offer of substantial profit for their tract, are having plans prepared for a six-story elevator apartment house, which will contain stores on the Neil Avenue frontage.

Hymor Realty Company sold to a client of Weschler & Kohn, a plot of more than sixteen lots bounded by Britton Street, Barker Avenue and Olinville Avenue, at the entrance to Bronx Park. The plot has a frontage of 271 feet on Barker Avenue, 261 feet on Olinville Avenue and 167 feet on Britton Street. It is planned to improve the plot with a six-story apartment house.

A. G. Masucci Corporation sold for Margaret M. Grady the vacant parcel of land on the easterly side of St. George Crescent, 75 feet north of 206th Street; size 25 by 101 feet. This is the first sale of the property in twenty-two years. A resale is pending.

A client of J. Tobias Goldberg sold No. 2,904 Valentine Avenue to Patrick G. Regan. It is a two-family house to be occupied by the purchaser. O'Hara Brothers were the brokers.

A client of J. Tobias Goldberg sold 2,110 and 2,112 Bryant Avenue, two two-family houses, on a plot 34 by 100 feet.

John J. Ferrara sold for Samuel Sodowitz the southeast corner of Edison and Middletown Road, 75 by 100 feet.

M. J. Culligan, Inc., as brokers, sold for Anna J. Schroeder to M. De Cillis, a two-family dwelling, 2,521 Sedgwick Avenue, on plot 37 by 100 feet.

The same broker sold for K. Halihan to Joseph O'Neill two-family dwelling, 2,661 Heath Avenue, 50 by 100 feet.

Mary Packer sold to N. C. Suskin, 75 by 100 feet, on Golden Avenue in the Morris Park section. Connaughton & Stanton were the brokers.

Herman A. Acker Corporation leased for a client to Rice, Weaver, Ladew, Inc., the property at the southwest corner of East Fordham Road and Belmont Avenue, being a plot 25 by 147 feet, upon which the lessee will erect a one-story building to be used for a showroom and service station. The lease is for a long period of years.

MANON LEASES IN WALDORF.

Hatter Takes Peacock Alley Space —Other Business Rentals.

Manon, operating a number of shops for the sale of women's hats in the principal cities of the United States, has leased one of the new stores in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. This store, in addition to having an entrance on Thirty-fourth Street, also has an entrance and show window on the corridor of the Hotel known as Peacock Alley. Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., negotiated the lease.

Iverson & Munson, Inc., dealers in men's haberdashery and clothes has leased through Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., as broker, the store and basement at 10 East Forty-fourth Street, which was recently vacated by Rand Kardex Bureau, Inc.

The old buildings at 7-9-11 East Forty-fourth Street, where Iverson & Munson, Inc., has been located for a number of years, are being razed to make room for a new eighteen-story office building on a plot 81 by 100 feet. This firm has also leased through the same broker the entire fifth floor in the adjoining building at 12 East Forty-fourth Street.

White-Goodman, Inc., leased the store at 34 West Twenty-first Street to J. Eiseman; the fourth floor, 872 Broadway to A. Senetzer, and the store at 137 West Seventy-second Street to L. S. Jackson.

Steinholz & Sweedler have leased for Kohl Brothers the second floor in the building at 672 Eighth Avenue to Been Brothers & London for a term of years.

Randall Adds to Holdings.

Fred G. Randall has purchased a parcel of ground containing approximately fifteen lots from Mary T. Walker et al., through W. C. Woodburn, broker, between Northern Boulevard and Burnside Avenue on Seventieth and Seventy-first Streets, Queensboro, near Jackson Heights. Also, from the same seller, a plot 50 by 125 feet on the south side of Forty-fourth Avenue, between Seventy-second and Fisk Avenues, Winfield.

Sells Her Apartment Stock.

Payson McL. Merrill Company sold for Mrs. William J. Taylor to Mrs. Jonathan T. Lanman her stock and the proprietary lease of her apartment of thirteen rooms and five baths at 823 Park Avenue, adjoining the corner of Seventy-sixth Street.

Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. sold for J. H. C. Corporation an apartment of six rooms and three baths in the new 100 per cent. cooperative building being erected by Dwight P. Robinson & Co. at 1,170 Fifth Avenue to Mrs. Mary P. Lockwood.

Homeseeker Buys in Brooklyn.

The Knox Realty Company sold the two-family frame dwelling at 661 East Thirty-second Street, Brooklyn, for Martha L. Tantum, to a client for occupancy.

First Half of 1926 Shows Gain in Building Contracts

Building plans filed in New York for the first half of this year were 11 per cent. ahead of the same period in 1925, according to reports made public by S. W. Straus & Co. yesterday. The total was $516,040,504, compared with $464,332,239 last year, a gain of $51,708,265. Plans filed in June were $87,003,689, a gain of 13½ per cent. over last June, according to the Straus report.

All the boroughs excepting Brooklyn made gains in June, the most spectacular being in the Bronx, where an increase of 72 per cent. was shown. Manhattan led all the boroughs in volume for June, the amount being $25,935,777. The reports in detail were as follows:

	6 Months	June, 1926
Brooklyn	135,871,646	23,805,454
Bronx	111,031,790	16,919,858
Queens	97,827,263	19,230,325
Richmond	7,195,399	1,112,275
Totals	$516,040,504	$87,003,689

The figures for Queens include an estimate for June alterations.

69TH STREET SITE LET FOR 20-STORY HOTEL

$1,500,000 Project Planned for Plot on the West Side.

A twenty-story hotel is planned for a West Sixty-ninth Street plot as a result of a long term lease closed yesterday when the Minnaur Realty Company, Inc., took over for a term of eighty-four years the two five-story walkup flats at 72 and 74 West Sixty-ninth Street.

The properties, which are built on a plot 70 by 100 feet, have a basement on Columbus Avenue and were leased for Margaret B. Newington through the office of Del Sappenfield, Inc., in conjunction with Alfred P. Coburn. The properties have been in the hands of the lessor since 1906. According to a clause of the lease which gives the lessees an option to buy within seven years, the lessor agrees to keep the fees free and clear during the term of the lease.

The Minnaur Realty Company plans to erect a twenty-story hotel upon the plot at a cost of $1,500,000 as soon as possession is obtained.

Mrs. Anson B. Flower sold her property at 601 Fifth Avenue and 3 East Forty-eighth Street, forming an "L" around the northeast corner of Forty-eighth Street and Fifth Avenue. The purchaser, John Johnson, resold 3 East Forty-eighth Street to Charles Scribner & Sons, who will eventually use the side street building as an outlet to their Fifth Avenue shop. The entire transaction involves $1,500,000. Both properties are under net leases, one term ending in 1931 and the other in 1933. This property was originally owned by the late Governor Flower, who deeded the property to the present Mrs. Anson B. Flower. Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co., Inc., were the brokers.

Harold S. Budner purchased for an investing client 46 West 117th Street, a five-story tenement 25 by 100 feet. S. Horowitz was the seller. Louis Levine was broker in the transaction.

Antonio Angeloni sold 133 West Tenth Street, 22 by 75.6 feet, a three-story and basement, brick residence. A. W. Carmichael and A. Q. Orza were the brokers.

The Denison Realty Corporation sold the five-story and basement modern loft building situated at 33 Worth Street, northeast corner of West Broadway, covering a lot 26 by 50 feet. The building has been reconstructed and modernized by J. O'Dell Whitenack, builder, at a cost of about $25,000. The purchasers, Arthur C. Pomery and Henry M. Dean of the Pomery Company, manufacturers of surgical instruments, will hold the property as a permanent investment. The brokers were Charles G. Edwards & Co., and the Charles F. Noyes Company Inc.

ALIEN WINS QUOTA FIGHT.

Native of Russia, After Two Years of Litigation, May Remain Here.

A decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, filed yesterday, says that Enoch Kozak, a native of Minsk, Russia, may remain in this country notwithstanding that when he arrived here in March, 1924, the immigration quota for Russia had been exhausted. In court proceedings lasting two years, Buchler and Richman, counsel for Kozak, contended that while Kozak was born in Russia, he had lived more than five years in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and that this made him eligible to enter under the quota allowed that country, which had not been exhausted.

After a Board of Special Inquiry at Ellis Island excluded the applicant, a writ of habeas corpus was obtained by his counsel and was sustained by Federal Judge Learned Hand.

The Government appealed, and Federal Judge Winslow ruled that Kozak was not entitled to enter this country. The decision of the Circuit Court leaves Kozak free to remain. He has taken out his first citizenship papers and is employed by an uncle, a manufacturer of shoes and slippers.

FOR VALOR IN HOLD-UP.

Telephone Operator and Cashier of Roosevelt Hospital Get Checks.

Miss Edith M. Ware, telephone operator at the Roosevelt Hospital, and Joseph William Hudson, cashier, who saved about $7,500 during the hold-up of the institution on June 30, last, were rewarded yesterday for their bravery by the National Surety Company, which sent each of them a check for $200 with a personal letter of thanks and commendation from E. A. St. John, President of the surety company.

The Roosevelt Hospital will receive from National Surety about $9,000 under a burglary insurance policy. The payment completely covers the hospital's loss.

Vatican Salaries to Be Raised.

ROME, July 9 (AP).—Vatican salaries from the lowliest employes to Cardinals are to be considerably increased, the newspapers say, in order to meet the higher cost of living. A special committee is understood to be considering doubling the Cardinals' yearly salaries, which are now 24,000 lira.

INVESTOR BUYS LOFT.

East Nineteenth Street Commercial Building In Sale.

Charles M. De Rosa & Co. sold for the Goroka Realty Company, Inc., Samson Rosenblatt, President, the eight-story loft building at 39 East Nineteenth Street to an investor.

The same brokers leased for Benjamin Menschel a store at 164 East Thirty-fourth Street for a period of years to the Army and Navy Store Corporation. They also leased two stores for the Streeter Corporation in 2,201 Second Avenue to a furniture auctioneer and to a wood carving company for a period of years.

SELLERS TAKE PROFIT.

Richmond Hills Plot Increased $250 a Front Foot.

An increase of $250 a front foot in Richmond Hills values in a period of less than five weeks was registered yesterday when the Klopwing Realty Company resold through the Brunswick-Praver Company a twenty-foot lot on Park Street, near Myrtle Avenue.

About five weeks ago the sellers purchased the plot for a reported price of $1,500 a front foot. In the sale negotiated yesterday they obtained $1,750 a front foot for the property. Marie Buttner was the buyer.

Pompton Plains Residential Sale.

A. I. Rogers sold Pompton Plains, the property at the southwest corner of Park Avenue and the Pompton-Newark Turnpike, Pompton Plains, having 100 feet frontage on the Turnpike and 150 feet frontage on Park Avenue. A house to be erected on the plot which was also included in the sale. The purchaser was Samuel C. Manch. James Mooney, Inc., were the brokers.

Mount Vernon Auction Results.

Last Thursday evening Joseph P. Day realized at auction an average of $810 a lot for the business and residential lots at Kingsbridge Gardens, Mount Vernon. The property sold adjoins the Kingsbridge Road Station of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad. The business and residential sites have frontages on Kingsbridge Road, South Third, Fourth and Fifth Avenues.

DESULTORY TRADING SHOWN IN SUBURBS

Sharp Decline in Realty Deals Follows Midweek Increase in Sales Volume.

QUEENS SITES ARE ACTIVE

Several Vacant Parcels Involved in Changes of Ownership—Other Deals.

Desultory trading marked the suburban market yesterday. The sales volume, which gave every indication of widening activity in the middle of the week, suffered a sharp decline. The active area was again in Queens County, with a number of vacant parcels involved in changes of ownership.

Real estate brokers who operated extensively in the suburbs say that the falling off in sales is temporary and that the demand for homes and homesites throughout Long Island, Northern New Jersey and Westchester County shows that the market is in a healthy condition and that a resumption of heavy trading may be expected shortly.

The Lewis Development Company sold the 130-acre O'Connor Farm on Pine Hollow Road at Syosset to the Wheatley Gardens Realty Company. This property immediately adjoins the estates of Bronson Winthrop, James Burden and Mrs. Charles A. Senff.

The Thomson Hill Land and Improvement Company has sold an unrestricted plot suitable for a factory building, with a combined frontage of 200 feet on Van Pelt and Hulst Streets, Long Island City. S. T. Nierenberg was the broker. The same broker also sold to A. Greenfield an apartment house site on the corner of Nelson and Van Buren Streets, Long Island City.

James L. Ford of Brookhaven, L. I., has sold the northeast corner of Astoria and Fourth Avenues, Astoria, a plot 39 by 76 feet, irregular, to a local investor, who will improve with taxpayers. The Hub Realty Company was the broker.

The Bulkley & Horton Company sold the plot 20 by 131 feet on Merrick Road, 244 feet south of Cumberland Street, Jamaica, for Dr. William C. Durrin to a client for investment.

The Cross & Brown Company have sold for the estate of Clinton Gilbert the plot 40 by 100 feet on the south side of Ninth Street, 99 feet west of Van Alst Avenue, Long Island City.

The Schulte Real Estate Company, Inc., has sold to the Sail Realty Corporation the Bohack Building on Central Avenue, Far Rockaway, on a plot 50 by 110 feet, immediately adjoining the Keith Theatre, for investment. The brokers in the transaction were Louis J. Schwartz and Istrick & Nathan, Inc.

Mary E. Cole sold through James Purcell and Thomas Daly her private residence on Case Street, Elmhurst, on a plot 28 by 100 feet.

Mrs. F. M. Soule sold her residential property on the west side of South Mountain Avenue, between Llewellyn Road and Eagle Rock Way, Montclair, N. J., to E. K. Hall. The property has a frontage of 100 feet on South Mountain Avenue, extending 282 feet in depth with a frontage of 100 feet on Eagle Rock Way. It is improved with a frame residence. F. M. Crawley & Brothers were the brokers.

TODAY'S AUCTION SALES.

Kennelly and Murphy to Offer Nassau County Properties.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock William Kennelly, auctioneer, will sell to the highest bidders 450 residential waterfront lots known as Harbour Point, at Center Island, N. Y. This property directly adjoins the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club. Many of the lots front directly on Oyster Bay Harbor and Cold Springs Harbor. Those lots not fronting on the water will be given water rights.

James R. Murphy, Inc., auctioneers, will offer the 300 business and residential lots comprising Central Heights at Elmont, Nassau County, at a public sale to be held on the premises at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The lots have frontages on Central Avenue, Fosters Meadow Road and adjoining streets and avenues.

Sales in Flatbush Centre.

Realty Associates reported yesterday the sale of Flatbush Centre houses as follows: 1,923 East Thirty-fifth Street to Richard H. Sedgwick, 1,961 East Thirty-fifth Street to John Bollbach, 3,619 Fillmore Avenue to Gustav A. Fredin, 1,915 East Thirty-fifth Street to William C. Bennett, 1,921 East Thirty-fifth Street to Charles H. Wash, 1,924 East Thirty-fourth Street to Alexander J. Byrnes, 1,963 East Thirty-fifth Street to Dennis McGuiness, 1,963 East Thirty-fourth Street to William J. Achenbach, 1,927 East Thirty-fourth Street to John A. Fives and 12 Tampa Court to Stephen G. Finnegan.

BRONX—FOR SALE OR TO LET. BRONX—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

I Invite You To See The Other Fellow's Property First

Travel around the neighborhood a bit. See Clason Point to the west of us. Study the lay of the land and inquire prices. Look over Throgg's Neck to the east of us. Study the ground there and inquire for prices. Perhaps you will want to stand on a stepladder to see the prices at these places. Don't misunderstand me; they are both good places; that's why I name them.

But then, and only then, Come down and look over

CASTLE HILL ESTATE
Overlooking Westchester Bay

See our high elevation and low prices. See the views so wonderful for a big city. See our graded streets and the sewers. See the houses up and going up. Consider what high prices we might justly ask; then consider:

$1,000 per lot for good lots;
$1,100 per lot for better lots;
$1,250 per lot for very fine lots; and
$3,150 per lot for Castle Hill Ave. lots.

Finally, compare our transit facilities with other places. Note the subway through Westchester Avenue and the bus line through Castle Hill Avenue.

Come live on a hill in sight of the water.

Take Lexington Ave. Subway (Pelham Bay Division) to Castle Hill Ave. Station and go south to property; or take 180th Street crosstown trolley to Castle Hill Ave. and go south to property.

No Better Investment

Can be found on Long Island. Why?

Because Nirvana Gardens runs for 2000 feet along Middle Neck Road and property values on this street have increased 600% to 700% in the last 3 years.

Because this land is fully improved and has a remarkable natural beauty—old trees, broad meadows, gentle slopes.

Because 24 houses are now under construction.

And because it is only a 10 minute walk from Great Neck Station which is just 26 minutes from Penn Station—70 trains a day.

REAL ESTATE SALESMEN.

SUCCESS.

Opportunity is at some time presented to every one. The successful man is merely the one who sees and grasps his opportunity. There are many offers on this page showing ways for you to make money. We are offering more than money. We are building the foundation of a great real estate selling organization. Laying the first stones. We know we rank as leaders in our field—our business connections insure that—but our success depends on our surrounding ourselves with men who can grow with us. Our salesmen of today on a commission basis will be our executives in the shortest time you have ever seen promotions made. If you believe in yourself call at our office and we will offer you opportunity in every sense of the word.

"A1" GRAHAM WILL SEE YOU!

As a matter of fact you don't have to see me at all; see any of my men; let them tell you how much commission money they are making—and then you'll want to see me, I know. After all, the test of any development proposition is how does it sell. Pine Terrace is today one of the fastest selling properties on Long Island; the past week proved that conclusively.

Now my door is open to salesmen of ability and character. I'm looking ahead because when we get through with Pine Terrace—and that won't be so long—we are going to our next operation. My people, the Chatham Associates, Inc., have $7,000,000 property holdings; we are out to build the strongest selling organization of its kind; the fellows who start now will naturally have the "edge." I'm telling you.

Come up and get the complete story; you will find us operating a little differently; no high-pressure selling; just natural common sense. If you're the right sort for us, you'll feel at home. Come in.

JAIL INQUIRY ASKED IN WESTCHESTER

Commission Seeks Reason for Long Detention of Two Convicted Murderers.

DUTCHESS HAS A 'DUNGEON'

Report Declares Cells Are Not Clean in the Jefferson Market Prison.

ALBANY, July 9 (AP).—Detention of a man and woman, each convicted of murder, in Westchester County jail as witnesses in the case of a prisoner executed two months ago, was revealed in a report of inspection of the institution made public today by the State Commission of Prisons. Another inmate had been locked up, without trial, since October, the report says.

At the same time the Prisons Commission approved reports of inspection of Jefferson Market Prison, Manhattan, and the Dutchess County jail at Poughkeepsie. At the former it was found that cells "are not kept as clean as is possible with all the help available." Regret also was expressed that Mayor Walker in carrying out his retrenchment plan, had found it necessary to cancel an appropriation of $750,000 for the erection of a house of detention for women on the Jefferson Market site.

A "dungeon-like" section for men and male minors was found at the Dutchess County jail, caused chiefly by windows which were painted to prevent observation. Recommendation was made that "everything possible" should be done to improve the condition.

The woman prisoner at the Westchester County jail, the report says, "sentenced to Auburn prison for murder, is being held as a witness since Oct. 19, 1924." The man, sentenced to Sing Sing, had been held since June 4, 1925.

Asks for an Investigation.

The Westchester jail inspection was made on June 26 by Commissioner John S. Kennedy, who has called on the Secretary of the Prison Commission and the Westchester County District Attorney for an investigation into the continued detention of the murder convicts and into the case of the prisoner held since last October without trial.

Commissioner Kennedy found a violation of the classification law in the women's quarters, where one witness was held with female prisoners; and in the male section two minors were not properly segregated from other prisoners.

The commission urged the County Board of Supervisors to proceed as soon as possible with the selection of a new site for a jail, providing, among other things, an adequate jail for women. Meantime, the report said, "the Sheriff should refuse to receive any women police prisoners from the City of White Plains, where women's quarters are available."

At the Jefferson Market prison the commission urged modification of present rules to permit social workers to enter the prison other than through the main street entrance, and praised the Florence Crittenton League for its "great helpfulness" to the city in the handling of unfortunate and wayward girls. Figures on arraignments of women held in the prison for women's day court showed 2,597 in 1925, 2,950 in 1924 and 3,066 in 1923.

Urge New Buildings at New Hampton

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 9.—In a report of conditions at New Hampton, which is a part of the correctional system of New York city, where only male misdemeanants between 16 and 30 years old are held, Commissioner Cecilia D. Patton and Clifford M. Young, chief inspector, urge the authorities to see that the building program of the institution is continued.

It was found that the hospital is not completely equipped; that sterilizers have been purchased but never connected with electricity and so are useless. It was also recommended that a psychiatrist be appointed as assistant physician and that the position of assistant superintendent also be filled as soon as possible under the civil service regulations. The suggestion was made that the appointee be promoted from the eligible employes of the institution.

The school of letters was abandoned some time ago because suitable teachers could not be obtained for the salary available. "This is most unfortunate," said the report, "as it is estimated that at least 14 per cent. are illiterate and foreign-speaking inmates who need, perhaps more than anything else, the benefit of at least an elementary education. The schoolhouse planned for this institution has not been built, and, like the chapel, the school is a tentative arrangement."

Urge Abandonment of Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, July 9.—Definite action on the abandonment of the Westchester County Jail and the erection of a new one is expected to be taken by the Board of Supervisors, as the result of a report, signed by John S. Kennedy of the State Commission on Prisons.

The report was sent to Sheriff Arthur Maudlin and Warden John J. Hill, who refused to discuss it. Among the notations were the remarks that a woman had been held there as a witness since October, 1924, and a man sentenced for murder has been held here as a witness since June, 1925.

These are Kitty McCormick, formerly of Hoboken, and William McNamara, formerly of New York, who were witnesses against Emil Klatt, a Hoboken gangster recently executed for the murder of Gregorio George of Dobbs Ferry. The pair had been sentenced because of their omplicity in the murder, which occurred ten years ago. Klatt was not apprehended until 1924.

At the office of District Attorney Arthur Rowland it was said the reason for not returning the McCormick woman to Auburn Prison and McNamara to Sing Sing was that it was feared that other prisoners at these institutions would kill them for having "squealed."

The report recommends "that the commission urge the Westchester County Board of Supervisors to proceed as soon as possible with the selection of a new site for a jail in this county, providing, among other things, an adequate jail for women."

SCORES PRESCRIPTIONS FOR DRUG ADDICTS

Judge McDevitt Tells Narcotics Meeting Some Physicians Block Curative Drive.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—The five-day session of the first World Conference on Narcotic Education came to a close in this city today, with Judge Harry S. McDevitt of Philadelphia delivering a scathing denunciation of professional reformers and physicians who write prescriptions for addicts to obtain morphine and heroin.

"There will always be a dope menace," he said, "so long as there are doctors with prescription blanks, bank accounts and no consciences. The physician who prescribes drugs for addicts is worse than a murderer, highwayman or safe-cracker.

"Next to the unscrupulous physician the greatest harm in the movement to stamp out the use of narcotics is the professional reformer. Left jobless by prohibition, he has turned to the 'cause' of narcotics, and his next move will be against tobacco. There is no place for him in the controlling of the drug traffic."

He spoke of the campaign against narcotic drugs started in this city by Judge Monahan in 1922, and said that no man sentenced for peddling drugs has been paroled or will be paroled and that no addict has been paroled until pronounced cured.

Judge McDevitt declared that Philadelphia's narcotic supply is now being brought each week from New York City by motor car, since the police under Sergeant Frank Dunn, head of the city's narcotic squad, has prevented the shipment by either mail or express. The ferreting out of the supply is a very difficult thing, he added, in praising Sergeant Dunn for his work.

It was announced by Richard P. Hobson, Secretary General of the conference, that the next convention would be held in London in 1927 and that $25,000 had been contributed by the International Narcotic Education Association to pay the expenses of the Secretariat for the first year. The Secretariat is to be established in Los Angeles, with branches in Washington and New York City.

Dr. Clarence J. Owens, Director General of the conference, in his report recommended the establishment of the Hobson Foundation Oratorical Contests on the subject of narcotic education, to be contested by school children throughout the country.

BRITISH RAILWAY MEN REFUSE TO HELP MINERS

Reject Cook's Appeal to Stop the Transportation of Imported Coal.

WEYMOUTH, England, July 9 (AP).—An appeal from A. J. Cook, miners' secretary, to the railwaymen to support the miners' strike by refusing to handle imported coal was rejected by the delegates' conference of the National Union of Railwaymen today.

MOSCOW, July 9 (AP).—Tass, the official Soviet news agency, says that "Soviet labor unions consider the phase which the British miners strike is now entering as inspiring great apprehension regarding its issue." The statement is made in connection with an announcement that A. J. Cook, Secretary of the British Miners' Federation, and others, have appealed to Russian labor unions for further help.

Tass says that the Russian Central Council is sending the British Miners' Federation a further contribution of 370,000 rubles.

M. Dogadoff, Secretary of the Central Council, is quoted as saying that the "defeat of the British miners would seriously affect the whole international labor movement." He also is quoted as saying that there is a pressing necessity for the formation of an Anglo-Russian committee of unity. A proposal for such a committee already has been cabled to the British trade unions, but has only drawn a reply, which Secretary Dogadoff considers vague and perplexing to the Russian unions.

MRS. SOPER GETS NEW TRIAL

Appeals Court Decides for Woman Convicted of Killing Husband.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, July 9.—Mrs. Fannie Soper, under sentence of death for the murder of her husband, Henry Soper of Bouquet, Essex County, a farmer and deputy sheriff, received a new trial by the Court of Appeals today. Judge Irving Lehman wrote the opinion. Judges Pound and McLaughlin dissented. Mrs. Soper had declined to ask Governor Smith for leniency.

"The jury verdict must rest not merely upon the possibility," Judge Lehman wrote, "that the defendant may have committed the crime, but upon proof which removes any reasonable doubt that she did commit it.

"Where the proof relied upon is as in this case, circumstantial, the presence or absence of apparent motive and the friendliness of the relations of the parties are circumstances which may greatly diminish or increase the force of other evidence tending to show guilt."

MICHIGAN CYCLONE KILLS 3.

Hundreds of Trees Uprooted by Tornado Near Buchanan.

BUCHANAN, Mich., July 9 (AP).—A tornado dipped into the fertile St. Joseph Valley today, devastated a little island in the river, two miles north of here, and snatched three lives away.

The dead:

Mrs. Bernard Powell, 32, Buchanan.

Mary English, 6, sister of Mrs. Powell, Mexico City, Ind.

Florabelle Powell, 5, daughter of Mrs. Powell.

The mother's body was severed by a heavy timber. Another sister, Grace English, 12, was critically injured, and two other members of the family, Bernard Powell and his son, James, 10, suffered painful cuts and bruises.

The storm-struck at noon, leveling several small cottages on the island. The twister uprooted several hundred trees over a half-mile-wide path, extending nearly a mile westward.

FEDERATION WARNS ON MISSION TO RUSSIA

Labor Union Chiefs Repudiate Efforts to Set Up Commission to Visit Soviet.

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP).—Warning against sending a mission to Soviet Russia in tse name of American labor, an appeal to organized labor for funds to assist the striking British miners, and an assault on organizations believed to be Communist came today from the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

The Council said efforts were being made by some labor men and others to form a commission to visit Russia and other European countries for "the ostensible purpose of making an investigation of econemic, industrial, social and political conditions."

"We seriously doubt the good faith of such a self-constituted commission," the Council said. "We cannot believe any representative or officer of organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor will accept membership on such a commission."

The Council said its stand would remain unmodified until such time as the Federation, through its legally constituted tribunals, clothed a commission with authority to make such a trip.

In its appeal for funds for the British strikers, the Council said the money "will be used exclusively for the purpose of supplying food, clothing and the necessaries of life to the miners' families." Their condition was described as "deplorable." This appeal, it was explained, was in response to a request from the British miners' federation.

Attacking Communist activities, the Council dealt with what it termed "organizations assuming to speak for labor, in the name of labor and which the Executive Council believes are communistic in make-up, in principle and in purpose."

The "United Front Committee' backing the Passaic textile strike was mentioned, the statement being made that its leaders "are prominently identified with the communistic movement in the United States."

It was explained that the Council, inspired by "sentiments of humanity," had not interfered with contributions to the textile strikers but that it was of the opinion that "any contributions made by members of organized labor should be used for the purpose of relieving distress among the striking textile workers and their families."

It was suggested that such contributions be made through a "bona fide labor organization" so that they could not be used in paying those "individual leaders who are associated with the Communist organization and who are hostile to the American Federation of Labor, its principles and its policies."

ASSAILS CHICAGO DIVORCES.

Judge Holds Half Granted There Are Obtained by Fraud.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Reno in its palmiest days never equaled Chicago as a divorce mill, where at least 50 per cent. of the divorces granted are fraudently obtained, Judge Joseph B. David declared today after listening to evidence on the involved matrimonial affairs of Arthur Edson, 65, of Oak Park, who seeks his freedom on a writ of habeas corpus from imprisonment on a charge of wife abandonment.

"Chicago and its divorces are notorious," declared Judge David. "There is not a place in the world, at least not in America, where divorces are so easily obtained. They come from far and wide to get one of our easy divorces. I should say that 50 per cent. of them are fraudulently obtained."

Hughes to Tour Italy by Motor.

ROME, July 9 (AP).—Charles E. Hughes, who has been in Rome for a fortnight, expects to leave on Sunday for a motor tour through the hill towns of Umbria and Tuscany. He will visit Florence, Venice, the Italian lakes, and Switzerland and later go to France and England. Mr. Hughes described his interview with Premier Mussolini as most interesting, and said he would carry away with him pleasant recollections of his audience with Pope Pius.

NAVY ESTABLISHES SIX COLLEGE UNITS

Graduates of Four-Year Course Will Be Commissioned in the Reserve Corps.

TO USE ANNAPOLIS SYSTEM

Harvard, Yale, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, California and Washington Get Units.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Naval training units will be established at six institutions, beginning with the Fall term, the Navy Department announced today. The training will consist of a four-year course and graduates will be commissioned as Ensigns in the volunteer Naval Reserve.

Training units will be opened at Harvard, Yale, the Georgia Institute of Technology, Northwestern University, the University of California and the University of Washington. The establishment of these units was authorized by act of Congress in 1925, which made appropriations available from July 1 this year.

Enrollment has been limited to 200 in each of the six colleges, while a minimum of fifty is required. The Navy Department hopes to enroll only sixty students in each college for the initial year. Future enrollments will be based from year to year on the strength of the classes remaining at the end of the year.

The course planned by the Bureau of Navigation will be elective and limited to American citizens. The naval subjects covered will be credited toward the academic degree. Students will be furnished with uniforms patterned after those worn at the Naval Academy. Equipment will be supplied without cost.

The four years' course in naval science and tactics will be divided into two parts, the basic and the advanced. The basic course will consist of two years' instruction in seamanship, navigation and ordnance and will be available only to first and second year classes. The advanced course, with a minimum of five hours per week, will be available to students who have successfully completed the basic course and who are in their junior and senior academic years.

The department intends to make these college units the naval academies of the reservists, giving the students the same basic training as that given at Annapolis.

The following officers will command the units: Yale, Captain F. D. Berrien; Harvard, Captain A. H. Rice; Georgia Institute of Technology, Commander John J. London; University of California, Commander C. W. Nimitz; University of Washington, Commander James P. Olding; Northwestern University, Commander Stephen B. McKinney.

ONE DEAD IN CIRCUS CRASH.

Seven Others Hurt at Erie, Pa., as Storm Wrecks Big Tent.

ERIE, Pa., July 9 (AP).—One man was killed and seven others injured, some seriously, tonight when a heavy wind and rain storm wrecked a large tent housing spectators of a circus given by the 101 Ranch.

The accident occurred just before the evening performance. A storm threatened and orders had been given to tighten the ropes.

Before this could be done the storm broke, lifting the tent and its heavy poles high in the air. The tent then dropped on the audience and the crowd became excited. Cowboys on horses aided in preserving order.

HOW GERMANY LOST THE WAR! BY THE KAISER

Astounding revelations of the ex-Emperor's innermost views, answering questions which have long puzzled the world: Why the Battle of the Marne was lost—Why the bloody siege of Verdun was maintained—How the Kaiser intrigued for a separate peace with Russia—Why they underestimated the power of the United States—What bitter struggles went on behind the scenes with the General Staff over the policy of unrestricted submarine warfare—Why the German fleet did not issue forth for battle until almost the closing days of the war.

Also the Kaiser tells: How the German Chancellor's conscience was affected by the invasion of Belgium—How the German High Command spread bolshevism in the Russian Army—And how the Kaiser was urged to place himself at the head of his troops and seek death on the field of battle. With amazing frankness he bares the hidden motives of German diplomacy up to and during the World War.

In tomorrow's American he explains Germany's pre-war attitude toward Britain and Russia; the inner workings of the Pan-Slav movement, and the reason why Germany had to back Austria's ultimatum to Serbia.
